

Each door slides independently, allowing access to only the food you need and keeping as much cold air contained as possible

The height of each shelf and the color of the handle help the user to understand what kind of food is supposed to go on that shelf to properly arrange the refrigerator so that the food is correctly chilled

The colors can also be used to help keep track of how much food has been taken from each shelf