

As visitors enter Phoebe's Field they encounter a grid of the magnetic vanes and an intertwined grid work of light reactive nodes. The visitors stand on the nodes and the light intensifies as the number of visitors in contact with the node increase. The magnetic vanes surrounding the visitors began to react to the light. The split section of the vanes orient them towards the most intensely lit node in the room. The intent is to indicate the impact of visitors on the field.

