

Development

Though presentations on these concepts, we were able to eliminate all but two concepts to have at the end of the year. The ideas and development of this product evolved through the different meetings with an employee from Charbroil. The idea behind this concept was to store grilling tools away from dirty settings while grilling.

CAD models made used to CNC into foam to make molds for the tool rest.