

NetBook.rs is the new quarterly magazine from the editors of Rolling Stone covering the Internet and the latest electronic technology, providing a fresh perspective on digital culture. Like the two issues before, this third installment of NetBook.rs is its very own magazine within a magazine, with the same brilliant writing, smart thinking and captivating photography you've come to expect from Rolling Stone.

NetBook.rs is positioned for maximum impact, inside the center spread with its very own front and back covers.
