

completion

In conclusion, the PedLift would make for a very plausible product which could change the dynamic of healthcare in the future. By reducing the strain on the caregiver in the transfer process, the PedLift could prevent the resignation of thousands of healthcare workers. In addition to reducing injuries for both caregivers and patients, the PedLift would also lessen the strain on the healthcare system as a whole, while the Baby Boomer Generation near nursing home age.