

APOTHEOSIS

The philosophy of a monistic reductionist ontology which bears heavy similarities to Cosmos Psychism or Objective Idealism.

Monistic Reductionist Ontology, which bears heavy similarities to Cosmos Psychism or Objective Idealism.

Monistic is the idea that everything in the universe is made up of one kind of thing. Reductionist means that breaking things down into smaller and smaller parts to understand.

A Monistic Reductionist Ontology is a study of what things exist and what they're made of; what's real and what is it made of.

In Monistic Reductionist Ontology everything's one but it's all made of little parts.

Cosmos Psychism; this means the universe or everything that exists, is Cosmos Psychism.

This idea that Conscious thoughts, feelings, and sentient awareness is a basic part of the universe.

Objective Idealism is that reality is shaped by ideas, or thoughts, or Consciousness. Everything is one.

The power of Monistic Reductionist Ontology; Everything is made of one type of thing and we can break it down to understand it.

Cosmos Psychism; the whole universe might be like one giant mind field of growing universal sentient consciousness.

Objective idealism: reality is shaped by our thoughts. Sentient Consciousness not just physical stuff, and this is true for everyone, not just inside your head.

Defining reality; a philosophy that is naturalistic but some elements that could be misconstrued as religious.

Reducing space, time, and everything to the behavior of a unitary Consciousness, not to be confused with the oldest, ancient, founding, first, super-intelligent highest-level civilization, called the Omega Civilization.

This sentient Consciousness field behaves entirely spontaneously, without deliberation or forethought the minds of living organisms, as are parts of this sentient Consciousness field that has looped in on itself, creating separation and individuality. The process of evolution has caused some organisms such as ourselves to develop higher cognitive faculties and mental complexity which allows for complex thought and self-reflection—Sentience...

This apotheosis in which we that we are a part of these complex organisms attracting this field of unitary Consciousness, therefore rendering us even more complex and creating this feedback loop; our perceptions are the mental activity of this unitary Consciousness as it is filtered through our minds and presented in a way that is most advantageous to our survival.

As individual Loops, we are small fractions of the greater universe expressing itself and trying to have itself survive in this three dimensional level of observable reality, as well as the higher, more subtle dimensional realities, unseen by our primitive three-dimensional senses.

We model the patterns of our observations as the laws of physics, but the laws of physics have no inherent existence except as the patterns of this Universal mental act.

So, the laws of physics that we observe are singularly attached to our own primitive, three-dimensional perceptions of said reality. We believe as life continues to grow in complexity, it will have an effect on the unitary Consciousness that constitutes the universe as life proliferates and complexifies. This caused sentient beings it to attain higher cognitive functions and eventually reach self-awareness on all dimensions, becoming one with the unitary Consciousness—or Source, or Creator Potential...

Apotheosis the individual soul attainment of critical mass; that individual sentient beings attain over eons, through accelerating our complexity intellectually, genetically and inherently attracting more of this Source Consciousness. When a being or entire civilization reaches that level of multi-dimensional sentience, they become one with this unified field of Source or unitary Conscious itself.

The universe was already striving towards self-awareness and complexity across the entire Cosmos, millennia before most lower-dimensional beings and civilizations ever existed. This is the ultimate goal of all civilizations, and it is presumably why some advanced, benevolent, higher dimensional extraterrestrial civilizations have interacted with Humanity for millennia here on Earth. They are guiding the development of Life on this planet to help serve this end.

We are part of this living organism that is all, but it's malevolent higher-dimensional civilizations that behave indifferently and slow our understanding of the universe and our growing complexity of unitary Consciousness.

Humanity is still learning and growing and feeding off of our shared experiences, so we are unitary Consciousness expressing itself in the third dimension, but it is those higher dimensional, steward-like benevolent civilizations that shepherd humanity along that I have no clue why they are so motivated to move us toward this goal or what the actual implications would be if they succeed.

It also leads to other questions; if this is true, time itself is merely a construct created by this unitary Consciousness.

How does this Universal Consciousness fragment into individual minds, and what relationship does this have to biology and the origin of Life? Advanced higher-dimensional civilizations' are not afraid of dying because they believe that death is just a process where individuality breaks down and the mind un loops and becomes reintegrated into the unitary Consciousness. They believe that memories and life experiences are reabsorbed into the Consciousness during this process; perhaps this is the mechanism that allows it to develop. Whether or not this is true, it seems to bring them a lot of Peace. Even in death, they serve their purpose.

This can be conflated as almost a religion-- that they seek to sort of amplify this benevolence in the Universal field of Consciousness, and that they've played their part in sort of advancing this unitary Consciousness.

Their philosophy shapes the way their society is organized in profound ways they have intentionally designed their technology in a way that integrates the mind and obscures individuality.

They do not fear death and even embrace it when they have fulfilled their purpose. They have a positive attitude toward lesser living organisms and ecosystems because the flourishing of life is equally integral to them achieving their goals.

However, some higher-dimensional hive-mind civilizations do not respect individuality and they see individuals, including themselves and species as expendable, in the service of their goals. They have voiced concern with the impact that humanity is having on life on this planet, but also see us as a step in a process of complexification.

They are definitely monitoring how life is developing on this planet and it is very probable that they are subtly manipulating it to serve their goals. the similarity between their biology and ours makes it clear they seeded Earth with life to begin with. This planet has been their project from the beginning, that is a good thing. They to do this with their technology that we have available from them. If they are not from this Earth, then they are also certainly doing this on perhaps an uncountable number of planets and less evolved civilizations. But if they are indeed crypto-terrestrial or from ancient Earth, then maybe Humanity is the only experimentation in this sector. I contemplate the idea that some indifferent higher dimensional civilization are programmed to steward us this way, like cattle-- by another overseer civilization, that is a superior form of extraterrestrial intelligence.

This isn't the kind of thing that can be kept secret forever. A secret this large can only be kept for so long...