You don't run with the pack ...

Why print where you're lost in the stampede?

There is a reason you're called an independent publisher. You have a profound passion for your subject matter, an intimate relationship with your audience...and your own creative approach to presenting the quality of your publication. Your fingerprints are on all aspects of your publishing enterprise, including your choice of printers.

Lane Press shares your dedication to independence. Amid all of the industry consolidation and the growth of large factory printers, we stand alone. We serve our customers—not shareholders—first and foremost. We have our eye on your magazine, not on our next acquisition. Like you, we are dedicated to our market, and we are committed to charting our own course—as we have done for over 100 years.

Lane Press is a prominent full-service printer of short- and medium-run magazines and related publications. We are a privately held, environmentally friendly company with complete, modern printing and production capabilities under one roof. For premium-quality service and production, join Lane Press and the award-winning publications we serve.
