Subject line: Inside: Key to unlock unlimited creative ideas

Hi Sarah,

I have been there before.

That moment when you stare at the blank page for hours. When you scratch your head but nothing pops up. When you finally give up and scream into the pillow.

Like you, I too have given halfway and have dumped countless rough drafts in the recycle bin.

Why?

Because I didn't have a good idea to write my fiction piece.

As creative writers, we need ideas. And not just any ideas, the kind of ideas that creep inside our reader's skin and hook their brain.

I bet you are nodding your head in affirmation.

But where can you find great ideas? How do you unearth these brilliant hidden gems?

That's the answer you'll find inside IdeaSpark.

If you haven't checked it yet. Read all about IdeaSpark here:

In 3 months' time, you can transform from a lost writer to an idea- generating machine.

Want an idea for a short story that can get published in your dream magazine?

It's inside your brain.

And we will teach you how to find and use it inside IdeaSpark.

Register here before the doors close.
