

The Center for Children & Technology was the venue for a perfect culmination to Planning Phoebe's Field. We were excited to arrive there, be there, and to show. Overall, we feel the event was a wild success. As a team, though we had great trepidation approaching the deadline, we knew this time that we had somehow found a binding for our ideas. Our only question was whether we could make that clear to the Advisory Board.

