

Reptilian, Mantis, and Nordic Alien Theories

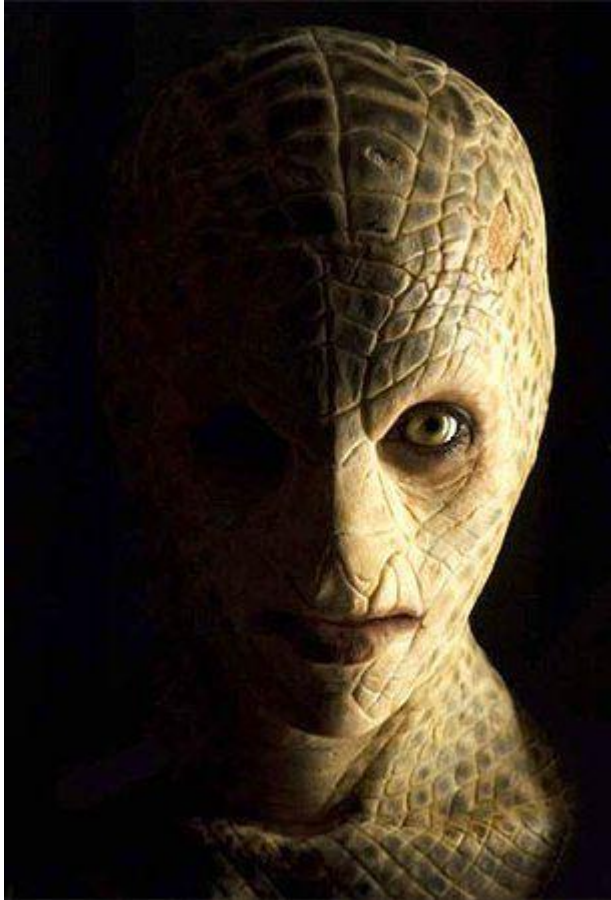

An artist's conception comparing reptilians to humans

Reptilians

(also called reptoids,^[1] archons,^[2] reptiloids, saurians, draconians,^{[3][4][5]} or lizard people^[6]) are supposed reptilian humanoids, which play a prominent role in fantasy, science fiction, ufology, and conspiracy theories.^{[7][8]} The idea of reptilians was popularised by David Icke, a conspiracy theorist who claims shapeshifting reptilian aliens control Earth by taking on human form and gaining political power to manipulate human societies. Icke has stated on multiple occasions that many world leaders are, or are possessed by, so-called reptilians.

Some conspiracy theorists espousing the extraterrestrial hypothesis claim they either come from the Draco constellation or the Orion constellation or are allies with nefarious extraterrestrials from the Orion constellation.

Others claim they are interdimensional, coming from another universe or dimension.

Origins

Michael Barkun, professor of political science at Syracuse University, posits that the idea of a reptilian conspiracy originated in the fiction of Conan the Barbarian creator Robert E. Howard, in his story "The Shadow Kingdom", published in Weird Tales in August 1929.^[9] This story drew on theosophical ideas of the "lost worlds" of Atlantis and Lemuria, particularly Helena Blavatsky's The Secret Doctrine written in 1888, with its reference to "'dragon-men' who once had a mighty civilization on a Lemurian continent".^{[10][11]}

Howard's "serpent men" were described as humanoids (with human bodies and snake heads) who were able to imitate humans at will, and who lived in underground passages and used their shapechanging and mind-control abilities to infiltrate humanity.^[9] Clark Ashton Smith used Howard's "serpent men" in his stories, as well as themes from H. P. Lovecraft, and he, Howard and Lovecraft together laid the basis for the Cthulhu Mythos.^[12]

In the 1940s, American occultist Maurice Doreal (also known as Claude Doggins)^[13] wrote a pamphlet entitled "Mysteries of the Gobi" that described a "serpent race" with "bodies like man but...heads...like a great snake" and an ability to take human form.^[14] These creatures also appeared in Doreal's poem "The Emerald Tablets", in which he referred to Emerald Tablets written by "Thoth, an Atlantean Priest king". Barkun asserts that "in all likelihood", Doreal's ideas came from "The Shadow Kingdom", and that in turn, "The Emerald Tablets" formed the basis for David Icke's book, Children of the Matrix.^[15]

Historian Edward Guimont has argued that the reptilian conspiracy theory, particularly as expounded by Icke, drew from earlier pseudohistorical legends developed during the colonisation of Africa, particularly surrounding Great Zimbabwe and the mokele-mbembe.^[16]

Alien abduction

Alien abduction narratives sometimes allege contact with reptilian creatures.^[17] One of the earliest reports was that of Ashland, Nebraska police officer Herbert Schirmer, who under hypnosis recalled being taken aboard a UFO in 1967 by humanoid beings with a slightly reptilian appearance, who wore a "winged serpent" emblem on the left side of their chests.^{[18][19]} Skeptics consider his claims to be a hoax.^[20]

David Icke

According to British conspiracy theorist David Icke, who first published on this theme in his 1999 work The Biggest Secret, tall, blood-drinking, shape-shifting reptilian humanoids from the Alpha Draconis star system, now hiding in underground bases, are the force behind a worldwide conspiracy against humanity.^[21] He contends that most of the world's ancient and modern leaders are related to these reptilians, including the Merovingian dynasty, the Rothschilds, the Bush family and the British Royal family.^[22] Icke's conspiracy theories now have supporters in up to 47 countries and he has given lectures to crowds of up to 6,000 people.^{[23][24]}

American writer Vicki Santillano included Icke's conspiracy theory in her list of the 10 most popular conspiracy theories.^[25] A poll of Americans in 2013 by Public Policy Polling indicated that 4% of registered voters ($\pm 2.8\%$) believed in David Icke's ideas.^[26]

Politics

A protest sign referring to reptilian politicians

On September 12, 2003, during the provincial election campaign in Ontario, Canada, the Ernie Eves campaign issued a news release that called opponent Dalton McGuinty an "evil reptilian kitten-eater from another planet".^[27] The words appeared at the end of the news release. Eves said the epithet was meant as a joke, and acknowledged the words were "over the top", but refused to apologize.^[27]

In the closely fought 2008 U.S. Senate election in Minnesota between comedian and commentator Al Franken and incumbent Senator Norm Coleman, one of the ballots challenged by Coleman included a vote for Franken with "Lizard People" written in the space provided for write-in candidates.^[28] Lucas Davenport, who later claimed to have written the gag ballot, said, "I don't know if you've heard the conspiracy theory about the Lizard Men; a friend of mine, we didn't like the candidates, so we were at first going to write in 'revolution', because we thought that was good and to the point. And then, we thought 'the Lizard People' would be even funnier."^[29] Franken won the election after recount.

In February 2011, on the Opie and Anthony radio show, the comedian Louis C.K. jokingly asked former U.S. Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld a number of times if he and Dick Cheney were lizard people who enjoyed the taste of human flesh. Amused by Rumsfeld's refusal to directly answer the question, C.K. suggested it was a possible admission of guilt. He went on to further muse that perhaps those who are lizard people cannot lie about it; when asked if they are lizards, they either have to avoid answering the question or say yes.^[30]

On March 4, 2013, a video depicting a security agent with unusual features guarding a speech by U.S. President Barack Obama was spotlighted in a Wired report about shapeshifting reptilian humanoids. This led to a tongue-in-cheek response from chief National Security Council spokeswoman Caitlin Hayden who said "any alleged program to guard the president with aliens or robots would likely have to be scaled back or eliminated in the sequester".^[31]

In October, 2022, Dutch MP Thierry Baudet, head of the far-right Forum for Democracy, said in an interview with the "Geopolitics and Empire" podcast that he believes that the world is "being governed by evil reptiles."^[32]

Some adherents of the QAnon conspiracy theory have also borrowed from the reptilian conspiracy theory,^[33] including elements shared in anti-Semitism conspiracy theories.^[34]

See also

- Ancient astronauts
- Capgras syndrome
- Demon
- Dinosauroid
- "Eight O'clock in the Morning" by Ray Nelson
- Skrulls & Secret Invasion
- Iron Sky: The Coming Race
- Gamehendge
- Grey alien
- List of alleged UFO-related extraterrestrials
- List of conspiracy theories
- List of reptilian humanoids
- Lizard Man of Scape Ore Swamp
- Men in black
- Narn
- Silurians
- Sleestak
- They Live
- V
- Worldwar

References

- [^] Joyce, Judith (2011). The Weiser field guide to the paranormal abductions, apparitions, ESP, synchronicity, and more unexplained phenomena from other realms. San Francisco: Weiser Books. pp. 80–81. ISBN 978-1609252984. Archived from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 3 August 2014.
- [^] Lynskey, Dorian (6 November 2014). "Psycho lizards from Saturn: The godlike genius of David Icke!". NewStatesman. Retrieved 2021-12-02.
- [^] Marty Crump; Danté Bruce Fenolio (2015). Eye of Newt and Toe of Frog, Adder's Fork and Lizard's Leg: The Lore and Mythology of Amphibians and

- Reptiles. University of Chicago Press. p. 56. ISBN 978-0-226-11600-6. Archived from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 13 October 2017.
4. ^ Alfred Lambremont Webre (17 November 2015). The Omniverse: Transdimensional Intelligence, Time Travel, the Afterlife, and the Secret Colony on Mars. Simon and Schuster. p. 53. ISBN 978-1-59143-216-6. Archived from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 13 October 2017.
 5. ^ Leo Lyon Zagami (2016). Confessions of an Illuminati, Volume II: The Time of Revelation and Tribulation Leading Up to 2020. CCC Publishing. p. 131. ISBN 978-1-888729-62-7. Archived from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 13 October 2017.
 6. ^ "How to Spot the Reptilians Running the U.S. Government". TheAtlantic.com. Oct 31, 2013. Archived from the original on April 8, 2016. Retrieved June 22, 2017.
 7. ^ Lewis, Tyson; Richard Kahn (Winter 2005). "The Reptoid Hypothesis: Utopian and Dystopian Representational Motifs in David Icke's Alien Conspiracy Theory". Utopian Studies. 16 (1): 45–75. doi:10.5325/utopianstudies.16.1.0045. JSTOR 20718709. S2CID 143047194. Archived (PDF) from the original on 2018-07-23.
 8. ^ Frel, Jan (1 September 2010). "Inside the Great Reptilian Conspiracy: From Queen Elizabeth to Barack Obama – They Live!". Alternet. Archived from the original on 2018-06-12. Retrieved 2010-09-01.
 9. ^ Jump up to:^a ^b Barkun, Michael (2003). A Culture of Conspiracy: Apocalyptic Visions in Contemporary America. Berkeley and Los Angeles: University of California Press. pp. 120–121. ISBN 0520238052.
 10. ^ Trompf, Garry W.; Bernauer, Lauren (2012). "Producing Lost Civilisations: Theosophical Concepts in Literature, Visual Media and Popular Culture". In Cusack, Carole; Norman, Alex (eds.). Handbook of New Religions and Cultural Production. Leiden: Brill. pp. 113–114. ISBN 978-9004221871. Archived from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 3 September 2014.
 11. ^ Parramore, Lynn Stuart (2021-01-12). "The far right's lizard conspiracy is bonkers. But it's definitely not harmless". NBC News. Retrieved 2021-01-12.
 12. ^ Mott, William Michael (2011). Caverns, Cauldrons, and Concealed Creatures: A Study of Subterranean Mysteries in History, Folklore, and Myth. Grave Distractions Publications. p. 27. ISBN 978-0982912874. Archived from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 3 September 2014.
 13. ^ Doreal, Maurice (D. 1963), Encyclopedia.com
 14. ^ Barkun (2003), p. 119 Archived 2019-03-30 at the Wayback Machine
 15. ^ Barkun (2003). A Culture of Conspiracy. pp. 120–121. Doreal's 'translation' of the tablets was used extensively by David Icke in his book on the reptilians, Children of the Matrix...Although Doreal and the others spoke of the serpent race as a confirmable historic reality, the idea almost certainly came from pulp fiction...In all likelihood, the notion of a shape-changing serpent race first came from the imagination of an obscure pulp fiction author, Robert E. Howard.
 16. ^ Guimont, Edward (18 March 2019). "Hunting Dinosaurs in Central Africa". Contingent Magazine. Retrieved 11 September 2020.
 17. ^ "The Shadowlands Mysterious Creatures page". Archived from the original on 2012-07-15. Retrieved 2009-11-18.

18. ^ "Police Officer Herbert Schirmer Abduction". UFO Evidence. September 30, 2007. Archived from the original on September 30, 2007. Retrieved November 3, 2017 – via Internet Archive.
19. ^ Matteson, Cory (March 5, 2012). "Comic book artist finds inspiration in Ashland alien abduction story". Lincoln Journal Star. Archived from the original on October 21, 2018. Retrieved 2018-10-21.
20. ^ Newton, Michael. (2002). The Encyclopedia of Kidnappings. Facts on File, Inc. p. 6. ISBN 0-8160-4486-4
21. ^ Ronson, Jon (16 March 2001). "Beset by lizards". The Guardian UK. Archived from the original on 30 August 2013. Retrieved 4 August 2014.
22. ^ Chidester, David (2005). Authentic Fakes: Religion and American Popular Culture. University of California Press. p. 122. ISBN 978-0520242807. Archived from the original on 30 March 2019. Retrieved 2 March 2018.
23. ^ Lauren Cox (Dec 12, 2008). "What's Behind Internet Conspiracy Empires?". ABC News. Archived from the original on October 29, 2009. Retrieved November 18, 2009.
24. ^ Measure, Susie (28 October 2012). "David Icke is not the Messiah. Or even that naughty. But boy, can he drone on". The Independent. Archived from the original on 16 December 2013. Retrieved 11 June 2013.
25. ^ Santillano, Vicki. "10 Conspiracy Theories that Won't Go Away". Divine Caroline. Archived from the original on September 20, 2018. Retrieved 2018-10-21.
26. ^ "Conspiracy Theory Poll Results". Public Policy Polling. Archived from the original on 2017-09-30. Retrieved 2013-04-03.
27. ^ Jump up to:^a ^b Smith, Greame (13 September 2003). "Kitten-eater controversy litters battle for Ontario". The Globe and Mail. The Globe and Mail Inc. Archived from the original on 31 January 2017. Retrieved 18 January 2017.
28. ^ "Minnesota Senate Recount: Challenged ballots: You be the judge". Minnesota Public Radio. 2008-11-19. Archived from the original on 2008-11-20. Retrieved 2008-11-22.
29. ^ "Why would someone vote for the Lizard People?". 2008. Archived from the original on 2009-06-28. Retrieved 2010-01-08.
30. ^ Del Signore, John (February 25, 2011). "Louis CK Repeatedly Asks Donald Rumsfeld If He's a Lizard Alien". Gothamist. Archived from the original on November 20, 2011. Retrieved June 29, 2012.
31. ^ Beckhusen, Robert (March 26, 2013). "White House Can't Afford Its Shapeshifting Alien Reptile Guards". Wired. Archived from the original on October 22, 2013. Retrieved October 15, 2013.
32. ^ Jean-Pierre Stroobants (October 21, 2022). "Dutch far-right leader claims world is governed by 'evil reptiles'". Le Monde. Retrieved 2023-09-05.
33. ^ Madani, Doha; Blankstein, Andrew; Collins, Ben (12 August 2021). "California dad killed his kids over QAnon and 'serpent DNA' conspiracy theories, feds claim". NBC News. NBC Universal. Retrieved 25 December 2021.
34. ^ "Opinion | The far right's lizard conspiracy is bonkers. But it's definitely not harmless". NBC News. 12 January 2021. Retrieved 2023-02-22.

List of alleged extraterrestrial beings

This is a list of extraterrestrial beings that have been reported in close encounters, claimed or speculated to be associated with unidentified flying objects (UFOs) (not to be confused with the meaning of the term "alien species" in the biological science of ecology).^[1]

List

Flatwoods monster^{[2][3]}

Tall humanoid with a spade-shaped head.^[2]

Greys^{[4][5]}

- Also spelled "grays" (in American English).
- Roswell incident

Grey-skinned (sometimes green-skinned) humanoids, usually 1 m (3.3 ft) tall, hairless, with large heads, black almond-shaped eyes, nostrils without a nose, slits for mouths, no ears and 3–4 fingers including thumb. Greys have been the predominant extraterrestrial beings of alleged alien contact since the 1960s.^[5]

Hopkinsville goblin^{[6][7][8]}

Small, greenish-silver humanoids.^[9]

Little green men^[10]

Diminutive green humanoids. Even though a few abductions have referred to green skin, no report has ever involved anything that would fit the classic cultural stereotype of "little green men". They are included here only for cultural reference.^[10]

Nordic aliens^{[11][12]}

- Sometimes called Space Brothers^[13]
- Plejaren (previously known as Pleiadeans from the Pleiades)^[14]
- Venusians^{[13][15]}
- Tall whites^[16]
- Agarthans from Agartha^[17]

Humanoids with stereotypical "Nordic features" (tall, blonde hair, blue eyes) and which have featured in several cases of contact.

Cryptozoological animals and cryptobotanical plants, including those from folklore, religion (e.g. golem), mythology (e.g. dwarf (see also dwarfism); giants from Atlantis (see also gigantism), etc.), and some reports of ghosts, poltergeists, and time travellers (alleged)

Some claim that many of the allegedly real creatures from the Fortean archives (see also: Fortean Times and William R. Corliss) and related reports of anomalous phenomena^[18] are

- Mothman (see also American folklore)
- Jersey Devil
- Loch Ness Monster (Nessie) (dinosauroid)
- African Nommo
- Mokele-mbembe
- Yokai (many varieties)
- Quinametzin
- Rephaite
- Loveland Frogman

actually of extraterrestrial or mixed origin, such as in the extraterrestrial hypothesis, the interdimensional hypothesis, or the cryptoterrestrial hypothesis. Sometimes these creatures are associated with the occult or with esotericism, or linked with supernatural or paranormal phenomena. Others dismiss these explanations in favor of skepticism, cultural tracking, or the psychosocial hypothesis such as in cases of mass hysteria. Some of these alleged encounters have turned out to be hoaxes or scams to boost local tourism, sell more newspapers or more fringe science books.

Reptilians and reptiloids (sometimes spelled as reptillians)^[19]

- Ancient astronauts (see ancient astronauts in popular culture, Ancient Aliens)
- Draconians^[17]
- Orion reptillian-humanoid matriarchy (see reptilian conspiracy theory)
- List of reptilian humanoids
- Lizard Man of Scape Ore Swamp
- Fictionalized portrayals: They Live, V, Stargate, Star Trek, Worldwar, Gamehendge, etc.

Tall, scaly humanoids. Reptilian humanoid beings date back at least as far as Ancient Egypt, with the crocodile-headed river god Sobek. The reptilian conspiracy theory has been advocated by David Icke.

Rods^[20] or skyfish

Elongated visual artifacts appearing in photos and video recordings, sometimes claimed to be extraterrestrial beings. Generally thought to be caused by motion blur from flying insects.

See also

- Alien abduction
- Alien abduction entities
- Alleged extraterrestrial beings

- Ancient astronauts
- Chimera
- Conspiracy theory
- Contactees
- Cryptoterrestrial hypothesis
- Evolutionary biology
- Extraterrestrial hypothesis
- Genetic mutation
- Horizontal evolution
- Interdimensional hypothesis
- List of conspiracy theories
- List of cryptids
- List of humanoid aliens
- List of occult terms
- MUFON \(United States\) and Kosmopoisk \(Russia\)
- New World Order

In fiction

- Template:Fictional biology
- Category:Lists of fictional alien species
- List of fictional extraterrestrials
- Lists of fictional species
- Template:Science fiction
- Babylon 5
- Battlestar Galactica
- List of alien races in DC Comics
- List of alien races in Marvel Comics
- Mass Effect
- Stargate
- Star Trek
- Star Wars
- The Twilight Zone

References

[\[edit\]](#)

- [^] "Frequently asked questions". European Alien Species Information Network. Archived from the original on 2021-04-21. Retrieved 2021-07-05. Non-native organisms that become established in a new environment.
- [^] Jump up to:^a ^b Clark, Jerome (1999). "Flatwoods Monster". Unexplained!. Visible Ink Press. p. 426. ISBN 1-57859-070-1.
- [^] Nickell, Joe (November 2000). "Investigative Files: The Flatwoods UFO Monster". Skeptical Inquirer. 24 (6). Amherst, NY: Committee for Skeptical

- Inquiry. ISSN 0194-6730. OCLC 4081591. Archived from the original on 2011-06-30. Retrieved 2015-06-02. The 'monster' reportedly had a 'man-like shape' and stood some ten feet tall, although Barker (1953) noted that 'descriptions from the waist down are vague; most of the seven said this part of the figure was not under view.'
4. ^ Bryan, C.D.B (1995). Close Encounters of the Fourth Kind. Alfred A. Knopf, Inc. ISBN 9780679429753.
 5. ^ Jump up to:^a ^b Blackmore, Susan (May 1998). "Abduction by Aliens or Sleep Paralysis?". Skeptical Inquirer. 22 (3). Amherst, NY: Committee for Skeptical Inquiry. ISSN 0194-6730. OCLC 4081591. Archived from the original on 2010-08-13. Retrieved 2015-06-02. The '[G]ray' is about four feet high, with a slender body and neck, a large head, and huge, black, slanted, almond-shaped eyes. Grays usually have no hair and often only three fingers on each hand. There are two vastly different types of so called "greys" both from the Zeta Reticulan star system. The Hollywood "grays" are the typical on seen in pop culture, however, they should not be confused with the slightly taller greyish blue NHI known as Ebens. The difference in the them is that the greys are not biologically born. They are engineered, augmented, created and controlled by their creators and other sentient beings. The Ebens are biological entities as we know them on earth. Meaning they are conceived and born biologically. Greys are often considered emotionally "stunted" where as Ebens are empathetic and sympathetic like most mammals.
 6. ^ Musgrave, Beth (August 22, 2005). "Kelly Green Men get new venue". Lexington Herald-Leader. Archived from the original on 12 January 2009. Retrieved November 24, 2008 – via AccessMyLibrary.
 7. ^ Musgrave, Beth (22 August 2005). "Kelly Green Men get new venue". Lexington Herald-Leader. p. 14. Retrieved 9 July 2021 – via Newspapers.com.
 8. ^ Musgrave, Beth (22 August 2005). "Green | 'It scared him for the rest of his life'". Lexington Herald-Leader. Retrieved 9 July 2021 – via Newspapers.com.
 9. ^ Nickell, Joe (November 2006). "Siege of 'Little Green Men': The 1955 Kelly, Kentucky, Incident". Skeptical Inquirer. 30 (6). Amherst, NY: Committee for Skeptical Inquiry. ISSN 0194-6730. OCLC 4081591. Archived from the original on 2013-11-04. Retrieved 2015-06-03. [Green] was apparently later injected by the national media, although 'Lucky' Sutton's son now says his father described them as 'silver' with 'a greenish silver glow'...
 10. ^ Jump up to:^a ^b Clark, Jerome (1999). "Little Green Men". Unexplained!. Visible Ink Press. p. 442. ISBN 1-57859-070-1.
 11. ^ Carlson, Peter (2004-02-19). "Ike and the Alien Ambassadors". The Washington Post. ISSN 0190-8286. Archived from the original on 2019-04-16. Retrieved 2021-07-05.
 12. ^ Delasara, Jan (2000). "The X-Files and the Zeitgeist of the '90s". PopLit, PopCult, and the X-Files. McFarland. p. 187. ISBN 0-7864-0789-1. Archived from the original on 2021-07-05. Retrieved 2020-10-21.
 13. ^ Jump up to:^a ^b Clark, Jerome (1999). "Space Brothers". Unexplained!. Visible Ink Press. p. 581. ISBN 1-57859-070-1.
 14. ^ Bures, Frank (September 2001). "Aliens, Anomalies, and Absurbity at Mt. Adams". Portland Mercury. Archived from the original on 2007-09-29. Retrieved 2007-05-01.

15. ^ Ellwood, Robert S. (2000). "Adamski, George (17 April 1891–23 April 1965), lecturer and writer on occult subjects and on UFOs during the 1950s' flying saucer enthusiasm". American National Biography. doi:10.1093/anb/9780198606697.article.0801882. ISBN 978-0-19-860669-7. Archived from the original on 19 October 2019. Retrieved 2021-07-05.
16. ^ "Charles Hall and the Tall White ETs". openseti.org. Archived from the original on 13 August 2015. Retrieved 31 March 2018.
17. ^ Jump up to:^a ^b "Cosmic Disclosure". Gaia. Archived from the original on 13 April 2017. Retrieved 31 March 2018.
18. ^ "THE ANOMALIST: World News on UFOs, Bigfoot, the Paranormal, and Other Mysteries at the Edge of Science". anomalist.com. Archived from the original on 2021-06-19. Retrieved 2021-07-05.
19. ^ Lewis, Tyson; Kahn, Richard (Spring 2005). "The Reptoid Hypothesis: Utopian and Dystopian Representational Motifs in David Icke's Alien Conspiracy Theory". Utopian Studies. 16 (1). University Park, PA, US: Penn State University Press [for the Society for Utopian Studies]: 45–75. doi:10.2307/20718709. ISSN 1045-991X. JSTOR 20718709. Icke, ... is now today's most (in)famous proponent of what we are calling the 'Reptoid Hypothesis'—the idea that alien lizards conspiratorially control the Earth and with it human destiny.
Carroll, Robert Todd (2003). "A Collection of Strange Beliefs, Amusing Deceptions, and Dangerous Delusions". Archived from the original.

REPTILIANS

There are more than one kind of Reptilian according to those in the know. Evidence of Reptilians can be found in a variety of historic sources and it is argued that there is sufficient evidence to support the conclusion that an ancient extra-terrestrial race of Reptilians inhabited the Earth and played a role in the creation of humanity.

The two main kinds briefly summarised here are the Terrans or Indigenous Reptilians and the Draconian also know as Alpha Draconian or Dracs.

The indigenous/ Native Terrans

According to Thomas Castello, a former security official at, Dulce, a highly classified underground facility involving a number of extra-terrestrial races cooperating with a number of U.S. national security agencies and corporations, Reptilians indigenous to Earth work side by side with humans and other extra-terrestrial races.

We (humans) are considered to be squatters on Earth and are simply tolerated by the so called native terran Reptoids.

According to Castello, the lower levels of Dulce involved extensive human rights abuses on captive civilians by joint extra-terrestrial-human project leaders. William Hamilton, a well-respected UFO researcher, researched both the Dulce base facility, and Thomas Castello's claims and credibility, and found them to be highly plausible:

"It may be unpalatable to digest or believe Thomas' story. In fact, it seems like part of a living nightmare. There is evidence that something strange does go on at Dulce. Does Thomas have the answer? There may be a terrible truth hidden behind the continuing phenomena of UFO sightings, abductions, and animal mutilations. Our government intelligence agencies have had an ongoing watchful eye on all UFO activities for many decades now. We may be only one outpost in a vast interstellar empire."

Linda Moulton Howe, an investigative journalist and UFO researcher, interviewed a 'contactee/abductee' by the name of Jim Sparx who claims to have met with a number of Reptilians indigenous to Earth. According to Sparx, indigenous Earth based Reptilians have their own unique culture and have interacted with humanity for millennia, and both assisted humanity and used it as a resource. Sparx was told by the Reptilians that they have reached a number of secret agreements with national governments.

The Draco Reptilians.

Much of the information we have on Dracs is sourced from Alex Collier. Alex Collier is considered one of the most important contact persons in the field of ufology and in the years since he decided to go public with his information, he has given valuable and comprehensive information about alien civilizations and their influence on the history of the earth.

The most controversial 'whistleblower'/'contactee' reports concern an off-world 'master Reptilian race' described as the Draco-Reptilians who are claimed to originate from the Alpha Draconis star system which is 215 light years distant and was formerly the pole star. According to Alex Collier, the Draconians or Dracos have two main castes, the first of which is a warrior caste that are in the 7-8-foot range, who are apparently feared throughout the galaxy for their fighting abilities. The second caste are a 'royal line' of Draco

Reptilians that he describes as 'Ciakars' which, because of their alleged size, psychic ability and alleged wings, might be confused as the proverbial Dragon if Collier is correct:

"The Draconians are a very large reptilian race, otherwise known as "the Dracs". There is royal line of the reptilian race called the Ciakar. They range from 14 to 22 feet tall and can weigh up to 1,800 pounds. They do have winged appendages and they are awesome beings. They're extremely clairvoyant and extremely clever, and they can also be extremely sinister."

Collier claims that according to the Draconian world view, they were the first intelligent species in the galaxy and seeded many worlds with their biological off-spring. The Draco Reptilians therefore see themselves as the natural rulers of Reptilian 'controlled' worlds such as Earth, and view humans as an inferior species. The Draconians are interested in harvesting the Earth's resources while ensuring that these resources are efficiently exploited.

There appears to be a strict hierarchy involving the Draco-Reptilians and other extra-terrestrial races so far described in this group. According to Thomas Castello, Reptilians from Alpha Draconis, the 'Dracos', are in command of the Earth based Reptilians. Earth based Reptilians are in turn in command of the 'tall Greys', who are in command of the short Greys. Interestingly, Castello also describes the Draconian ruling caste as Ciakars who are winged and therefore could be easily confused as dragons. Jefferson Souza, a Brazilian UFO researcher confirms the existence of a hierarchy involving the Greys and a Master Reptilian race.

The Draconians seem to be very active in controlling human elites, institutions and financial systems; promoting militarism; creating a climate of scarcity, struggle and insecurity; harvesting humans and manipulating Greys and other Reptilian races. Draconian activities contribute to global problems such as concentrated wealth, corrupt elites and institutions, ethnic/religious violence, human rights abuses, a culture of violence and terrorism and organized crime. The Reptilians enjoy human flesh, and human children best, for two reasons. The first is that children don't have the accumulation of pollutants in their bodies that adults do, and when children are put into a state of fear, their energy and field and Adrenalin just explodes. The reptilians get a "rush" from this stuff. It is simply horrifying when you look at the statistics of missing people.

The Draconians look at lifeforms which they have created or altered as a natural resource. Apparently, the Alpha Draconians created the primate race, which was first brought to Mars and then to Earth. The primate race was then tinkered with by many other different races - 21 other races - resulting in the primate race having been modified 22 times. This primate race eventually became Homo Sapien Sapiens. - who we are on a physical level. Yes, we used to have 12 strands of DNA. Ten strands were taken out by a group from Orion in order to control us and hold us back. They're extremely clairvoyant and extremely clever.

Extraterrestrial Reptoid Hypothesis.

This hypothesis claims that the beings that humanity has been calling "E.T.'s" or "Aliens" are (in many cases) sightings of sentient Reptilian-Humanoid "Reptoid" beings that are native to Earth, or fellow "Terrans"

The Terrestrial Reptoid Hypothesis further contends that the ancestors of the reptoids (and possibly other life forms) retreated into underground caverns during environmental cataclysms long ago and there they continued to thrive and evolve into the sentient beings they appear to be today.

Their descendants, according to the hypothesis, have science and military representatives that are secretly interacting with human subjects, both civilian and military.

They appear to be currently living in three areas:

- 1) Under Earth's Surface, in Cavern-Cities (and villages) in remote (and sometimes local) geological locations (such as state parks and wilderness areas) - Both U.S. and Foreign.
- 2) Off World
- 3) In alternate vibrational states of reality (other dimensions).

What do Reptoids look like?

Reptoid physical forms appear to be as varied as those of humans and even more so. They share certain physical attributes such as a humanoid form (one head, two arms, two legs etc.) and some, but not all, of the following:

- Beaded or scaled skin like a lizard or serpent. The scales (scutes) are larger on broad areas such as the back and chest and the hands, face and other malleable areas of the body have small scales that allow finer flexing.
- A slightly large, slightly back sloping cranium (sometimes appearing conical) with two bony ridges that begin near the brow region of the forehead and extend backwards.
- Two slit or almond shaped eyes with either vertical or circular pupils (Vertical indicates adaptation to low light environments, circular to near surface or lighted environments.)
- Two ears (small holes,) one on each side of their heads that may or may not be covered by thin scales.
- A flat and wide nose with a very little bridge area in between.
- Lipless mouths with varying dentition.
- Very muscular and trim torso with strong arms and legs.
- Four to 6 digits of each hand covered by fine scales.
- Tails that have been seen to be as long as four feet to as small as 18 inches. Some do not have tails at all, only a small bump at the base of the spine.

Where do Reptoids live?

IN EARTH (and beyond) in.....

Geologically Remote Areas

Scientists usually find new species of mammals and reptiles in geologically remote areas such as forest canopies, cliff overhangs, caves, caverns, underground rivers, deep ocean volcanic vents and sub glacial geothermal pockets.

Small, geologically remote ecosystems usually contain animal life forms that are strangely unique. This is because the animals' ancestors had somehow been separated from their larger parent species population (disasters etc.,) resulting in a sharp reduction of genetic averages within the surviving group. When this happens, the surviving groups evolution accelerates and morphological adaptations (formed to the stresses of their surrounding environment) begin to occur in fewer generations. Eventually, enough time passes, they become a distinct species of their own.

The more unique and stable the ecosystem and the more remote it is, the greater the chance there is for finding new species of animals.

Eyewitness encounters also take place along the fringes of society where tree lines meet rural communities and where there are densely thicketed habitats such as swamps and isolated lakes.

Areas Favoring Specific Geological Formations

Reptoids are suspected of living in geologically remote areas where Gravity Anomaly Maps (inverse topographical maps) indicate the presence of empty underground space. There appears to be a higher than normal percentage of reptoid sightings in places containing ancient volcanic 'Tuffa' (soft volcanic ash beds,) limestone, karst and sandstone (Missouri, Arkansas, Arizona, California etc.)

Since vertical separation is also a factor when considering geological "remoteness," there stands a chance that some of surface humanities concentrated populations may overlap deep subsurface cryptid (reptoid) populations (we may have entire communities of old and young right under our very feet!)

Near Their Antarctic Origins

Antarctica or Polar Gondwana appears to be the location where the intelligent saurian root may have evolved for reasons addressed at length on this site.

Besides the paleontological evidence directing our attention to Antarctica, many intriguing historical facts point towards the icy, mountainous continent as a place of great mystery and unusual activities.

CURIOUS! _How ancient sea maps show inland Antarctica, indicating early exploration during ice free conditions. Why weren't these maps widely distributed throughout the mercator (mapmaking) world? What's there?

CURIOUS! That in 1838 the U.S. Congress funded a naval expedition that was to travel towards the north pole in an effort to find a passage into the earth where they were instructed to establish relations with an Inner-Earth culture. (Antarctica was also suspected of having an entrance into the Earth at the time.)

CURIOUS! That the Nazi leaderships searched for their "Sky Gods" in Antarctica and the in areas near the north pole (remember, Sweden is where numerous cigar-ship sightings occurred during the war;) also interesting was the Nazi decision to have the post WWII leadership relocated to Argentina, a nation of close proximity to Antarctica.

CURIOUS! How in 1947 admiral Richard Byrd made several flights over Antarctica (operation "High Jump") and afterwards said that he'd like to see "....that land beyond on the Pole. That area beyond the pole is the center of a great unknown." Since the pole has always been considered the relative center point of uncharted Antarctica, this strange, ambiguous statement about some other central location has long been considered a cryptic message to the mainstream public. (Many people believe that Byrd was making a reference to the pre-existing rumor that there was either a naturally hollowed out ice-cavern city somewhere in the interior of Antarctica or a circular entrance into the hollow interior of Earth. This mysterious central core society is said to be comprised of representatives from numerous Earth and ET cultures).

CURIOUS! That Antarctica is the first land mass in history that all nations have agreed unanimously to keep completely neutral and free of claimed ownership. (International cooperation is the rule and not the exception in Antarctica.)

Obviously there's been a lot of mysteries surrounding Antarctica and its over the years. If the Hollow Earth theory is ever found to be fact, then it is entirely possible that intelligent beings such as Reptoids have been there investigating it too.

Are Reptoids Related to Dinosaurs?

Dale Russell (Visiting Professor, Department of Marine, Earth and Atmospheric Sciences and Senior Curator of Paleontology, North Carolina State Museum of Natural Sciences) once published a professional "Thought Experiment" in which he projected what the dinosaurs may have possibly evolved into if they had survived the, so called "extinction event" that took place 65 million years ago. Using the known morphology of the Troodon dinosaur, the image that he arrived at is identical to that which has been recorded through history by the ancients (on rocks) and modern UFO eyewitnesses and contactees. This is a startling revelation!

We also know now that some of the dinosaurs did, in fact survive and their descendants became avians or BIRDS!

Birds are morphologically diversified bipedal, saurian descendants (coelurosaurs) whose scales transformed into hair follicles over millions of years, that learned to fly and to eventually demonstrate rudimentary intelligence by mimicking other animals attempts to communicate. Other than mankind, what other animal has come as close to reproducing human communication?

If one group of dinosaurs could have survived and evolved into animals that attempt to reproduce human speech, then it stands to reason that another group of dinosaurs may have also survived the extinction event 65 millions years ago and also developed a certain degree of intelligence and learned unique communication skills.

The "Thought Experiment" that Dale Russell formulated, demonstrating how the some of the dinosaurs were becoming more human-like, is a road sign in evolutionary thinking. It shows us that our previously considered human form is not as unique as we previously thought.

If the human form is a clear expression of a physical trend shared with the dinosaurs, it's possible that that same genetic trend or course may have extended itself into the brain and it's destiny towards intelligence. And, if humans became intelligent somewhat recently in geologic time, we then we can only imagine how intelligent the dinosaur's descendants might be now if they had millions of years to get a 'head' start in developing their species.

WHAT DO REPTOIDS LOOK LIKE?

INTRODUCTION

Various types of bipedal, upright walking reptoids have been reported. The three most common types are:

- 1. Reptoids (Reptilian-Humanoids).
- 2. The winged Draco reptoids and their superiors, the Draco Prime reptoids.
- 3. Reptilian - Grey crossbreeds.

For the most part, the classical reptoid type 1 is what is addressed throughout this site.

REPTOIDS

Reptoids range from five and a half to 9 feet in height. They have lean, firm bodies with powerful arms and legs. They have long arms with three long fingers and an opposable thumb. Their feet have three toes and one recessed fourth that is toward the back side of their ankle. The claws are short and blunt. They do not have teats on their upper torso nor do they have a navel.

TAILESS REPTOID

IMAGE - KAY FORD
+JR@REPTOIDS.COM

They have scaled skin that is usually greenish-brown in color. Some also have coffee colored scales that have dark green colored rims. The scales (or scutes) on their backs, thighs and upper arms are usually large. Their hands, abdomen and face are covered with smaller scales, allowing more flexibility. They have wide lipless mouths and the majority of them are reported to have differentiated types of dentition (teeth,) including canines (fangs.)

Reptoids have either large black eyes with vertical slit pupils or eyes that are white with flame colored vertical slit pupils. Their heads are slightly conical in shape and have two bony ridges riding from their brow, across their back sloping skull, toward the back of their head. (Throughout history, these bony ridges may have been misidentified as protruding horns.)

There appears to be no bridge between the Reptoids eyes. Their nasal openings are at the end of a small, flattened nose and are described as two small slits that slant upwards in a V formation.

Some experiencers have reported seeing small openings where ears are expected to be, but no flesh folds extending from the side of the head as human have.

Reptilian beings have no body or facial hair. Occasionally, eyewitnesses observed reptilian beings with thin, fleshy spines under their chins. From a distance, the spines are often misidentified as hair. (Even today, one can find lizards with these same fleshy spines under their chins. They are called Bearded Lizards.)

Reptoids having tails and non tailed reptoids have been reported over the years. The tails vary in size and are often observed as being held off the ground. Their posteriors are either like that of a human, with a vertical slit shielding an excretory orifice, or are comprised of a rounded muscular area, extending from the base of the spine to the upper thigh region.

Their genitalia are concealed within a vertical slit located at the base of the torso (cloaca.) In the case of women who claim to have experienced sexual encounters with reptoids (an experience that seems more psychological than physical in origin,) the male reptoids are described as having a penis that is lacking a soft sacked scrotum. Where the scrotum sack is located on a human, the reptilian male, apparently has a firm, muscular bulge leading from the base of the penis to the underside of the torso.

DRACO

The Draco reptoids, usually standing seven to twelve feet tall, have been reported to be the royal elitists of the reptoid hierarchy. They are seen far less often than other reptoids types. The Draco are similar in appearance to the Reptoid, but they have distinct physical differences.

Draco have wings. These wings are made of long, thin bony spines or ribs that protrude out of their backs. The ribs are adjoined by flaps of leathery, blackish-brown skin. The wings are usually in a retracted position. In some instances, such as reported by author John Keel ('MothMan Prophecies'), the beings matching descriptions of the Draco have been seen to actually fly by use of their wings. (With the beings neck cranked downwards upon spectators, the glowing red reflective eyes of a flying Draco would appear to be placed in the middle of their chest as described by eyewitnesses.)

In several contacts, people have seen reptilian looking beings wearing capes draped over their shoulders and down their backs. The capes may either be a piece of clothing specifically designed for covering the Dracos wings or their retracted, dark leathery flaps might be appearing to be a fabric-like material flowing across and down their shoulders and backs.

What strikes eyewitnesses the most about the physical appearance of a Draco being is their horns. The horns are usually short. They are conical in shape and they extend four to five inches away from the skull.

Some reports describe low boney ridges , running back along their slightly conical heads. These ridges develop midway between the brow and the top of their head.

The Draco types appear to have a much more athletic build than the other reptilian beings. Their upper torsos are extremely lean and their neck muscles splay out from the base of their jaw to their shoulder blades. (If the Draco are able to fly using their wings, as some have been reported to do, the physical demands of flight would result in some muscle groups being more developed than others).

DRACO PRIME

Certain individuals amongst those claiming Draco encounters, say that they saw a one with white powdery scales, approach and give instructions to the others. In every one of these cases, the greenish-brown Draco beings appeared to be submissive and highly respectful towards the Draco with white scales. This reaction indicated that the Draco hierarchy is a caste system dependant on skin color (and possibly other unknown genetic traits).

Other non-human beings, such as the Greys, have also demonstrated similar respect for the Draco. The general, cross-species respect for the white scaled Draco indicates that they are the elite species in the terrestrial chain of command.

REPTILIAN-GREY CROSSBREDS

ONE OF MANY TYPES OF REPTILIAN-HYBRIDS

In addition to the Draco and Reptoids, various crossbreed types have been encountered. Although they vary in shape, size and color, they share common physical characteristics.

Most of the reptilian-grey crossbreeds are rather diminutive in size. They are four to four and a half feet in height. They have oversized craniums, large black eyes with vertical slit pupils, no ears, slight torsos, arms and legs.

There have been reports of these beings as having either three fingers with a fourth opposable, or having only three long fingers. They have been seen to have short claws and in some cases, no claws at all at the tips of their fingers. Some experiencers have described their feet as being short and stubby, with no toes.

Amidst the various reptilian-grey types, there is also a species that has greenish-tan skin. They also have large almond-shaped, gold colored eyes that have a dark, metallic green vertical slit pupil. They are usually seen wearing a one piece suite that is the same color as their skin.

There is more than enough evidence to indicate that a highly evolved reptilian life form is interacting with human beings. Their presence has been witnessed in every corner of the Earth by people from all walks of life. Now that we have established the fact that they are here, the next question to address is: Where are they coming from?

Theories as to the origin of reptilian “alien” life forms range appear to be threefold. From the accumulative evidence provided to thus far, it has been determined that they are either:

- a) Extra-Terrestrial. (ET's) Beings from another planet or star system,
- b) Inner Terrestrial (IT's) Beings that are naturally evolved terrestrial (Earth) life forms that reside in inner earth Caverns, sub-cities, and underwater bases.
- c) Inner-Dimensional. (ID's) meaning other alien entities existing in vibrational levels (time/space travelers etc.)

Although a large amount of data supporting each theory exists, this report will only address the basic facts regarding each. It is important to realize that, even though each theorized origin appears to be distinct in it's own right, all three theories could be, and are probably, correct.

REPTILIAN E.T.'S

Reliable sources have reported that some extra-terrestrial reptilian beings might be considered a race of intergalactic invaders. Unwelcome intruders that come from a region of space known as Alpha Draconis. Their apparent objectives are to seek out new life throughout the universe, conquer it by any means necessary, and use the spoils of their invasions as natural resources to fuel their ongoing goals.

They traverse the universe towards their intended destination in a mother ship which is a directed Planetoid/Asteroids base station. (Note: Some people theorize that the reptilian mother ship locates and follows closely behind comets heading in the same general direction, using the gravitational field to pull the planetoid along through space. The comet's body also acts as a stellar debris impact shield and prevents any approaching civilization from observing their mother ship's advance.)

During their long voyages, the majority of the ET reptilian population on the mother ship live in a state of hibernation. A contingency of reptilians manage the daily operations of the craft and maintain hibernation chambers. In addition, they send scout ships containing military and scientist types to the planetary system they are approaching, and establish underground posts on a planet of interest, such as. . . EARTH.

The reptilian military ET's ensure the continued secrecy of their presence, carry out abductions of various life forms on the surface of the planet, and investigate the technological advances of the surface inhabitants. The scientific ET's study the planet's life biological forms, introduces their reptilian genetic code into whatever species displays traits they want to manipulate, and initiates a program of genetic crossbreeding.

From their underground bases, the reptilian military ET's set the stage for the mother's ship invasion by establishing a network of human-reptilian crossbred infiltrates within various levels of the surface culture's military industrial complexes, government bodies, UFO/paranormal groups, religious, and fraternal (priest) orders, etc. These crossbreeds, some unaware of their reptilian genetic "mind-control" instructions, act out their subversive roles as "reptilian agents", setting the stage for an reptilian led ET invasion.

Just prior to planetary approach, the large reptilian population aboard the planetoid awakens from their hibernation and prepares for battle. When the invasion takes place, it is from above and below the planets surface. Strange craft, piloted by reptilians, greys and human-reptilian agents, descend from the clouds while others ascend to the skies from the underworld of caverns and sub-cities, overwhelming the surface cultures in a totally unsuspecting manner.

After the surface inhabitants discover the futility of fighting off their invaders with their technologically inferior weaponry, a surrender is negotiated. Once the invasion is complete and the surface inhabitants yield to the demands of their new rulers, the reptilian mother ship strips the planet of its resources such as water, ores and genetic (DNA) information, then, having turned the planet into a new “Base of Operations”, the reptilian ET’s set out for the next “pearl” in space.

As if it weren’t frightening enough to imagine such beings traveling through space, intent on invading Earth, another possibility exists that presents the reptilian “aliens”, not as invaders, but as our neighbors.

REPTILIAN I.T.’S

There is another perception as to the origin of the reptilian beings and that is that they are true “Terrans.” Having evolved from the dinosaurs that escaped the climatological disasters on the surface of the planet (brought about some 65 million years ago by a asteroid-Earth impact) by going into the underworld of caves and caverns. After having millions of years in which to adapt to their new underground environment and evolve into a highly intelligent species, they are said to have become a technologically advanced species that oversees and manipulates surface humans.

For the past hundred years, scientific institutions have told us that all dinosaurs became extinct and that talk of their survival was pure rubbish. Modern paleontology has, however, turned the tables on their predecessors and now openly state that because of various advances in hereditary tracking methods, they believe that some dinosaurs may have, in fact, survived the asteroid impact of 65 million years ago and continue to live to this day.

After discovering “living fossils” (such as birds) paleontologists are currently reconsidering their long proclaimed “extinction” theory. What other kind of animals exist on the planet that escaped examination for saurian heritage? Just as the dinosaurs may have evolved into birds, could there also be other dinosaurs that survived and evolved? And, if so, where and how could they have survived? The most important question is, what course did their physical evolution take and how intelligent could they have become during the 65 million years that they have had to adapt to their new environments?

There are many answers to these important questions which we will not address in this report (but that are thoroughly investigated in the book). We will, however, comment briefly on one particular vision that the scientific community provided NASA with during the space agency’s search for extraterrestrial life. (To our knowledge, it is the only such scientific report that exists.)

Dale Russell, senior paleontologist of Northern Carolina University, was contracted by NASA to extrapolate an image of what extraterrestrial life might resemble. In his report (Exponential Evolution: Implications for Intelligent Extraterrestrial Life, Adv. Space Research 1983), he “evolved” the dinosaur Troodon according to the natural evolution of its own body type and created a model of a being he called “Dino-sauroid.” This model reptilian (that had a quite striking resemblance to a reptilian-human) of “Dino-sauroid” was then presented in his report to NASA as an example of what ET life might look like. Remarkably, this image is almost identical to those that are described by experiencers.

Could “alien” life (as we perceive it) actually be the evolved and highly intelligent descendants of the dinosaurs? This reptilian Earth-born “Alien” hypothesis would surely counter the age long argument against flying saucers claiming that “ Even at the speed of light, it would take millions of years for an ET species to fly through space to get here!” Since evolved dinosaurs would be living in the earth’s natural underworld, it may only take brief seconds for such contact to be made with surface humans. If such is the case, the debunkers’ argument itself then becomes invalid!

Unnerving enough as it is to consider the possibility that the reptilians live here on Earth with us now, a third and even more unsettling theory exists that humanity has considered since the dawn of mankind. The reptilian “aliens” or serpent-gods may be Earths “invisible residents.” Beings that have long been thought of as our angels and demons.

REPTILIAN I.D.’S

As Inner or Ultra-dimensional beings, the reptilians are thought to have originated from a neighboring frequency dimension we might recognize as the realm of the Dead (the location to which our soul matrix goes to upon death), also called Devechan (the Hindu region of the in-between or afterlife.)

The atoms that comprise the Inner dimensional reptilian beings’ physical bodies are spinning at a different rate than our own and the frequency of the spin is outside normal human visual perception. Just as the frequency matrix of a human soul can remain in our dimension and be perceived as ghosts, reptilian beings inhabit the same frequency region as do spirits or ghosts, but are able to materialize their forms into the third “dense” dimension to physically interact with “living” humans.

This transfer from fourth to third dimension and back was, for a time, not easy for them to do. (Some people believe that the reports of “rains” of frogs, rocks, fish etc. that were recorded in the later half of the eighteen hundreds were early attempts by reptilian scientists to send inanimate and animate life forms through the dimensional barrier that divided the two frequency realms.) After the first atomic atmospheric test was conducted over the desert floor of New Mexico in the early 1940's, the resulting Electro-Magnetic Pulse (EMP) permanently split the dimensional barrier open in that one area. And, through this newly formed dimensional portal, the military-scientific industrial complex of the reptilians race poured forth in their craft and began to occupy the third dimension in force. (Every consecutive atmospheric nuclear detonation that has since occurred may have created other "Portals of Entry")

(Note: Fraternal orders of practicing magicians or priests [not simple illusionists] are also accredited for initiating contact with inanimate reptilian beings living in their natural "astral" state by opening dimensional portals with focused thought form energy.)

Some ultra dimensional beings are thought to be able to reside in the deepest levels of the underworld for indefinite periods of time because the deep rock shielding and proximity to the center of the Earth require densified matter around the frequency shell of a conscious being. These non-physical inner Earth reptilians are also considered Astral Intelligences, Fallen Angels or Demons of the Underworld (Hell).

The question often arises as to whether or not the Inner Dimensional reptilians have always been from this "other side?" It is certainly possible they once lived in our third dimension as beings of physical matter and that during a global conflict (probably with the Elder race or Elohim) they were "killed" in battle and displaced into the fourth dimension, trying ever since to return to their third dimensional realm.

It has also been suggested that from this astral state, they have managed to provoke humans into warfare and situations of stress and fear to extract various auric (emotional) frequencies for their own purposes. Through the highly suggestive human consciousness, these negatively charged reptilian "energy leeches" or "psychic vampires", orchestrate and feast off situations of genocide, global conflict, drug usage (amphetamines, cocaine, "uppers", etc.), sexual perversions and the wholesale slaughter of animal life (cattle, poultry, swine etc.) This particular aspect of the reptilian non-physicality is quite extensive and will not be addressed completely in this report.

Other related issues (that are addressed in the book) are: Psychology of the inner mind (archetypes), human evolution, frequency vibrations, human perceptions, thought forms and experienter reports (to name a few.)

CONCLUSION

These brief descriptions of each theorized reptilian “alien” origin reflect the current perceptions within the UFO community. Many investigators/researchers have observed evidence supporting each particular theory, suggesting that all three may in fact be correct. Some reptilians come from far distant solar systems, others evolved here on Earth and have remained hidden in their underworld empire, while others permeate through the dimensional barrier that separates humanity from the astral realms of the dead. If even one of these theories is true, then humanity is headed towards a revelation of which only the wildest imaginations could ever conceive.

We have been warned by the Hebrew, American Indian, Aztec and Hindu prophets that, at the “End of Days”, we will encounter Dragons, Leviathans and serpent-gods. They shall, we are told, arrive as the harbingers of terror, death, redemption and salvation. From where they will come is a question that has eluded the finest of scholarly minds that study the prophecies. One thing we do know, however, and that is that they are here, on and in EARTH.

Today, we are all witnessing a simultaneous deterioration of geopolitical and geological stability, increase of UFO abduction related phenomenon and a rapidly changing climatological environment. The psychological pressure associated with these shifts in reality is compounded by the fact that many believe that we are experiencing the unfolding of prophecies handed down to us by generations passed.

We have all been told through the prophecies of many religions and cultures around the world that our generation will witness the unveiling or the "revelation" of the true reality in which we live. Our species is struggling with impeding global disaster brought upon us by natural and man made causes, thus we find ourselves desperately reaching into the shadows for answers. I believe that this is no more evident than in our interest in "New Age."

The information that "New Age" is founded upon is not new at all. Long ago, secret societies made every effort to remove the truly powerful esoteric knowledge from public libraries so they could drunkenly abuse and use it to dominate Earth's inhabitants. Many of the sacred mysteries that enable one to attain their true source of inner power have existed here in on the American continent for thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, of years. UFOs, alien beings, cosmic cycles, atomic manifestation and other "mysterious phenomenon" still survive within the legend, myth and lore of the red race of beings known as the American Indian.

By studying these stories and those of other ancient civilizations, we can translate the truth into modern day linguistics and expand our view of the reality in which we belong. Archaic wisdom transforms our spiritual link with corporeal matter. The words may change and the cryptic way in which brotherhoods have passed down secrets may have become more difficult to decipher, but "the truth is out there" for us to discover . . . if you want it.

I do not question whether or not aliens or their craft are here on our planet. After all, historical documentation, video tapes, abduction cases, leaked government information and numerous other data confirm their existence. The most important question, in my opinion, happens to be "Who are the main players?" and "How do we fit into the 'big' plan?"

Throughout the history of extraterrestrial contact, many different types of alien beings have reportedly stated that they are not able to interfere to any great extent with human beings or their affairs. If this is true, then why are we receiving an increasingly larger number of abduction and contactee reports that repeatedly describe two types of intelligent life forms, those of the Grey and Reptilian aliens? Why do they have exclusive rights to interfere with our species when other alien beings do not?

If interaction between these beings and our own species has been occurring throughout history, as legend and myth would have us believe, then where is the supporting evidence as to their existence. Where are they from and why are they so interested in us? Before we proceed further, let's answer the questions as to who these beings are and where the historical connections are that reveal their presence.

COLD BLOOD IN ANCIENT SUMERIA

According to the ancient writings and petroglyphs of the area of our Earth considered to be the cradle of humanity, namely Mesopotamia or Iraq, there existed a god like race of beings that ruled over a region of the Tigris-Euphrates river valley known as Sumeria. This society apparently flourished around 3500 B.C. and was remarkably advanced in their culture. According to their sand pitted records, their rulers or "gods" were humanoid creatures of extraterrestrial origin that descended in magical crafts, or rocket like ships. Their image was cast into history in the form of reptilian-humanoid statuettes that over fired to a green hue color.

The surviving clay tablets from this area of the world declare that before Homosapiens walked upon the Earth, these "gods" did much of their own manual labor. In order to achieve a higher standard of living, this nonhuman society genetically created a new form of life by mixing their own DNA with that of the evolutionary mammalian man or "Ape-Man." The successful results of this experiment yielded a new breed of worker class known as Homosapiens.

In the beginning, apparently, these god-like race of beings immensely enjoyed the benefit of having their slaves endure the hardships of manual labor. Excavation, farming, building and mining operations were the toil of this new born race. This labor, however, was not provided willingly. It was forced through the use of severe and ruthless governorship.

These, not so bright, beings suffered greatly under the firm rule of their strange looking gods and their misery did not go unnoticed by a few of the nonhuman masters. According to the Sumerian tablets, inside the god society, a conspiracy was brewing to free Homo sapiens from their bonds of slavery and teach them the spiritual and scientific knowledge necessary to uplift their essence to a god-like stature. Apparently, the name of this rebellious reptilian being leader was Enlil or Ea.

EA EXPERIMENTS IN HIS DEN

The Sumerian tablets tell us that the rebel God called Ea was the extraterrestrial being that controlled the genetic creation of Homosapiens in abeyance to the instructions of his superiors. After his involvement with the original genetic experiment, his compassion for the plight of the slave race shifted his role as a genetic engineer to that of a freedom fighter. It is also related that Ea's headquarters was in a swamp like area he called "Snake Marsh" because it was also a den to many reptiles or snakes. In other words, the first fight for freedom took place in an area known as Ea-Den.

It's an interesting point that, according to Biblical text, a snake or "reptilian" not only seduced Eve, the first female caretaker of the garden, away from the arms of Adam, but also gave them knowledge in a beautiful garden called E-DEN. We are also told that this was done against the wishes of his superior and, as punishment for this treasonous act, the progressive reptilian and his cohorts were ordered to remain underground, within the vast cavern systems of the earth. Along with this punishment, it was ruled that the reptilian was to never interfere with humans again and that their generations will not only not know of each other, but will learn to hate each other. This last declaration was initiated by changing the name of the reptilian being from "Lucifer" which literally means the bringer of light or knowledge to "Satan" or adversary. The Sumerian texts also relate a somewhat similar fate for the reptilian being called Ea.

The teachings of the reptilian Ea, thereafter referred to as the esoteric mysticism of the snake brotherhood, caused a major shift in the perceptions of reality for the early Homosapiens. It is in the assorted descriptions of this turning point in human evolution that we get our first glimpse as to what these advanced beings actually looked like in comparison to our own physical characteristics.

THE REBELLIOUS TEACHER

For the sake of mental focus, the following example is taken primarily from the Christian Bibles Book of Genesis. It's deeply rooted symbolism is thought, by some people, to be a compilation of occulted Genesis legend or physical beginnings from all spiritual beings around the world. This is important to remember because one must be aware of the fact that I am in no way attempting to push anyone religion in this presentation. The historical description of reptilian beings having had a monumental influence on human evolution can be seen in the multi cultural symbolism and myth surrounding the tree of knowledge.

The symbolical tree of knowledge, the Palm tree in Ea-Den, is depicted as having a trunk around which a half-man, half-snake being is entwined. It is from this tree that the rebellious reptilian taught the human, Eve. As the information was absorbed by Eve and hence passed onto Adam, their perceptions of awareness and reality quickly shifted, rendering the two in a severe state of shock and fear (thus, it is said that a person who is totally unaware of the reality in which they live, resides in an "Edenic state"). The legend explains that, soon thereafter, they both ran from the voice of God, not because they had their first sexual relationship with each other or that they were shy of their nakedness, it was because they were suddenly aware that there was a profound physical difference between the Gods and themselves. The reptilians had scales covering their bodies as a form of protection from the elements and the Homosapiens suddenly realized that they didn't. Until this time, the Homo sapiens had no conception that they were in any way physically different from their reptilian counterparts. They had finally leapt from their childlike ignorance of their situation into to the realization that they were intended, by design, to be tillers of the field and slaves to the other reptilian overlords.

Years later other messengers also arrived upon the scene and, once again, attempting to free mankind from the bondage of slavery by teaching spiritual and magical knowledge. They also were punished severely by the rulers of the population. One difference was, however, that instead of being labeled "Satans" or adversaries, one was named Quetzalcoatl or "Feathered Snake" and the other the Savior Yashua, or Christ.

The symbolism of the tree of knowledge is not limited to the Christians, but it is also represented by the Banyan tree from under whose branches the East Indian God Krishna sat upon a coiled serpent and bestowed upon man spiritual knowledge. Another reptilian God whose death upon a crucifix was etched into stone was that of Quetzalcoatl, the winged serpent god of the great Toltec and Aztec civilization. The wooden crucifix upon which those that endowed knowledge upon mankind are crucified represents, not only the sigil of the supreme God called the Tau or ankh, but the crucifix also represents the trunk and branches of the tree of knowledge. For their teachings, they were killed.

The remarkable fact is that throughout all ancient and modern civilizations, the serpent or dragon bestowing knowledge upon the human race figures prominently in all religions and histories. The Christian reptilian or "fallen angel" LUCIFER, the Mayan serpent God QUETZALCOATL, the enormous plumed serpent God of the Hopi Indians, BAHOLINKONGA, the East Indian mystical human like reptilians known as NAGAS, the Egyptian serpent God KNEPH, The Phoenicians AGATHODEMON and even the Hebrews NAKHUSHTAN or Brazen Serpent that led Moses and the Israelites through the desert by pillar of cloud and fire. These are but a few of the vast amount of records that exist world wide and describe their early gods as having reptilian-human like physical features as well as having descended from the heavens or stars.

From within the shadows and crevices of the earth their influence upon all mankind can be no more evident than when one considers the ancient British god who was considered "The Dragon-Ruler of the World." His subjects called him HU - thus we call ourselves Hu-Man!

REPTILIANS PRESENT - NO ARTISTS/PHOTOGRAPHERS ALLOWED!

One might ask that if these reptilians once openly roamed the Earth with Homosapiens, why aren't there any pieces of art that clearly depict them as bipedal snake gods? The answer to that may lay within one common religious law that most of these ancient cultures still adhere to, either by their own ignorance of the reptilians physical appearance or out of pure obedience, and that is the law that one is forbidden to make idols or drawings of anything that is in heaven.

The Hopi Indians to this day refuse to recreate the images of their reptilian ancestors because they fear an instant death.

The closest imagery that was ever allowed to remain was cryptically tucked away in the Hebrew or Christian works of the Books of Genesis and the Exodus.

As we have already gone over the symbolism of the reptilian in the cradle of humanity or Garden of Eden, it can only be said that we must remember that Lucifer was considered an angel who fell from the heavens. Yet we are told at the same time that he was a snake. And although Moses declared that his God said not to make idols or images to false Gods, he placed a snake upon his staff and proclaimed to his people that he who looks upon this image will be healed. This is the origination of the physicians' caduceus. Could it be that late one evening, during a solitary walk outside the Israelite's encampment, Moses had an encounter with one of these reptilian beings that were flying this pillar of smoke and fire? Could this have been the reason he considered this snake upon his staff a real image of God and not a false one? It makes one wonder.

Obviously, if these snake people or reptilians really did once openly live amongst the Homosapien population, they have gone to extreme extent not to be revealed since they went into hiding.

Could it be that part of the great Biblical Revelation prophecy is the unveiling of the reptilian presence on Earth?

THEY WHO HIDE TRUTH

We are now aware that numerous societies record, as the Sumerians did, that the reptilian half-man, half-snake empowered Hu-mans with the knowledge necessary to be free from the grips of their slave masters. But, what happened to the spiritually powerful knowledge that was given to us "gardeners of the planet" by the original reptilian Ea as his cohorts? After all, his plans were to free us from slavery, right? Well, some would say that we are still enslaved within a carefully constructed illusion. I would tend to agree. So, what happened? What has kept us from reaching our fullest potential?

Many of the individuals, in the course of written history, who have given the masses powerful information, whether it's political or spiritual, have had either their credibility destroyed or their bodies destroyed. Most of the times it's both. If the information has taken root before it can be erased, then history has demonstrated that newly founded "insurgence" groups or movements are quickly infiltrated by the opposition and allowed to flourish under the guidance of their own secret shadows. This is not only a premise by which groups struggle for control in affairs of war, secret societies and politics, but also the struggle of balance of power in religion. The mystical knowledge given to man by the snake brotherhood suffered under this same manipulation. For thousands of years, the high priests of religion encrypted the mystical knowledge that was passed onto the humans by the reptilian race and used that knowledge to control, manipulate and spiritually enslave those at the bottom of the pyramid.

Reptilian beings displayed both benevolent and evil characteristics at different times in history. They have taught peace, love, spirituality, healing and knowledge of the sciences and, as the Delaware Indians describe in their ancestral mythology, they have rained down destruction upon the Earth in the name of God. This is why various cultures recognize the reptilian image as effigies of the balance of nature. In other words . . . Good-Evil, Negative-Positive. It is, perhaps, not too far out to imagine that on some other planet or in some other dimension, the human figure might also symbolize both aspects of good and evil, positive and negative.

The symbolism and resemblances of each of these god-like beings from around the world is too similar to have been simple imaginary god-forms from totally unconnected parts of the planet. There had to be a more influential factor at work in ancient times, but what could it have been?

There are three explanations which could answer this puzzling question. One, primitive cave dwelling settlements around the world were naturally drawn to the reptilian image because they had somehow retained a genetic memory of their reptilian heritage. Two, highly advanced spiritual beings that had reptilian physical characteristics assimilated themselves into various social structures in order to influence the trend of spiritual progression. Three, all of the ancient civilizations sensed their genetic connections to the reptile AND reptilian beings influenced their spiritual evolution throughout history. I believe, that both influences were at work and I will expand on and prove my theory in just a few moments.

It is in this researcher's opinion that these records, when carefully and open mindedly studied, reflect a historical foundation upon which all modern day extraterrestrial contacts or abductions can be based. We have evolved as a species and our progression has been carefully monitored by the elusive reptilian race that live within the cavernous Earth itself.

If it is true that we are genetically descended from a mixture of ape man and a bipedal, intelligent reptilian species, then what evidence, other than legends and historical documentation supports our theory? Where lays the personal connection, the physical proof? To answer these questions, it is important to address a little known fact regarding the formation of the human embryo in the womb.

THE PHYSICAL CONNECTION

During the formative stages of intrauterine development, the fetus undergoes several different phases of genetically encoded evolution. Deep within the information pool of the gene, instructions are given to the forming cells to repeat the major evolutionary steps that link us to the non primate mammals, reptiles and fish before we finally reach the recognizable form of the human being. At one point, our primordial genetic information even creates gills for the embryo. These, of course, disappear as development continues. In the fourth week, the human embryo is remarkably similar to the embryos of birds, pigs and sheep and remains that way until the eighth week, then it takes on dissimilar physical characteristics.

In some cases of evolutionary throwback, as according to the Oxford Monographs on Medical Genetics no. 27, the genetic chain of command sometimes forgets to continue onwards in their evolutionary reenactment, leaving some babies with actual tails. These "caudal appendages," as they are called, form at the lower lumbar area and are generally hairless. Although most of these cases are immediately attended to by surgeons in order to protect the families from adverse ridicule, in some third worlds countries where surgery is unavailable, the children quickly adapt to their tails and live out normal lives. It is interesting to note that in some of these cases the tail wags during moments of excitement.

Now that we have covered the fact that passing glimpses into our evolutionary heritage can be witnessed during the formation of our fetuses, we can proceed to discover which part of this re enactment was so pronounced that it permanently formed within us and provided our strongest primordial link.

One late evening I happened to be watching a television interview with Carl Sagan in which the audience members were asking him questions. When asked what he thought of the crop circle phenomenon, He replied, and I'll paraphrase here, "Don't you know that it has been proven that all of these, so-called crop circles, are hoaxes created by two gentlemen in England. They've admitted it." He went on to say that the media loves a UFO angle and that they purposely ignore the confessions of two older gentlemen in order to sensationalize. When I heard this, I thought that there's no way that a man as intelligent as he claims to be could be so blatantly ignorant, that is unless he is the mouth piece of the federal government. If that was the case, then it is only human nature to wonder what's in it for him.

It is in my opinion that the information about our genetic heritage and relationship with the reptilian alien beings that live on our planet was shared with Mr. Sagan as a gift for his expected continued secrecy and servitude to certain authorities within the federal government. Accompanying this "gift" of truth, I believe, was a promise of increased fame and fortune in return for his performing the duties of disinformation in regards to the flying saucer phenomenon this is why he has continually ridiculed anything that even hints of extraterrestrial contact. As long as he plays "their" game of information management, he will be allowed to release certain information in a very unobtrusive and cryptic fashion. All this, of course, was done under the watchful eyes of his superiors. Evidence of a portion of this "leak" is written within the pages of his book The Dragons of Eden in which "speculates" upon the evolution of human intelligence.

In Mr. Sagan's aptly named book The Dragons of Eden, it is emphasized that in our search for the evolution of human intelligence, it is extremely important that we do not ignore the most ancient part of the human brain upon which all other segments are but additions. According to the neuroanatomist Paul MacLean, that ancient area of the "triune" brain, is driven by another prehistoric region that some neuroanatomist call the R-Complex or the Reptilian-Complex. It is called the R-Complex because we share this particular structure of the brain with reptiles.

Mr. Sagan carefully points out the fact that the human brain develops from the inside out, building itself atop the brain stem and in order of evolutionary sequence. First, the neural chassis, which regulates the heart, blood and respiration, is grown. After this has occurred, the R-complex, the area of the brain that is thought to house the most primordial intelligence, is developed. The limbic system and neocortex are later additions to this central core.

MacLean also states that the R-complex plays an important role in the aggressive behavior, territoriality, ritualism and establishment of social hierarchies. (which, by the way, are behavioral and social qualities that are frequently expressed by reptilian beings during abductions and contacts) Much of our own behavior as human beings is ruled by this archaic region of the brain, and as Mr. Sagan himself so eloquently phrases it . . .

"It does no good whatsoever to ignore the reptilian component of human nature, particularly our ritualistic and hierarchical behavior. On the contrary, the model may help us understand what human beings are all about."

Throughout The Dragons of Eden, one can find other subtle hints as to his true knowledge of our genetic connection with the reptilian beings that have played an important role in our species existence. He mentions how much of our behavior is even expressed in reptilian terms, such as "cold blooded" killer and that the common human sounds commanding silence or attracting attention being that of hissing snakes. These and other clues pervade his book right down to the M.C. Escher illustration of two reptilian iguanas floating in a three-dimensional Star of David in space.

Along with the fact that the pheromone of women and female iguanas are a chemical match (Omni, May 94), here lie the reasons why the reptilian beings are so interested in our genetic evolution. We are more physically and mentally connected to reptiles than previously understood, so their interest in us is justified when one realizes that we may be, as myth and legends have related, actual reptilian genetic offspring. This connection may now allow one to understand why the abductions and clinical experimentation on human beings are being carried out by the elusive reptilian race. It may also be because some things never change, even since the days of Eden.

I cannot, however, complete this discussion about Carl Sagan without quoting a passage from his book for it truly brings forth that which Mr. Sagan has tried to hide between the lines.

G.K. Chesterton once wrote:

"You can free things from alien or accidental laws, but not from the laws of their own nature . . . Do not go about . . . encouraging triangles to break out of the prison of their three sides. If a triangle breaks out of its three sides, its life comes to a lamentable end."

(By the way, I find it somewhat bewildering that someone who understands the reptilian part of the brain so well is named Sagan, because his name spelled backwards is that of the mystical east Indian reptilian Gods, the-NAGAS!)

AS ABOVE, SO BELOW

As reported in the beginning of this discussion, reptilians have coexisted on this planet with us since history began. And, as eluded to in Genesis, divisions of these reptilians remained behind in the cavernous regions of the Earth whilst the creators ventured outward across the face of the deep waters or space.

Legends from different parts of the globe all tell of underworld inhabited by mystical beings of varied forms. I believe that the reptilian races, consisting of both benevolent and evil beings, still reside to this day underground, hidden away in the dark crevices of the Earth and in the depths of the oceans. The evidence supporting this proclamation is also available through recent reports and historical documentation.

First, and most important, is our understanding that our own United States government has duped us to believe that the wonders of the universe lie beyond our reach. That our progress to understanding who and what we are as intelligent, life forms rest solely on the efforts of the inept workings of NASA, JPL and a myriad of other money sucking aerospace corporations. Almost fifty years of continued rat experiments outside the envelope of our planet and we are to believe that this is the ultimate pace of human exploration! This is absolutely not the case. Publicly viewed space exploration is nothing more that a magic show and, as most people realize, when the magician says to look at his right hand, his left is doing all the work. Such is the case with exploration. If you really want to get to see the big show, don't look above your head, look below your feet.

Investigation into the interior of the Earth began with map surveyors and explorers venturing out into unknown territory in order to chart the wilderness. Once in a while, they'd come across a cave or cavern and then descend into its depths to hopefully find treasures or artifacts. Once these hollowed out recesses of the Earth along the coastlines were discovered, their location was kept secret and certain groups of individuals purchased the properties. They used, and still use, their subterranean chambers for illegal activities, social gatherings or modes of concealed travel for reasons of their own. Some say that Washington, D.C. was purposely established above a huge catacomb, so certain Freemasonic fraternities and the like could utilize their hidden corridors while governing the nation. I believe that may have been the case.

Large oil interests modernized seismic technology and geological exploration with an ever increasing pace. Due to this wave of subsurface exploration, more and more artifacts were discovered that defied mainstream historical and explanation. As these artifacts were collected by USGS and Smithsonian Institution employees, they were concealed from the public, carefully studied by unknown entities within and outside of the Federal administration and then mysteriously lost.

As years wore on, more and more mystifying archaeological discoveries were made. Those who studied these artifacts were well aware of the fact that things were not as they appeared to be, so it must have been of little surprise to these scientists and archaeologists when Kenneth Arnold spotted his first UFO or flying DINO-Saucer vehicle while flying his private airplane over Washington state June 24th, 1947.

It was also around this time that our government began to build a vast web bunker systems connected by tube shuttles. After all, they were now dealing with a highly advanced species that could wipe out a surface structure with no problem as well as a cold war threat with the former Soviet Union. Ensuring governmental survival was a priority. It was also around this time in history that underground nuclear testing was being performed for military and peaceful purposes. One such series of tests was called project Plowshare.

DULCE BASE - ALTERNATE PERCEPTIONS

In the early 1960s, a subterranean nuclear blast occurred about 30 miles southwest of Dulce, New Mexico right off U.S. 64. This nuclear blast was conducted under the umbrella project Plowshare, and was named project Gassbuggy. It has recently been alleged that this particular subsurface nuclear blast was used to create a hollowed out chute or chimney for development of a substation for a super secret tunnel system attached to an underground black book project base known as Dulce Base.

According to Thomas Edwin Castello, a former Dulce Base security officer, this particular underworld city is a highly secret base operated by humans as well as reptilian aliens and their worker cast, the commonly encountered greys. It is here, apparently, that a multitude of experimentation projects are carried out. The projects are, apparently, primarily genetic in nature and are carried out either men, women or children that have been declared missing by authorities. There is a myriad of other specialty science projects taking place at Dulce base including, but not limited to, Atomic manipulation, cloning, studies of the human aura, advanced mind control applications, animal/human crossbreeding, visual and audio wiretapping, the list goes on.

If it was true that this base existed long before human occupation, then its construction and layout may possibly tell us something about its original occupants, the reptilians. We know this because the sacred teachings of ancient metaphysics relate that imagery created by ritualistic and intelligent beings often contain information occulted in symbolism.

The Dulce base floor plan was illustrated, as per the originals by Thomas Castello, and released in 1994. When inspected carefully, its layout appears to be extremely well planned.

From a vertical viewpoint, it resembles a wheel with a central hub and corridors radiating outwards like spokes. This "hub" is the focal point of the entire base. It is surrounded by central security and extends through all levels of the base. I believe this core to be the Achilles heel of the entire facility. It probably contains fiber optic communications and power lines. This would justify its highly guarded and central location as well as explain its vertical continuation through all levels. With all communication lines and power lines focused towards the hub, it is possible that any level could be completely "locked down" by its own security or the security hubs from either above or below its own level. This would provide maximum control over the entire facility.

The "spokes" or corridors radiating away from the central hub, lead to numerous other labs in five different directions. Connect the spokes and a pentagon is revealed in its design. From above, this base resembles the layout of the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. Complete with halls, walls and military insignias! Since we do not have the exact heading of its corridors, magnetic alignments are impossible to determine.

When viewed laterally, its appearance takes on the look of a tree with a trunk at its center and its floors extending outwards like the branches. If this is a facility of science, then one could easily say that its lateral appearance is like that of the tree of knowledge. Was this purposely designed this way or does it just happen to be a coincidence?

The overall design of this facility reminds one of a multi stacked subterranean Hopi Indian kiva. Although I believe that it's somewhat of a disservice to the Hopi to even be spoken of in association with a cave of horrors like the Dulce Base, its similarity in design should not be forgotten.

As cultures around the world tend to bring their own styles of architecture with them during periods of migration, so perhaps did the advanced civilization that original built Dulce Base. And, if the reptilian influence over man is as great as archaic documentation and myth would have one believe, then there have to be other subterranean dwellings similar to this in other locations.

If we locate another subsurface habitation similar in appearance to the Dulce base and linked it to a reptilian or snake legend, we will have obtained supporting evidence as to the reality of the Dulce facility and our reptilian overlords. In my personal quest to investigate and discover these connections, my journey led took me to the mystical land of the North American Indians. The Four Corners of the world.

HOPÍ - THE REPTILIAN EXAMPLE OF SPIRITUALITY?

In the southwestern region of the United States, specifically the four corners area of Utah, Arizona, Colorado and New Mexico, one can find remnants of the most ancient of all American Indian cultures. The Hopi Indian tribe.

The Hopi live out their fairly non progressive and ritualistic lives atop mesas on a reservation located in the north eastern portion of Arizona. They originated from the eastern part of the Grand Canyon and slowly migrated eastward to where they reside today. Surrounded by the progressive and formerly nomadic Navaho nation, they await the forthcoming Great Purification or, as many people call it, the day of Revelation.

The religion and myth of the Hopi Indian are based upon the worship of the snake. Their legend of Genesis also recounts how reptilians or snake people played an important part in their ancestry.

Today, the ancestors of the Hopi tribes are referred to as their Snake brothers or El-der brothers and their reverence towards their reptilian ancestors is evident throughout all ceremonies of the Hopi Indians. When their most sacred of all underground kiva rituals are performed, that of the Snake dance, rattlesnakes are present to hear their prayers. These snakes are then later released into the wilderness so as they can return to the gods of the Underworld with the tribes prayers.

According to Hopi myth, they used to live in a great subterranean underworld alongside a race of beings called the Ant people. These Ant people, which might by today's standards be considered grey aliens, helped feed and clothe the Hopi during their lives in the Underworld. One day, under the direction of their matriarchal Goddess Spider woman, they ascended to the surface by way of a hollowed bamboo shoot which sprung forth through an opening in the ceiling of their cave called the Sipapuni.

They say that soon after their arrival on the surface, a mocking bird came along and confused the language of the Hopi, the results of which encouraged them to break up into small clans of different languages. This is remarkably similar to the story of the Tower of Babel. One day soon there after, an exceedingly bright star, or star-ship, appeared above them in the sky. Believing it was a God, they followed it during it's journey across the sky. They did so until it stopped in one place. When it stopped, some of the Hopi remained and settled. When the star later appeared, the other Hopi followed it until it stopped once again. This continued until all the Hopi were settled. This is the Hopi description of the original planting of their race.

The myths of the Hopi Genesis would be considered, as others, based upon fantasy and imagination if it wasn't for one, solitary discovery that was made by a man traveling down the Colorado river aboard a skiff in the Grand Canyon almost ninety-five years ago. That mans name was Kincaid and his discovery was that of the Hopi Indian underworld or the Sipapuni.

THE GREATEST STORY EVER ATTEMPTED TO BE TOLD

On March 12th, 1909, a small article appeared in the Arizona Gazette newspaper announcing the arrival in of a man by the name of G.E.

Kincaid, who had just completed a Colorado river rafting trip from Green River, Wyoming. He stated that he enjoyed his trip and planned on returning the following winter for another run at the Colorado River. He also mentioned his discovery of some "interesting artifacts" which he was mailing to the Smithsonian Institution.

Three weeks, three days later on April 5th, 1909, a front page article appeared in the Arizona Gazette (article attached to this report) in which Kincaid is interviewed in detail about his archaeological find. This discovery of Kincaids, as notably remarked in the article, was to be considered the most significant archaeological find in the world throughout all history.

As the article is quite long and detailed, I will only briefly repeat the most important facts concerning this discovery that will help us throw light upon our search.

Mr. Kincaid had apparently discovered a massive underground city that was cut into a wall of the Grand Canyon with the precision equaled only to that of the Great Pyramid. The highly advanced civilization that inhabited this subterranean city was of unknown origin, although several different artifacts were found, such as a Buddha, mummies and hieroglyphics, that were of Oriental, Egyptian and central American origin.

As the Smithsonian Institution archaeological team, spearheaded by a professor S.A. Jordan, continued their treks into the depths of this city, they discovered hundreds of rooms. Some rooms were as small as an average living room and others as large as several hundred feet in length and breadth. It was estimated that the area explored so far by the team could have comfortably housed fifty thousand people!

The location of this discovery was veiled in secrecy because, as Mr. Kincaid put it "They don't want to be disturbed." His only clues were that it was about 42 miles north of the Crystal creek. After the completion of his interview and the printing of this story the next day in the Arizona Gazette newspaper, not a single thing was ever mentioned about it again publicly until the original article resurfaced once again three years ago. So spin the wheels of secrecy and conspiracy.

THE DULCE-SIPAPUNI-REPTILIAN CONNECTION

Upon reviewing the article in detail, I was able to discern Three immensely important clues as to whom the occupants and their rulers may have been. The first clue has to do with the Sipapuni's builders or stone masons.

If there is an underground city in the Grand Canyon that is large enough to house fifty thousand people, as Kincaid would have us believe, then the engineering skills needed to construct such a underworld would have rivaled those used to create the Great Pyramid of Gizeh and the other highly engineered stone fortresses and temple platforms that are scattered across the Earth. Except for Kincaid's remarks as to the antiquity of this underground citadel, he said that it appears to have been built many years previous to the Christian era. Could it have been built in the same era as was the Great Pyramid? Could it have been created by the same hands that built the other anomalous structures around the world?

These questions become even more intriguing when one realizes another absolutely fantastic "coincidence." It has been seriously speculated by many well-known researchers and archaeologists that the original great Pyramid may have been built under the direction of the Sumerian reptilian gods and by the labor of the first Mediterranean and world travelers called the Phoenicians. Is it just another coincidence that not far from this area of Arizona lies the great city of Phoenix and that the inhabitants refer to themselves as Phoenicians? Was this some strange coincidence or is it an occulted signature from those in the know?

The second clue is the fact that is that when Kincaid discovered the Sipapuni, he discovered a floor plan that was remarkable similar to that of the Dulce Base. In Kincaid's own words that he describes the Sipapuni floor plan as having "a mammoth chamber from which radiates scores of passageways, like the spokes of a wheel." This is the same configuration as to that of Dulce Base, the underground facility that is reported to have been originally occupied by the reptilian being species.

The third, and most important, factor is that both underground worlds are associated with reptilian beings. Thomas Castello, the man claiming to have been a former security officer in the Dulce Base, said that the commanders of the nonhuman grey alien beings were humanoid reptilian creatures that were tall and had vertical slit pupils. The Hopi mythology and oral traditions, on the other hand, state that their EL-der brothers had snake forms and were the rulers of the underworld. These two perspectives are strikingly similar, with the only difference being that one is derived from history and the other from our present era.

In all, there exists a combination of three important elements that are apparently shared by both underground facilities or cities. One, they are both huge underground cities. Two, they both have a similar floor plan design and Three, they are both associated with reptilian overlords. Are these associations coincidental or are we beginning to reveal a pattern of some sort?

Most importantly, after three years of intense research and field explorations into the Grand Canyon area, I believe that I have finally located the Hopi Sipapuni underworld that G.E. Kincaid initially discovered in 1909. I have acquired physical evidence indicating anomalous activity occurring during that time period, new interpretations of an ancient Hopi prophecy supports the "story" of Kincaids discovery and I, and a close colleague of mine, have stood upon the same ground where Kincaid once stood in awe.

Evidence of this recent discovery has been relayed to several key people across the United States for security purposes. A more detailed report of this discovery is forthcoming and will be made available to the public in the very near future.

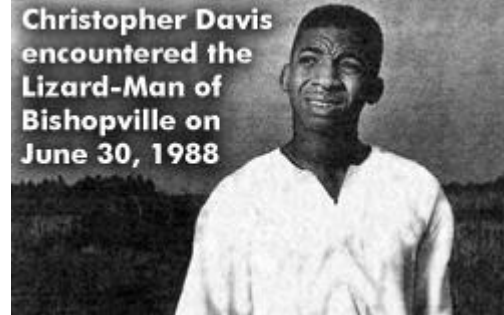

SUMMATION

Various pieces of evidence accumulatively indicate a strong relationship between the human and reptilian species. Mytho-histories of aboriginal tribes across the world record their presence on the surface of the Earth. Underground cities that are reported to exist in the southwestern United States, such as Dulce base and the Hopi Indian Sipapuni, appear to have been constructed by reptilian beings, experienter reports continue to describe contacts with nonhuman life forms that have a reptilian anatomy and the human brain reminds us of how the human race evolved from reptiles.. This reptiliform influence is more than just symbolism. It appears to be a manifested reality in our lives that refuses to disappear.

The reptilian beings are on Earth now, they always have been on this planet and, if we can overcome our inherent fear of the reptilian image and understand how it has been used against us, we will one day realize that, although we are physically different, we are from the same primordial essence.

The Lizard-Man of Bishopville, South Carolina

One dark night near Bishopville, South Carolina, in June of 1988, seventeen-year-old Christopher Davis stopped to change a flat tire along Scape Ore Swamp. As he was finishing the task and putting the flat tire in the trunk, he heard a noise coming from a nearby field. As he peered off into the darkness, he saw a seven foot tall creature with red glowing eyes running towards him on its two hind legs and grunting as it closed in. Christopher jumped into the car and sped off down the road.

Just as he thought his nightmare was over, Christopher heard a crashing thud above him and saw a large, three-fingered hand with scales and long claws reach over his windshield. Another hand was trying to pry open his drivers side door. Christopher, now petrified and scared for his life, swerved the vehicle on the road and the creature suddenly fell off. He didn't know what kind of animal ran on two legs and could catch up with his car, which was traveling at a relatively high speed. He had managed to get away and that's all that mattered.

When Christopher arrived at home shaking and crying, his father settled him down and Christopher began to tell his parents about what had happened. His dad knew that his son wasn't usually an imaginative storyteller, and Christopher's highly emotional state compelled him to believe that Christopher did, in fact, see something highly unusual.

Former Bishopville Sheriff, Liston Truesdale, shows John Rhodes the field where Christopher Davis reported seeing the "Lizard Man" charging toward him as he finished fixing his flat tire on a fatefull and frightening dark night of June 30, 1988.

COPYRIGHT 2004, JOHN RHODES

When Lee County Sheriff Liston Truesdale heard about what had occurred to Christopher Davis, he interviewed him and asked Christopher if he would be willing to take a lie detector test. Liston figured that if Christopher was really making up a story for attention, the idea of taking a lie detector test would make him retract his story. To Liston's surprise, Christopher happily agreed to be tested, adding that he was sure of what happened and of what he had encountered.

Christopher Davis drew an image of the being that attacked his car and got wired up for the test. A series of questions about the event were put to him and Christopher answered them without hesitation. Although believing that they were victims of an imagination gone wild, the officers administering the lie detector test and Liston soon realized otherwise. Christopher had passed the test with flying colors.

While Christopher Davis' adventure into the unknown had ended, Sheriff Liston Truesdale's had just begun.

In the months that followed, Sheriff Truesdale began to receive more and more reports from individuals claiming to have seen a large, wild beast near Scape Ore Swamp. It's not unusual to hear such stories, seeing that the swamp had a long history of mysteries involving reports of hauntings, sightings of strange lights, and the occasional bear or two. But the new reports were different.

Multiple eyewitnesses began to surface. Many of those whom Sheriff Truesdale interviewed were upstanding members of the community. They were people who risked losing credibility and possibly business. Most of all, Liston noticed the highly charged emotional state of some of the eyewitnesses. His investigation-training at the FBI academy taught him to look for signs of emotional distress to help him determine when someone was recovering from a truly traumatic event, and many who reported seeing the "Lizard-Man" were showing all the signs.

It wasn't long before word spread throughout Bishopville and beyond. The press, curiosity seekers, avid out-of-town hunters, and television crews from around the world began to show up. Gradually, businesses began to profit from the invasion. Lizard-Man mania engulfed the small community and the nation when the Bishopville Lizard-Man story was reported on CBS news. Stories were also printed in the Los Angeles Times, the Charlotte Observer, the Herald Examiner, and Time Magazine. Serious investigators, the international press, and the societal "fringe" arrived on the scene.

Sheriff's department spokesman Billy Moore told reporters that although hundreds of the 3,500 plus residents of Bishopville ventured into Scape Ore Swamp in search of the "Lizard-Man," armed with shotguns, most of the citizens believed that the sightings were hoaxes. After looking into it himself, however, Moore said that he had no doubt that there was something very real on the road with young Christopher Davis that strange night. He thought, though, that there had to be a more conventional explanation.

Meanwhile, George Hollomon Jr., 32, from Bishopville reported seeing the Lizard-Man while collecting water from an artesian well near the Scape Ore Swamp bridge. Hollomon and an unnamed friend were both frightened away by a creature fitting Christopher Davis's description. Hollomon's brother told reporters that George was visibly shaken by the event and that, despite his pleas for George to stop telling the story, because he didn't want to hear it anymore, he continued talking about it. He said it took time for George to settle down.

Also, a young couple by the name of Brian Edward (23) & Michelle Nunnery (20) Elmore informed the Sheriff's office that they almost hit a huge, bipedal beast while driving on Cedar Creek "Gum Springs" Road at 12:30 am. They provided statements and were interviewed by officers.

Lizard-Man mania soon began to bring out the worst in people, and Sheriff Truesdale knew that it was only a matter of time before some gun-toting Lizard-Man hunter was going to accidentally shoot someone in the swamp.

It was then that the inevitable happened: An Air Force sergeant was discovered trying to dress up in a lizard costume. When the press heard the story, a shadow of doubt was cast over the Lizard-Man encounters. When the press left Bishopville, Liston was happy to see his hometown return to normal. But "normal" never really returned.

During the early 1990's, the Sheriff's office continued to receive reports of Lizard-Man sightings.

One eyewitness, a Colonel in the Army Corps of Engineers, reported seeing a half-dinosaur, half-man running alongside his car late one night. He informed Sheriff Truesdale of the event and, after seeking counsel from his attorney, decided not to place a formal report on file regarding his sighting. The stated reason for his refusal was that his attorney told him he would lose his privacy. As an officer who had spent years at the Pentagon, and who was about to be promoted to General, Robert Cooper may have thought that filing the report would be a death sentence to his military career.

Another truly interesting eyewitness Lizard-Man encounter was that of the Blythers family. While driving home after getting dinner at a fast food restaurant, a woman and her children were laughing about the Lizard-Man sightings when their lives took a sudden, frightening turn: They almost hit a huge, hairy beast on the road. The encounter shook them up so much that they immediately drove to the Sheriff's office and told Sheriff Truesdale and his officers about what had happened. The family was split up into different rooms and their reports were taken separately. All information provided matched.

STATEMENT OF BERTHA MAE BLYTHERS
ROUTE 1, BOX 163, CAMDEN, S.C.
D.O.B. - JAN. 19, 1954; AGE 36
EMPLOYED AT BURLINGTON PLANT IN BISHOPVILLE, S.C.
HOUSE WIFE, SEPERATED - FOUR CHILDREN.

This past Monday night I went to my mother's house in Browntown to pick up my son. We went to McDonald's on Highway 15 near Bishopville to get something to eat. We left there about 20 minutes after 10:00 P.M., was headed home and came through Browntown and Scape Ore Swamp.

The people in the car was my son, Johnny, age 18, my daughters, Tamacia, age 11, Christa, age 5, and my two twin boys, age 4.

After I turned to the other side of the road, I mashed my brakes and my son saw something walking across the road behind us. My son wanted to turn around and go back, but I wouldn't. "I was too scared. There was no way I would have turned that car around and went back". I came on home and called my sister, Virginia, and told her about it. She told me to report to the Sheriff's Office.

My son wanted me to turn around right then and report it, but I came on home, I was scared to get out of the car, and when I did I liked to never got the right key to get in the door.

This ends the statement of Bertha Mae Blythers.

409 2, 1990

July 31, 1990

STATEMENT OF JOHNNY BLYTHERS
ROUTE 1, BOX 163 CAMDEN, SC
D.O.B. - Oct. 17, 1971; AGE 18
JUST GRADUATED FROM BISHOPVILLE HIGH SCHOOL
EMPLOYED BY THE CITY OF BISHOPVILLE S.C.

This statement relates to an unusual sighting that happened July 30, 1990 on the Browntown-Hickory Hill Road in Lee County.

Last night about 10:30 P.M., we were coming home from the Browntown section of Lee County. It was me, my mother (Bertha Mae Blyther), two sisters, ages five and ten, my two brothers, age four (twins).

I started talking about the time we passed the flowing well in Scape Ore Swamp. I said "they aint no such thing as a Lizzard Man, if there was, somebody would be seeing it or caught it".

We got up about a mile or mile and one half passed the butter bean shed, about 50 feet from the dirt road by those two signs, my mother was driving the car.

It was on the right side, it came out of the bushes. It jumped out in the road. My mother swerved to miss it, and mashed the brakes and sped up. It jumped out of the bushes like he was going to jump on the car. When my mother mashed the brakes, it looked like it wanted to get in the car.

SIZE: it was taller than me. I'm 5' 10". It was 6 feet tall or more.

COLOR: I would say it was brown- all of us said it was brown.

DISCRIP.: Had hair on it. Tall big eyes, brown.

I told by mother to turn around, I wanted to see what it was, but she wouldn't. We wern't going fast, about 30 miles an hour.

This was none of my imagination, I know I saw it, and I'm not trying to get on T.V.

I know " I see it last night and I ain't crazy". It stood up like a human, not straight up, but humped over, kinda in a crouched position.

Never seen anything that looked like it before. Had arms and legs-big eyes.

I ain't going to lie, I know what I see. I'm not like Chris Davis, I don't know what he saw, but I know what I see, and I'm not trying to get attention.

My mother said "Ya'll see that, ya'll see that"? My sister started screaming. We came home pretty fast. My sister thought it was going to get her.

We came home and reported it to the Sheriff's Office.

NOTE: It looked to be "what he measured to be a yard wide" says it was a lot bigger than him.

The people I talked to , they worked with me, (some of them)-that I talked to - today were laughing at me. They said "it was my imagination".

July 31, 1990

STATEMENT OF JOHNNY BLYTHERS
ROUTE 1, BOX 163 CAMDEN, SC
D.O.B. - Oct. 17, 1971; AGE 18
JUST GRADUATED FROM BISHOPVILLE HIGH SCHOOL
EMPLOYED BY THE CITY OF BISHOPVILLE S.C.

This statement relates to an unusual sighting that happened July 30, 1990 on the Browntown-Hickory Hill Road in Lee County.

Last night about 10:30 P.M., we were coming home from the Browntown section of Lee County. It was me, my mother (Bertha Mae Blyther), two sisters, ages five and ten, my two brothers, age four (twins).

I started talking about the time we passed the flowing well in Scape Ore Swamp. I said "they aint no such thing as a Lizzard Man, if there was, somebody would be seeing it or caught it".

We got up about a mile or mile and one half passed the butter bean shed, about 50 feet from the dirt road by those two signs, my mother was driving the car.

It was on the right side, it came out of the bushes. It jumped out in the road. My mother swerved to miss it, and mashed the brakes and sped up. It jumped out of the bushes like he was going to jump on the car. When my mother mashed the brakes, it looked like it wanted to get in the car.

SIZE: it was taller than me. I'm 5' 10". It was 6 feet tall or more.

COLOR: I would say it was brown- all of us said it was brown.

DISCRIP.: Had hair on it. Tall big eyes, brown.

I told by mother to turn around, I wanted to see what it was, but she wouldn't. We wern't going fast, about 30 miles an hour.

This was none of my imagination, I know I saw it, and I'm not trying to get on T.V.

I know " I see it last night and I ain't crazy". It stood up like a human, not straight up, but humped over, kinda in a crouched position.

Never seen anything that looked like it before. Had arms and legs-big eyes.

I ain't going to lie, I know what I see. I'm not like Chris Davis, I don't know what he saw, but I know what I see, and I'm not trying to get attention.

My mother said "Ya'll see that, ya'll see that"? My sister started screaming. We came home pretty fast. My sister thought it was going to get her.

We came home and reported it to the Sheriff's Office.

NOTE: It looked to be "what he measured to be a yard wide" says it was a lot bigger than him.

The people I talked to , they worked with me, (some of them)-that I talked to - today were laughing at me. They said "it was my imagination".

Page # 1

August 2, 1990

STATEMENT OF TAMACIA BLYTHERS AGE 11
Route # 1, Box 163 Camden, S.C. DOB 3018079
Lives with her mother and goes to school

We were riding along. I was the first to see it. I was on the the door on the passengers side. I had the glass down. I had my arm on the door where the glass was at. When I saw it, I hollowerd and ran the glass up, and got close to my mother.

DESCRIPTION: Tall-Taller than the car, Brown looking, a big chest had big eyes...had two arms, Don't know how his face looked...first seen his eyes (Never seen nothing like it before. I didn't see a tail)

Mother says if she hadn't whiped over he would have hit her car or jumped on it. Would like to see it and get a picture.

Mother said she was so scared her body light and she held her heart all the way home.

First time any of them has ever seen anything at night... Careful about dogs not to run over them.

This ends the statement of Tamacia Blythers.

Witness:

Liston Truesdale

August 2, 1990

In another strange incident, damage to a Ford LTD belonging to Tom and Mary Waye was attributed to the Lizard-Man, because of the anomalous strength that would be needed to cause the destruction. In the middle of the night, when Tom and Mary were asleep upstairs in their house, parts of their car had been ripped apart and wires were pulled away from under the hood. Remarkably, neither Tom nor Mary heard a single sound all night. (Read about Dixie Rawson's report to a news station regarding her March 2008 Lizard Man car attack)

To this day, Sheriff Liston Truesdale continues his search for whatever it was that turned his small, sleepy community upside-down. The Lizard-Man of Bishopville occasionally resurfaces, and continues to provide a sense of mystery and wonder.

RAND CORP. DOCUMENTS SUPPORTED CREATION OF 14,000 MPH U.S. TUBE-SHUTTLE NETWORK

Many individuals claiming to have seen Reptoids also report that they saw human scientists and/or military personnel present at the scene of their encounter. These experienter observations indicate that at least one or two rogue or sanctioned intelligence groups are acting in unison with the Reptilian-Humanoid culture.

Since most black budget scientific-military projects are conducted from hidden, subterranean command centers, it makes research sense to cross reference Reptoid sightings with known or suspected secret underground scientific-military installations.

This is why, for many years, the Reptoids Research Center has been promoting public awareness of Reptilian-Humanoid (Reptoid) cryptids, underground tunnels, advanced tunneling technologies, and secret corporate-military underground bases.

Government whistleblowers and retired military personnel have publicly stated that during their employment they observed that our government has a massive network of tunnels, with super velocity trains, linking secret underground bases. (Thomas Castello, the former Dulce Base security officer, reported to an associate that Dulce had a tube-shuttle station linked to several other secret underground bases.)

At first hearing, these statements seem too far-out to be true. We've all seen television shows about tunnels and they always show how expensive, dangerous, and disastrous near-surface tunnel construction can be. So, obviously an undertaking such as constructing a massive, sci-fi-like network of underground tunnels would take too much money and hundreds of years to build! NOT SO, say scientists!

In 1972, Robert M. Salter, lead scientist with the Rand Corporation, announced during an interview with LA Times science writer George Getz, that a high speed system could be built using existing (1972) technologies. He also stated that the system should be built for environmental and economic reasons. What kind of speeds was he talking about? Try 10,000 MPH! (Read this June 11, 1972 LA Times article).

On August 2nd, 1972, Salter wrote Rand document P-4874. The publication was titled, "The Very High Speed Transit [VHST] System." The 17-page report detailed the technologies involved, possible attained speeds, aspects of economic and security benefits, and potential routes. This document reported achievable passenger speeds at 14,000 MPH!

By 1978, this proposal grew in dimension and attracted serious consideration by Continuity of Government officials, intelligence departments and U.S. military command. That February, Robert Salter submitted report number P-6092, titled, "Trans-Planetary Subway Systems: A Burgeoning Capability." This report updated route maps and extrapolated further upon the economic and technical considerations in planning the system.

Even though the National Geographic, History and Sci-Fi channels have programs exposing the underground cities of ancient civilizations (and storage companies), only our imaginations can provide insight into how extensive a national security network of

The VERY HIGH SPEED TRANSIT SYSTEM
R.M. Salter, Rand Corporation. Aug. 1972

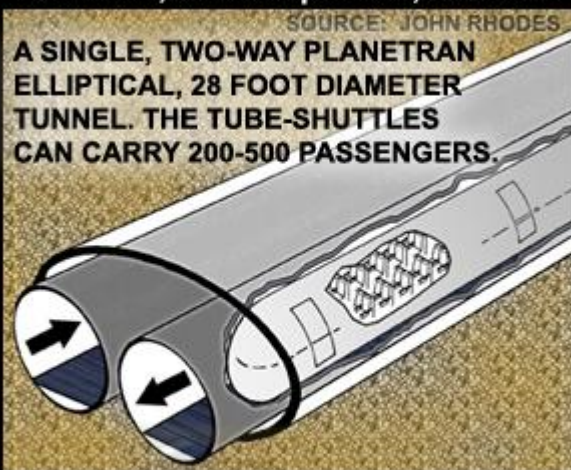

"Speeds as high as 14,000 mph have been examined in studies by the Rand corporation (in an example case of a direct link between Los Angeles and New York requiring 21 minute transit time.)"

READ MORE ABOUT THAT HERE: PSYCHICS.COM

tunnels might be if the Black Operations World (BOW) were given the green light to begin construction.

By using conventional 'rock drilling' Tunnel Boring Machines (TBMs), it would take decades to complete. Whereas using the more advanced TBMs, developed by Los Alamos Labs, the construction costs would have been sharply reduced, the time required to build tunnels lessened, and the inherent dangers of loose rock tunneling avoided. (see the actual Los Alamos patents 1, 2, 3).

TRANS-PLANETARY SUBWAY SYSTEMS
A BURGEONING CAPABILITY
R.M.Salter, Rand Corporation, Feb. 1978

"Civil Defense shelter and underground industrial deployment plus Planetran/FRS transportation features will enhance U.S. Defense posture."

READ MORE ABOUT IT AT REPTOIDS.COM

There are many reasons, including: If surface humanity were to encounter a serious extraterrestrial threat, natural or alien, it would be better to have relocated transportation systems underground to maintain operations and continuity of the government; the threat of terrorist attacks on the national transportation infrastructure would be minimized; surface CO² emissions would be greatly reduced.

HAS THE VHST SYSTEM BEEN BUILT?
According to numerous eyewitnesses and former government employees, the system already exists and is currently being used by the Shadow government, their black ops forces, plus favored corporate entities.

WHY ARE WE TRYING TO GENERATE INTEREST IN THESE DOCUMENTS?

Can we afford not to make this move?

For further information regarding Robert M Salter Rand documents, click here.

Note: The Reptoids Research Center will not intentionally expose the exact location of secret underground installations.

There are rational reasons for secrecy sometimes and we do not want to encourage trespassing or wilderness hikes by unskilled explorers who are looking to verify their suspicions.

LA Times Article Proposes 10,000 MPH Tube-Shuttle Network?

Imagine taking a trip from LA to San Francisco in 21 minutes! While it might sound too incredible to be true, in 1972 scientists publicly stated that it could be built and it should be built.

The following is a quoted article that appeared in the Los Angeles Times newspaper on June 11, 1972. It is an interview with the RAND Corporation's lead physicist, Dr. Robert M. Salter about the benefit of constructing an underground Very High Speed Transit (VHST) system across the United States. It describes the economical and environmental benefits of subterranean transportation and states that traveling at such amazing speeds can be achieved using conventional (1972) technologies.

Think About It: Our government's planning for Continuity Of Government (COG) includes underground bunker facilities located across the United States. It only stands to reason that the planners would have also considered how their supply lines could be protected from airborne attack. Someone involved in the planning, after reading the following article, would have realized that an underground VHST tube shuttle system would be perfect for protecting the distribution of vital personnel and supplies under an American Battlefield landscape without risk or interference.

If military strategists knew such a remarkable system could be built, not building it and leaving our national transportation infrastructure above ground, vulnerable to damage by military attack or natural disasters, would be neglecting national security objectives.

It's been over thirty-five years since this concept was first made public. I believe it is time for the Shadow Government to turn over the main lines to the surface population. If rumors are true, the Black Ops could begin using their hidden, "backup" tube shuttle systems full time instead.

(Bold Type Highlights by John Rhodes)

LA TIMES, JUNE 11, 1972

BEGIN ARTICLE QUOTE"

"L.A. to N.Y. in Half an Hour? 10,000 - M.P.H. Tunnel Train Plan Developed

By: Times Science Writer - George Getz

L.A. to N.Y. in Half an Hour? 10,000-M.P.H. Tunnel Train Plan Developed

BY GEORGE GETZ

A Rand Corp. physicist has devised a rapid transit system to get you from Los Angeles to New York in half an hour for a $50 fare.

The next existing technology makes such a system feasible, and so does a cost analysis.

The essence of the idea is to dig a tunnel more or less along the present routes of U.S. Highways 66 and 30. The tunnel would contain several large tubes for the east-west travel of trains that float on magnetic fields, moving at top speeds of 10,000 m.p.h. Passengers would face forward during acceleration, backward during deceleration.

According to R. M. Salter Jr., head of the physical sciences department at Rand, the idea of high-speed train travel using electromagnetic suspension was first put forward in 1905 and actually patented in 1912.

The trains he suggested now would be single cars rather than actual trains, and would be big enough to carry both passengers and freight, including large containers and automobiles.

Could Carry Automobiles

The cars, or gondolas, would have the New York and Los Angeles terminals at intervals of every 100-mile intervals.

In the main line there would be intermediate stops at Amarillo and Chicago. feeder lines would meet the main line at both terminals.

There would be regular lines coming into the two main terminals from cities such as San Francisco, Boston and Washington.

The idea of VERT as a high-speed speed transit, developed originally in thinking about the satellite program and hypersonic aircraft speeds," Salter said in an interview at Rand.

"The background tubes were first suggested as alternatives, perhaps not quite seriously, but it was soon apparent that the idea of a tunnel containing such tubes had a lot of real advantages," he said.

Conservation of Energy

In the first place, he explained, there is the extremely important matter of the use and conservation of immense amounts of energy needed to move the vehicles at such great speeds.

"An airplane that travels faster than sound uses up a large part of its available energy simply just in climbing to an altitude where the speeds for which it is designed are possible," Salter said.

"That's true of rockets, too. Much of their energy is spent and lost forever in getting above the atmosphere."

That would not be true for the VERT gondolas traveling in their electromagnetic roadbeds, according to Salter.

The tubes would be emptied of air, almost to the point of vacuum, so the trains would not need much power to overcome air resistance. They would not even have to be streamlined.

In addition, if an electromagnetic trackbed, the opposing electromagnetic forces of wires in the floors of the gondolas could be superimposed which would further eliminate electrical resistance.

Breaking Generates Power

Just as important, the gondolas would, like old-fashioned trolley cars, generate power as they break to a stop.

"Since the trains would be leaving New York and Los Angeles simultaneously every minute, the power generated by one breaking would be transferred to the power lines propelling the train going the other way," Salter said.

"Far from there will be half-way points between each stop. Trains would use power going in the half-way point, and generate power going the other half of the way to the stop. Each would use the power generated by trains going in the other direction."

That is the way trolley cars have operated for 50 years—taking power from the overhead lines while accelerating or running along at a steady speed, and putting power back into the lines while braking or freewheeling.

The big drawback to the Salter scheme is the cost of building clear across the nation.

He admitted that would be expensive but it does not doubt him.

"After the tunneling was finished, during deceleration. According to R. M. Salter Jr. head of the physical sciences department at Rand, the idea of high-speed train travel using electromagnetic suspension was first put forward in 1905 and actually patented in 1912. The trains he suggested now would be single cars rather than actual trains, and would be big enough to carry both passengers and freight, including large containers and automobiles.

Could Carry Automobiles

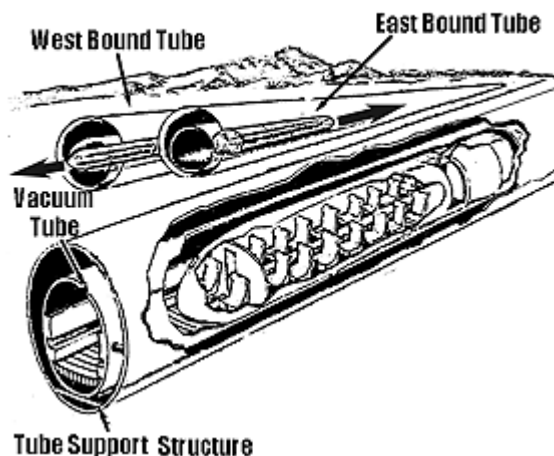

The cars, or gondolas, would leave the New York and Los Angeles terminals at one minute or even 30 second intervals. On the main line their would be intermediate stops at Amarillo and Chicago. Feeder lines would meet the main lines at both locations. Their would also be subsidiary lines coming into the two main terminals from such cities as San Francisco, Boston and Washington. The main idea of VHST, or Very High Speed Transit, developed originally in thinking about the satellite program and hyper sonic aircraft speeds." Salter said in an interview at Rand. "The underground tubes were for suggested as alternatives, perhaps not quite seriously, but it was soon apparent that the idea of a tunnel containing such tubes had a lot of real advantages." he said.

Conservation of Energy

In the first place, he explained there is the extremely important matter of the use and conservation of immense amounts of energy needed to move the vehicles at such great speed. "An airplane that travels faster than sound uses up a large part of its available energy supply just in climbing to an altitude where the speeds for which it is designed are possible." Salter said. "That's true of rockets to. Much of their energy is spent and lost forever and getting above the atmosphere." This would not be true for the VHST gondolas traveling on their electromagnetic rail beds, according to Salter. The tubes would be emptied of air, almost to the point of vacuum, so the trains would not need much power to overcome air resistance. They would not even have to be streamlined. In addition to an electromagnetic roadbeds, the opposing electromagnetic loops of wires in the floors of the gondolas would be super cooled with liquid Helium to further eliminate electrical resistance.

Breaking Generates Power

Just as important, the gondolas would, like old-fashioned trolley cars, generate power as they break to a stop. "Since the trains would be leaving New York and Los Angeles simultaneously every minute, the power generated by cars breaking coming into the terminal would be transferred to the power lines propelling the cars going the other way." "For example, there will be halfway points between each stop. Trains would use power and getting to that halfway point, and generate power going the other half of the way to the stop. Each would use power generated by trains going in the other direction." That is the way trolley cars have operated for eighty years - taking power from the overhead lines while accelerating or running along at a steady speed, and putting power back into the lines while breaking or coasting. The big drawback to the Salter scheme is the cost of tunneling across the nation. He admitted that it would be expensive but it does not daunt him. "After the tunneling was finished, everything else would be practically free." He said. Even at the low fair he proposes, the enormous debt created by the tunneling would be amortized within a reasonable period if the number of passengers and the amount of freight came up to Salter's expectations. He figures the tunnel's would carry seven or 8 million tons of freight a day and that passengers would take to traveling back and forth between the Eastern West Coast has readily as they now fly between San Francisco and Los Angeles. "The technology of this is much easier than was developed for the space program."

Salter said. And tunnels, he added, need not be so expensive to dig is people think. The most expensive thing about surface routes is the acquiring right-of-way and removing buildings that stand on the chosen route. The tunnel would not incur this expense. The tunnel, besides carrying tubes for passenger and freight gondolas, would carry many of the utilities now strung across the countryside on high wires. Salter said these underground power "lines" could be super-cooled with helium, like the electromagnetic loops in the floors of the gondolas. He said this would so reduce resistance that power could be transferred from one end of the country to the other without appreciable loss. At the present time long distance transportation of power is difficult because of the amount of energy wasted. He said laser beams could be carried in the tunnel for the instantaneous transmission of messages. Even the mail could go cross-country in pneumatic tubes carried in the tunnel. All this would save money and speed amortization, thus cutting the overall cost of tunneling. Salter said approximately 8000 miles of tunnel were dug in America and Western Europe in the 1960s. That includes mine shafts. But he said existing tunneling technology could be vastly improved. Salter said many tunnels are dug nowadays almost as they would have been in the dark ages. Drilling holes in tunnel faces, and using machines with rotary bits are methods of tunneling that can be improved, according to him. He said the tunnel could be worked on from a great many "faces," for instance. Salter suggested, too, that electronic beams or even water be used to drill holes for blasting. The high-powered electrons would drill blasting holes almost instantaneously.

Travel by Airplane

Projections of future airplane and automobile travels in the United States, and the future train and truck transfer of freight, show that Salter's tunnel idea is not a science fiction fantasy. There will be more room in the tunnels for all the necessary transport than there will be over any feasible number of Airways and freeways and tracks. Salter's suggestion, according to the experts who have had a look at it, is an eminently practical one for handling all the necessary traffic cleanly and without clogging up the air and surface pathways. But it will such a system ever be developed? Salter himself is not optimistic. "Perhaps" is how he puts it. "I am not nearly so optimistic about the political aspects of the problem as I am about our technical capability of doing the job." He said. "History shows that some obviously feasible and practical projects, such as the tunnel proposed over and over again for connecting England and France under the English channel, can be put off for centuries because of political pressure. On the other hand, societies with relatively primitive technology can perform such engineering feats as the erection of impairments." Is the VHS T too far out? Salter suggested that to get the right perspective we should look back 100 years.

Comparison Made

By comparing transportation a century ago and transportation today, one gets a better feel for just how practical VHST is. It appears to be a logical next step, and much more practical than its alternatives of filling the highways and Airways with more and more individually guided vehicles. "This alone is a compelling reason for the high-speed system." Salter said. There are others, according to him. "We can't afford any longer to continue indefinitely to pollute the skies with heat, chemicals, not to mention noise, or to carve up the land with pavement." He said. "We also need to get the trucks and many of the cars off the highway to make the roads available to drivers who drive the family car for fun and convenience."

"END ARTICLE QUOTE

Praying Mantis Aliens: The Mysterious Insectoid Extraterrestrial Race

December 5, 2024 |

Mantis aliens, also known as Praying Mantis aliens, are perhaps the most mysterious extraterrestrial creatures. These beings appear within many alien contact scenarios, with contactees reporting the presence of these entities looming over their beds as they wake in the dead of night. While the Mantis is not as widely reported as the Grey or Nordic alien, it still holds an important role within many extraterrestrial contact scenarios.

Some researchers have considered Mantids as a possible example of an early form of intelligent life from planet Earth itself, but this is only one theory of the origin of these creatures.

Mythology

Insect beings appear within mythologies throughout the world, including Native American and African folklore. The Khoisan tribe of Africa specifically regards the mantis as the first living creature on the Earth, who granted life to animals and humans, inventing language, and bringing fire to the people. It is even said that the mantis created the moon as a guide for hunters by throwing a gallbladder into the sky.

Insects embody a quality of “otherness” in their demeanor and appearance, and this lack of mammalian attributes tends to alienate and upset human beings, leading to the death of many insects. While the mantis is easily the most human-like arthropod, there exists a deeply rooted fear of otherness that is generated when a person encounters such a creature.

Could this human reaction explain the common experience of paralysis that Mantis beings induce when contacting Earthlings? The possibility of paralysis as a precautionary measure against the overwhelming human urge to destroy the “other” cannot be discounted.

Origin

The origins of Mantis aliens are shrouded in mystery, with some theories suggesting they hail from the Draco system. According to these beliefs, Mantis aliens work in close conjunction with the Reptilians, another well-known alien species. This collaboration is thought to be part of a broader cosmic agenda involving advanced technology and interstellar influence. While concrete evidence remains elusive, these ideas contribute to the intriguing and complex narrative surrounding Mantis aliens and their place in the broader extraterrestrial landscape.

Characteristics

Mantis aliens are distinguished by their unique physical and behavioral characteristics, setting them apart from other ancient aliens. Their insectoid features and advanced cognitive abilities offer a fascinating glimpse into the diversity of life forms that may exist beyond Earth.

Physical Appearance

By far the most striking aspect of the Mantis alien is its physical kinship with the praying mantis, the carnivorous and bipedal insect of its namesake. Many report these beings as 6-7 feet tall, with long, thin torsos. Their necks, arms, and hands have additional joints. Their heads are insect-like and triangular, with large, slanted eyes of deep brown to black.

Most Mantids are described as dark brown, but other colors such as green and black have also been encountered. Their bodies are composed of a segmented exoskeleton, and some contactees have reported that the Mantis seem to be coated in an oily substance. Mantis are often encountered wearing long robes in a variety of colors, perhaps signifying rank, while some are unclothed.

Communication Methods

Although the Mantis tend to communicate with human contactees using telepathic messages, they have been witnessed engaging one another using auditory language. Several contactees have described the Mantis language as a series of clicking sounds exchanged between the creatures.

Abilities

Some experiencers state that the Mantids are also shapeshifters and use advanced technologies to create a field around their bodies to make them appear human.

Intentions on Earth

The perceived motivation of the Mantis's interest in humans is just as mysterious. Some contactees describe these creatures as positive, uplifting beings who seek to protect humanity and the Earth. One common thread found among many abduction scenarios is centered around the use of holographic projections as a means of education.

Contactees often report Mantis beings showing them holographic images of the destruction of planet Earth to illustrate the possible negative impact that our species could have upon the planet.

Others have reported an increase in psychic abilities post-contact. Many experiencers claim that the Mantis beings appear to possess the uncanny ability to put contactees at ease, offering telepathic words of comfort that eliminate the fear of an encounter.

Encounters and UFO Sightings

Mantis alien encounters and UFO sightings have been reported in various locations around the world, shedding light on the roles these enigmatic beings might play. Notably, in the United States, there have been several claims of encounters in Phoenix, Arizona, where residents reported seeing UFOs accompanied by descriptions of insect-like creatures. Similarly, in rural areas of the UK, witnesses have described interactions with mantis-like beings during unusual aerial phenomena.

During these abductions, Mantis aliens are often described as overseers or leaders, appearing to hold positions of power. They are typically accompanied by smaller Grey aliens, who seem to perform tasks under the Mantis's direction. These smaller Greys are assumed to function as drones, controlled by a hive mind and utilized by various alien races.

The nature of these alien encounters frequently involves both medical procedures and instances of interrogation, with the Mantis playing a central role in these complex interactions. Reports of such experiences extend to other regions as well, including the Amazon in Brazil and provinces like Alberta and British Columbia in Canada, where witnesses have similarly described mysterious UFO sightings and encounters with beings of insectoid appearance.

Human DNA Harvesting

However, some return from their experiences with the Mantis with a darker perspective, suggesting that the Mantis may wish to conquer and control Earth rather than aid in human ascension. There are beliefs that a Mantis hybridization program is currently underway, using human DNA to create a new species.

Some report encounters with Tall Blacks, creatures thought to be the result of such hybridization. Experiencers describe these beings as incredibly tall and more humanoid than insectoid, with black skin, extremely long limbs, and extra joints on their appendages. These scenarios are very similar to those involving Mantis aliens and often revolve around medical experiments. One of the most chilling features of the Tall Blacks reported by many abductees is their glowing red eyes.

Regardless of the true motivations behind the Mantis species, their fascination with human DNA and behavior is evident from abductee accounts. Has anyone ever encountered a Mantis or insect-like alien? Are they benevolent overseers or intimidating figures conducting unsettling experiments? Keep an open mind. Only time will truly tell.

Former Green Beret Encounters Seven Foot Mantis Alien

Former Green Beret Encounters Seven Foot Mantis Alien

Moiz Ali 1/26/25 Moiz Ali 1/26/25

Former Green Beret Encounters Seven Foot Mantis Alien

Discover Dr. John Blich's shocking encounter with a 7-foot mantis-like alien. Learn how this former Green Beret and DARPA scientist's military and academic expertise lends credibility to his extraordinary extraterrestrial experience. Explore consciousness, paralysis, and communication in close encounters.

Dr. John Blitch, a highly accomplished military veteran and cognitive scientist, has come forward with an extraordinary account of his encounter with a non-human intelligence. His impressive background includes serving as a Delta Force commander, working as a program manager at DARPA, and holding multiple advanced degrees in engineering, mathematics, and psychology.

In a recent interview, Dr. Blitch shared details of a vivid experience involving a tall, mantis-like entity that appeared in his bedroom. He described feeling paralyzed as the being communicated with him, explaining the nature of consciousness and the physical body. This encounter is part of Dr. Blitch's upcoming book on the abduction phenomenon, which promises to offer unique insights from his scientific and military perspective.

Key Takeaways

- Dr. John Blitch, a former Delta Force commander and cognitive scientist, recounts an encounter with a non-human entity
- The experience involved communication about consciousness and physical bodies
- Dr. Blitch's forthcoming book aims to explore the abduction phenomenon in depth

Dr. John Blitch's Professional Background

Military Experience

Dr. John Blitch served as a Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Army, holding several prestigious positions. He commanded a Pershing 2 nuclear missile battery and led a Special Forces detachment. Notably, Dr. Blitch was a troop commander in the Combat Applications Group, commonly known as Delta Force—one of the most elite units in the U.S. military.

Academic Accomplishments

Dr. Blitch's educational achievements are extensive. He holds a bachelor's degree in environmental engineering, two master's degrees—one in mathematics and computer science, and another in cognitive psychology—and a doctorate in cognitive psychology. His academic prowess led to a position as a visiting professor at the U.S. Air Force Academy.

DARPA Involvement and Consulting Work

At the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA), Dr. Blitch served as a program manager. He developed expertise in artificial intelligence, tactical mobile robotics, and advanced camouflage systems for individual soldiers. His consulting portfolio includes work for the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, NASA, and other government agencies.

Support for Jake Barber's Whistleblower Claims

Dr. John Blitch, a highly credentialed military veteran and scientist, has publicly voiced support for whistleblower Jake Barber's recent claims on News Nation. Dr. Blitch's background lends significant weight to his endorsement.

Dr. Blitch's extensive military experience includes roles as a Pershing 2 nuclear missile battery commander, Special Forces detachment commander, and troop commander in Delta Force. His academic credentials are equally impressive, with degrees in environmental engineering, mathematics, computer science, and cognitive psychology.

Beyond his military service, Dr. Blitch has held positions at DARPA, the US Air Force Academy, and as a consultant for various government agencies. His expertise spans artificial intelligence, robotics, and advanced camouflage systems.

In addition to supporting Barber's claims, Dr. Blitch has shared his own alleged encounter with non-human intelligence. He describes an interaction with a tall, mantis-like being that occurred in his bedroom. This experience forms part of Dr. Blitch's forthcoming book on the abduction phenomenon.

Dr. Blitch's willingness to publicly discuss these topics, given his professional standing, has drawn attention from those interested in unexplained phenomena. His statements have added a new dimension to the ongoing discourse surrounding whistleblower claims and alleged encounters with non-human entities.

Dr. John Blitch's Extraordinary Encounter

Setting the Stage

Dr. John Blitch, a highly accomplished military veteran and academic, recounted a remarkable experience involving a non-human entity. His extensive background includes serving as a Lieutenant Colonel, commanding a Pershing 2 nuclear missile battery, and leading a Delta Force unit. Dr. Blitch's credentials are further bolstered by his roles at DARPA and as a consultant for various government agencies.

Description of the Alleged Incident

Dr. Blitch described an encounter with a 7-foot tall being resembling a praying mantis. This entity reportedly appeared in his bedroom, passing through a sliding screen door. Dr. Blitch stated he felt paralyzed during the event. The being allegedly communicated with him, explaining the nature of consciousness and the physical body.

Dr. Blitch's Recollection

According to Dr. Blitch, the entity demonstrated its capabilities by appearing to manipulate his physical form. He reported feeling sensations of his cheek being torn, accompanied by visual impressions of blood. Dr. Blitch emphasized that while the experience felt real, he found no physical evidence afterward. This encounter left a significant impact on him, prompting further reflection on the nature of consciousness and reality.

Forthcoming Book on Extraterrestrial Encounters

Dr. John Blitch, a highly accomplished military veteran and cognitive scientist, is set to release a book exploring the abduction phenomenon. The work will detail his personal encounter with what he describes as a non-human intelligence.

Blitch's background includes service as a Delta Force troop commander and work with DARPA on advanced technologies. He holds multiple advanced degrees and has consulted for NASA and the White House Office of Science and Technology Policy.

In his upcoming publication, Blitch recounts an experience involving a tall, mantis-like entity. He describes the being as approximately 7 feet tall, with a male presence. The encounter allegedly took place in Blitch's bedroom, where the entity appeared and communicated with him.

The book is expected to delve into the entity's message about the nature of consciousness and physical bodies. Blitch reports the being described human bodies as temporary vessels for souls.

Blitch's account includes vivid details of the entity's appearance and actions. He describes feeling paralyzed during the encounter and perceiving physical sensations, though he notes no actual harm occurred.

This forthcoming work may offer readers a unique perspective on alleged extraterrestrial encounters from someone with extensive military and scientific credentials.

Content Warning: Unusual Experiences

This section discusses potentially distressing encounters with non-human entities. Individuals who have had similar experiences may find the content unsettling. The account includes descriptions of perceived physical interactions and unusual beings. Readers are advised to proceed with caution if such topics are sensitive for them.

Dr. John Blitch, a highly credentialed military veteran and scientist, recounts an encounter with what he describes as a tall, mantis-like entity. The experience reportedly took place in his bedroom and involved communication with the being. Dr. Blitch recalls feeling paralyzed during the event.

The entity allegedly explained the nature of human bodies as temporary vessels for consciousness. Dr. Blitch reports that the being demonstrated its ability to interact with his physical form in a startling manner. While he felt sensations during the encounter, Dr. Blitch notes that no lasting physical evidence remained.

This account is part of Dr. Blitch's forthcoming book on abduction phenomena. His background includes service in elite military units and work with advanced technologies. Dr. Blitch's willingness to share his story publicly is noteworthy given his professional standing.

Readers should approach this information with an open yet critical mind. Experiences like these are deeply personal and often defy simple explanations.

The Interview Process

Dr. John Blitch, a highly credentialed military veteran and cognitive scientist, shared a remarkable encounter with a non-human entity. His experience occurred in his bedroom, where he claims a 7-foot tall mantis-like being appeared.

The entity allegedly communicated with Dr. Blitch, explaining that the human body is merely a vessel for the soul. It insisted on performing some form of procedure, despite Dr. Blitch's fear and resistance.

As proof of its capabilities, the being reportedly opened its mandibles and appeared to tear chunks from Dr. Blitch's cheek. While he felt tugging sensations and saw blood, no actual physical damage occurred.

Dr. Blitch described the entity's demeanor as condescending yet purposeful. It emphasized that while it could harm his body, it couldn't take his soul or consciousness.

This encounter is part of Dr. Blitch's forthcoming book on abduction phenomena. His willingness to share such an unusual experience publicly, given his distinguished background, has drawn significant attention.

Comparing Personal Encounters

Dr. John Blitch's account of an alien encounter presents a striking contrast to typical abduction narratives. As a highly credentialed individual with an extensive military and academic background, his story carries significant weight.

The encounter described by Dr. Blitch involves a 7-foot tall mantis-like being that allegedly appeared in his bedroom. This entity supposedly communicated with him telepathically, explaining the nature of consciousness and the physical body. The being's message emphasized that while it could manipulate Dr. Blitch's physical form, it could not affect his soul or consciousness.

Dr. Blitch's experience differs from many abduction accounts in its level of detail and the specific nature of the interaction. The mantis-like being's attempt to demonstrate its power by seemingly tearing at Dr. Blitch's face is particularly unusual. This vivid and disturbing element sets his story apart from more commonly reported encounters.

The comparison between the alien's actions and a veterinarian restraining a dog for treatment is a unique perspective. It suggests a clinical, almost mundane approach to the interaction from the being's point of view, contrasting sharply with the terror experienced by Dr. Blitch.

Dr. Blitch's background in cognitive psychology and his work with advanced technologies add an intriguing layer to his account. His expertise in these areas might influence his interpretation and recollection of the event, potentially providing a more analytical perspective than many other abduction stories.

Implications and Personal Impact

Dr. John Blitch's encounter with a non-human intelligence raises profound questions about the nature of reality and consciousness. His experience challenges conventional understanding of physical limitations and the relationship between mind and body.

The alleged interaction with a mantis-like being suggests potential advanced capabilities of these entities, including the ability to manipulate physical matter and communicate telepathically. This could have far-reaching implications for human knowledge and technology.

Dr. Blitch's military and scientific background lends credibility to his account. His willingness to share this experience publicly demonstrates a commitment to transparency, despite potential personal and professional risks.

The comparison drawn between the encounter and medical procedures on animals presents an intriguing perspective on the motivations of these entities. It implies a possible benevolent intent, albeit executed in a manner humans may find distressing.

This event appears to have had a significant emotional impact on Dr. Blitch. The vivid details he recounts, such as the sensation of his flesh being manipulated, indicate a deeply affecting experience that has remained with him.

The incident raises ethical questions about consent and autonomy in the context of interactions with non-human intelligences. It challenges societal norms and legal frameworks, which are not equipped to address such scenarios.

Engage with Dr. John Blitch's Startling Encounter

Dr. John Blitch, a highly credentialed military veteran and scientist, has shared a remarkable account of an encounter with a non-human intelligence. His story challenges conventional understanding and invites deeper consideration of unexplained phenomena. Dr. Blitch's willingness to share publicly speaks to the significance he places on this event. His account raises intriguing questions about the nature of consciousness and potential interactions with unknown entities.

Mantid/ Mantis - Insectoid

The Mantids or Mantis

Most of the information about these aliens comes from abductee reports and there are numerous. Some say the Mantids are benevolent and others say quite the opposite, it is difficult to ascertain but one thing is certain, the Mantids are fearful beings, what their agenda is, is anyone's guess. Much like other Alien groups, there seems to be a common thread in interfering with, studying, harvesting and manipulating human DNA.

With a lot of conflicting reports its hard to know if these Aliens are the good or bad guys.

Mantis aliens are perhaps the most mysterious and unsettling of all extra-terrestrial creatures. These beings appear within many abduction scenarios, with abductees reporting the ominous presence of these entities looming over their beds as they wake in the dead of night. While the Mantis is not as widely reported as the Grey or Nordic alien, it still holds an important role within many extra-terrestrial contact scenarios.

Insect beings appear within mythologies throughout the world, including Native American and African folklore. The Khoisan tribe of Africa specifically regard the mantis as the first living creature upon the Earth, who granted life to animals and humans, inventing language and bringing fire to the people. It is even said that the mantis created the moon as a guide for hunters by throwing a gallbladder into the sky. Some believe these extra-terrestrials come from the Draco system, working hand in hand with the Reptilians.

Many report these beings as 6-7 feet tall, with long, thin torsos. Their necks, arms and hands have additional joints. Their heads are insect-like and triangular, with large, slanted eyes of deep brown to black.

Most Mantids are described as dark brown, but other colors such as green and black have also been encountered. Their bodies are composed of a segmented exoskeleton, and some abductees have reported that the Mantis seem to be coated in an oily substance. Mantis are often encountered wearing long robes in a variety of colours, perhaps signifying rank, while some are unclothed.

Although the Mantis tend to communicate with abductees using telepathic messages, they have been witnessed engaging one another using an auditory language. Several contactees have described the Mantis language as a series of clicking sounds exchanged between the creatures.

Some experiencers state that the Mantids are also shape shifters and use advanced technologies to create a field around their bodies to make them appear human.

The Mantis tend to be overseers, and often appear to be in leadership positions of power during an abduction. Generally, a Mantis will be accompanied by several small Grey aliens who seem to do its bidding. These small Greys are assumed to be drone beings, controlled by a hive mind and utilized by a variety of alien races.

The perceived motivation of the Mantis in regards to human abduction is somewhat mysterious. Some contactees describe these creatures as positive, uplifting beings who seek to protect humanity and the Earth. One common thread found among many abduction scenarios is centered around the use of holographic projections as a means of education. Others have reported an increase in psychic abilities post-abduction. Many experiencers claim that the Mantis seem to possess the uncanny ability to put abductees at ease, offering telepathic words of comfort that eliminate the fear of an encounter. However, some return from their experiences with the Mantis with a darker point of view, stating that the Mantis wish to conquer and control Earth rather than aid in human ascension. Some believe that a Mantis hybridization program is currently taking place, using human DNA to create a new species.

The mantis supposedly come from the sombrero galaxy 28 million light years away from Earth. The ships they use to travel through space are not even spaceships at all, but spherical orbs that emanate light and more teleport than actually travel through the cosmos. These orb spacecrafts are always bursting with great light and seem to be able to change size as well. Mantis are highly sensitive to sound and light and look very intimidating with their huge bug like black saucer eyes. Instead of skin, they have an exoskeleton that's incredibly thick and durable. Most mantis abductions begin with a person frozen in sleep paralysis who feels an ominous presence in the room just before the aliens bend down to look at them.

When abducted to the mantis vessel, the insectoids perform medical procedures and instances of interrogation. It's been reported by many abductees that upon the insectoids' vessel, they're served by greys, the most commonly reported E.T. race. The motivation behind mantis abductions remains mysterious. A large number of abductees state that the mantis have no interest in humankind's wellbeing whatsoever. They've supposedly been overheard calling humanity a resource, and Earth should be conquered and controlled. Yet, for some unknown reason, the Mantis cannot openly engage with us or interfere with our development. Some abductees say they want to harvest our DNA for its unique properties, and one of their main intentions is to create human mantis hybrids. The scariest of the species are called the tall blacks, who have glowing red eyes, and are a possible hybrid. The tall blacks have often been reported to intimidate humans while they're aboard the alien vessel.

Five Common Types of ETs and What They Look Like

The Foundation For Research Into Extraterrestrial and Extraordinary Encounters

Five Common Types of ETs and What They Look Like

The purpose of this essay is to present a brief overview of the most commonly reported types of nonhuman intelligent beings (i.e., aliens, ETs, or UFO occupants, whatever their true origins). A bewildering variety of different types of ETs have been described by witnesses over the years, but they tend to fall into a few general categories based on their appearance.

First, we have the type that, since the late eighties, has been referred to as “the Grays.” The descriptions of these beings, and the way they are depicted in drawings, vary considerably, but they tend to have some common features and a recognizable “look.” In most cases, they are relatively small, thinly built humanoids with a proportionately large head and cranium. Height is often around three to five feet. The eyes are large, typically slanted and either almond or tear-drop shaped, sometimes described as wrapping around the sides of the head. The eyes are most often described as solid black in color, without discernible iris or pupil. In some cases, however, a lighter area is noted near the outer corner of the eye, or there is a barely visible pupil. The nose is usually just a subtle bump with a couple of small holes for nostrils. The mouth is most often described as a simple slit. Ears, when noticed, are usually small holes or slits, sometimes with a subtle shell of cartilage.

Grays tend to have thin bodies with little or no muscle definition. In some cases, the body is described as spindly, while in others the build is more like that of a small child. The skin tends to be smooth and featureless, without any visible hair or scales. Some Grays have wrinkled skin, or what resemble pockmarks or indentations on the face. Skin color varies from shades of gray to ash white. Other colors, such as chalky beige, tan, or blue gray have also been described. The hands typically have four slender fingers, often including one that serves as a thumb, but many variations have been described, and the total number of fingers can range from three to six.

Those who have seen Grays of different subtypes sometimes distinguish between Small Grays (or Short Grays) and Tall Grays. Tall Grays may have thinner frames and comparatively elongated features. They usually serve more specialized functions, such as doctors, leaders, and teachers. A Tall Gray “female” sometimes is in charge of the nursery or incubatorium, and tends to the needs of gestating fetuses, hybrid babies, or children. The Small Grays usually serve as “gofers” or workers. They have a limited emotional range and generally work together cooperatively without rank. They take their instructions from Tall Grays and other ET types.

Grays may have a gender that is sensed by their “energy” or personality, but males and females tend to look alike. They may wear tight-fitting “diving suits,” jumpsuits, or uniforms of a sort, though Tall Grays sometimes wear robes or capes. In many cases, Grays simply appear to be unclothed.

Next are the human-looking beings, which, based on their overall physical appearance, could pass for humans. The most recognizable and often discussed human-looking ETs are those that have been called the Nordics. They typically have Northern European (Scandinavian) features. In some cases the skin color is tan and in others, it is very light (fair). The skin appears hairless and free from any moles or blemishes. The facial features are refined. The eyes are often blue, but other colors have been described. The eyes are sometimes described as “mesmerizing.” The gaze of the Nordics is the most alien thing about their appearance. The hair is blond. Nordics have a handsome physique. They are tall people, often between six and eight feet in height. Nordics sometimes wear close-fitting uniforms or long robes or gowns.

Non-Nordic variants of human-looking ETs have been reported as well, including beings that have Native American, African, or Asian features, beings with weathered-looking skin, and beings with a widow’s peak hairline or skullcap and a Draculean look. Some witnesses have described beings that look human except for their eyes, which have vertical slit pupils.

The next group is the reptilians. These ETs look like reptilian humanoids. In other words, they have a humanoid body plan, but reptilian features. Typically, reptilians have scales, claws or talons, and a lizard-like snout or muzzle. In most cases, they have eyes with a vertical slit pupil and a yellow or red iris. In contrast to the Grays, reptilians tend to have very well-defined musculature. They also have pronounced tendons and heavy bone structures. Some reptilians have tails and some do not. Most reptilians are tall, in the range of six to eight feet, but “dwarf reptilians” only a few feet tall have also been reported. Some reptilians have a hard breastplate that covers the chest, others have a series of wide ventral scales running down the front of the torso, and still others have relatively small scales on the chest. Reptilians typically have four or five fingers, arranged in the same way as on a human hand, with one finger acting as a thumb. Often there is webbing between the fingers. Reptilians are usually green, brown or greenish-gray in color, but other colors, such as white, have also been reported.

Most reported reptilians are male. In a few cases, females have been encountered, but due to a lack of mammary glands, they tend to physically resemble the males, distinguished only by subtle differences in such things as bone structure and hip to waist ratio. As with Grays, however, a difference in gender can often be “sensed” even if external physical differences between males and females are not obvious. Some reptilians, and other ET species, may be androgynous.

The next group is the insectoids, which are often described as resembling praying mantises. The term “insectoid” simply means having an insect-like appearance. These are the most alien-looking of the common ET types, because, to put it bluntly, they look like bugs. To see a creature that looks like an invertebrate moving about with intelligence takes “alien” to another level. Insectoids often have enormous eyes and heads shaped like the head of a mantis or an ant. The mouth can be a simple horizontal slit, or something more complex, like the mouthparts of an insect. Insectoids have thin limbs, usually with prominent joints. Their movements tend to be stiff or “jerky.” The hands typically have three or four long, slender fingers, though different types of hands have been reported. Insectoids often have a very bony appearance, sometimes including protruding vertebrae or bumps on the back. The body surface often looks hard, like a chitinous exoskeleton. It is possible that insectoid ETs have some combination of both internal and external skeleton. They are not simply oversized insects, but the details of their physiology are unclear. Praying Mantis-type ETs sometimes wear long capes or hooded “monk’s robes.”

Hybrids, our fifth ET type, are defined as having a mix of features from two or more different types of beings. Hybrids are intermediate forms. Usually, when people refer to hybrids in the context of UFO experiences they are talking about something that resembles a cross between a Gray and a human being, but even within that group there are innumerable variations. There are also reports of beings that look like “hybrids” between other types (i.e., Tall Gray and insectoid, Small Gray and dwarf reptilian, or reptilian and human). The term “hybrid” has a specific biological definition, but in this context, we are using the term more loosely. The names used in this essay for the different types of ETs are based on appearance or physical description, rather than biology or genetic ancestry. This is for the obvious reason that we lack any physical specimens of ET for direct study.

One problem in defining these five types is that they have fuzzy edges where they overlap. For instance, a being that resembles a Gray but with somewhat humanlike proportions or features might be referred to as a Gray by one experiencer and as a hybrid by another. So these descriptive categories are not absolute. They are simply intended to provide a common vocabulary to help people discuss the close encounter experience.

Here is a summary list of the five types of ETs described above:

1. Grays
2. Human-looking Beings (Nordics, etc.)
3. Reptilians
4. Insectoids (Praying Mantis types, etc.)
5. Hybrids

These are just the main types of ETs that are reported by experiencers, but they are sufficiently broadly defined to include the vast majority of all reported ETs. Additional categories could be added to this list, including Light Beings, Hairy Beings, Stocky Dwarfs, and Robots. There are still other types that defy classification and are reported only rarely, or may even be unique to specific cases.

For the purposes of this essay, I have attempted to limit the criteria on which these classification efforts are based to the physical appearance of the different ETs — in other words, what they look like. Other authors have proposed classifying them according to what planet, dimension, star system, star cluster, or galaxy they are alleged to have come from. Such information is based on a variety of sources, including what the ETs tell contactees during close encounters, channeled information, and assorted esoteric sources. While there is some degree of consistency in such information (i.e., most “Pleiadeans” are of the Nordic type), I don’t think there is enough consistency to justify making that the primary approach to ET taxonomy.

Reports of shapeshifting beings and screen memories, which can conceal the actual appearance of a being, imply that there are limitations to a classification system based solely on physical appearance. Related attributes, such as how the beings move, what their “energy” feels like, etc., are also worthy of attention. However, I suspect that focusing our attention on the description of the experience, rather than on inferences and assumptions (e.g., “all Nordics come from the Pleiades”), is still the most direct and reliable approach to ET taxonomy that we have at this point. Hopefully, the approach suggested in this essay avoids some of the arbitrary aspects of other approaches, and hopefully, the names suggested herein for the different ET types bear some relation to objectively real categories of intelligent nonhuman life forms.

It is important to remember that research into encounters with ETs is still at a very early stage when compared to established sciences such as physics or biology, for which most words have very rigorous definitions. Each researcher in this field will have his or her own preferred terminology based on his or her own understanding and habits of thought. Likewise, many experiencers tend to develop their own terminology based on the specific beings that they've seen, their own life experiences, and perhaps even the communication they've had with the beings during their encounters.

People writing about ETs may wish to consider the following:
Regarding capitalization, I usually capitalize Grays and Nordics, but not reptilians, insectoids, or hybrids. However, this is just a convention and may be subject to change. One can argue for or against the use of capitalization based on precedent, rules of grammar, issues of consistency, etc.... As for spelling, I usually spell Grays with an "a", but there is substantial precedent for spelling it with an "e". These are areas where being overly standardized is premature. Remember, ufology has yet to develop a rigorous system of rules and definitions like the ones scientists working in other fields use to ensure clear communication within their fields. Indeed, clarity of communication is the reason that such hard and fast rules exist for those other areas of inquiry. The study of ET contact is not a mature field. Its terminology is still emerging. A certain amount of humility, flexibility, and tolerance for different styles and points of view is required. The important point for writers to remember, regarding spelling and capitalization, is simply to be consistent within any particular book or essay.

This essay has raised several questions that are beyond its scope. For instance: Why these few types? Surely, we can imagine that technology using nonhuman intelligence might come in any number of forms, yet the vast majority of encounter reports tend to be classifiable in terms of just a handful of basic physical types, all humanoid in their general body plan. Also, there is a related question: What are the origins of these specific forms, and what does this say about evolution, or genetics, or the role of intelligence and technology in the design of the physical bodies of living things? What kind of galaxy, indeed what kind of universe, do we live in such that “ET contact” happens the way it does, and looks the way it does to experiencers? Keep your questions open and your investigations busy. We have a lot to learn.

ALIEN ENCOUNTERS

George Adamski / President Eisenhower and aliens / British police have met aliens / Donald Worley, alien abduction researcher / Donna Butts / William Curtis from redford michigan / Pat, Indiana / Orfeo Angelucci / Vilas Boas / Excerpts / Gulf breeze contactee / Miriam Delicado / Inside the old mason / Howard Menger

American ufologist John Carpenter said that the typical “Tall white aliens” have been described as benevolent or even “magical” beings who want to observe and communicate with humans. Contactees have said that the aliens are concerned about the Earth’s environment or prospects for world peace, and may transmit messages telepathically. Stephanie Kelley-Romano says that the aliens “are often associated with spiritual growth and love and act as protectors for the experiencers, they are watchful, smiling, affectionate, youthful, all-knowing.”

GEORGE ADAMSKI

Contactee On the afternoon of November 20, 1952 (he tells us in Flying Saucers Have Landed), Adamski had his first encounter—face-to-face contact—with a man from Space. During the previous year, he had journeyed on several occasions into the Mojave Desert, to areas where saucers were said to be landing. Nothing had come of those excursions. On this day he was trying again. Accompanying him were Alice Wells; his secretary Lucy McGinnis; and four UFO enthusiasts, including Alfred Bailey and George Hunt Williamson.

* They drove about in the desert, watching the sky and following Adamski's hunches as to a possible landing site. Finally, he ordered them to stop and get out of the car. They roamed on foot now, in the rocky desert terrain. Mountains loomed about them, deceptively closed. A strong wind was blowing, and the women tied scarves around their heads. After a half-hour, the party returned to the car for a picnic lunch. But the saucer watch continued as they scanned the sky and ate. Suddenly, everyone turned to look over a ridge—and gaped. As Adamski describes it in Flying Saucers Have Landed: Riding high, and without sound, there was a gigantic cigar-shaped silvery ship, without wings or appendages of any kind. Slowly, almost as if it was drifting, it came in our direction; then seemed to stop, hovering motionless. Like a long, narrow cloud, the object hung there in the sky.

Then his attention was caught by a flash in the sky. And he saw something—“a beautiful small craft”—drifting between two mountain peaks and settling into a cove. A flying saucer!

Someone was standing about a quarter of a mile away, motioning for Adamski to come over. As his companions (who would later sign an affidavit attesting to having witnessed the encounter) watched from a distance, Adamski walked toward the man. Strangely, he felt no fear. Hands thrust into the pockets of his windbreaker, he walked confidently and expectantly, as if approaching an old and trusted friend. The man was wearing a jumpsuit. His long, blond hair was blowing in the wind. He was smiling. Adamski halted an arm’s length from the stranger. Now, for the first time, I fully realized that I was in the presence of a man from space—A HUMAN BEING FROM ANOTHER WORLD!...

The beauty of his form surpassed anything I had ever seen. And the pleasantness of his face freed me of all thought of myself. I felt like a little child in the presence of one with great wisdom and much love, and I became very humble within myself ...for from him was radiating a feeling of infinite understanding and kindness, with supreme humility. The spaceman extended his hand. It was slender, with fingers like those of “an artistic woman.” Adamski reached out to shake it. But the spaceman shook his head, and gently placed his palm against Adamski’s. Adamski regarded the man with awe. He was clean-shaven and youthful in appearance. He had a high forehead, blue eyes, and a smile that revealed glistening teeth. His jumpsuit was brown, with a radiant sheen. He wore no jewelry, and carried no weapon. The two men began to communicate, via a combination of telepathy, gestures, and facial expressions.

His visit was friendly, but serious in purpose. For he had come to warn us of the dangers of nuclear explosions—dangers for both the Earth and its neighbors in the Solar System. Adamski noticed now the saucer in which he had arrived. Bell-shaped and translucent, it was hovering just off the ground in a cove. A scout ship explained the spaceman, that had emerged from the mother ship seen earlier. As the wind blew their hair and ruffled the bushes around them, Adamski put questions to the spaceman. How did his ship operate? Did they experience death? The spaceman answered the questions. But when Adamski asked to take his picture, he shook his head. He led Adamski over to the saucer. It wobbled in the wind, and prismatic colors flashed on its surface. Adamski found himself speechless, overcome with joy. Could he go for a ride? The spaceman shook his head. Could he just step inside and take a look around? No, not at this time. Then the spaceman said goodbye and reboarded his ship. It rose, glided over the mountains, and disappeared from view. Adamski was soon rejoining his party and filling them in on what had happened. He and the others returned to the site, to examine the spaceman's footprints and to look for traces of the saucer.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER AND ALIENS

President Eisenhower had three secret meetings with aliens, former Pentagon consultant claims Ex-President met with extra-terrestrials on three separate occasions at New Mexico air base Eisenhower and FBI officials organized the meetings by sending out 'telepathic messages'.

It's a story that has circulated in and out of the UFO community for years: Did former U.S. President Dwight D. Eisenhower have three meetings with extraterrestrials?

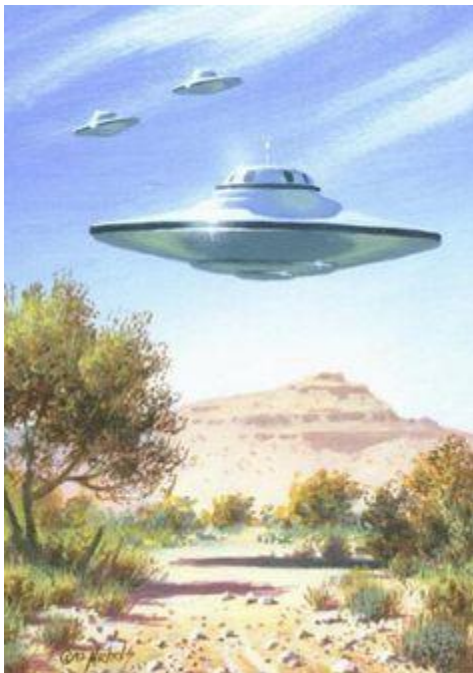

The aliens met with our leaders in 1954, says Retired Command Sergeant Major, Robert O. Dean!

More info on the meeting...

In addition to President Dwight David Eisenhower and other top brass, the Muroc Airfield meeting with extraterrestrials on February 20- 21 1954 was attended by a "Wise Men" group of four members of civil society, that is, those who were not politicians, intelligence agents, or members of the armed forces, all in their 80s. They were a metaphysical scientist; EDWIN NOURSE, a leading economist; JAMES FRANCIS MACINTYRE, bishop and head of the Catholic Church in Los Angeles; and FRANKLIN WINTHROP ALLEN, a well-known journalist.

Says exopolitics scholar Michael Salla: “The four represented senior leaders of the religious, spiritual, economic, and newspaper communities and were advanced in age and status. They would certainly have been plausible choices for a community delegation that could provide confidential advice on a possible public response to a First Contact event involving extraterrestrial races.”

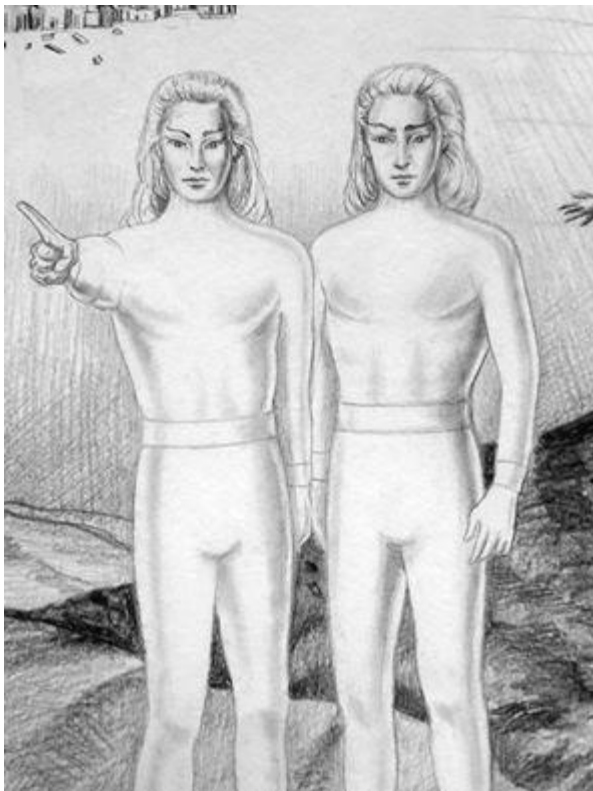

The meeting was at once awesome and terrifying to most of the people present, who thought they had met supernatural beings and the world had come to an end. In a highly emotive letter to a confidante dated April 16, 1954, Gerald Light underlined his fear, shock, and bewilderment in the following words: “I had the distinct feeling that the world had come to an end with fantastic realism. For I have never seen so many human beings in a state of complete collapse and confusion, as they realized their own world had indeed ended with such finality as to beggar description.”

Salla, citing Charles Suggs, whose father, a former Navy Commander, was present at the meeting, chronicles the proceedings thus: “President along with others...met and spoke with two white-haired Nordics alien (other name “Tall white aliens”) that had pale blue eyes and colorless lips. The spokesman stood several feet away from Ike and would not let him approach any closer. A second Nordic stood on the extended ramp of a bi-convex saucer that stood on tripod landing gear on the landing strip... these visitors said they came from another solar system. They posed detailed questions about nuclear testing.”

“Beware of the Grays”

Physically, the Nordics looked like humans only, they were larger in stature, about 7 to 8 feet tall. They spoke perfect, sweet-sounding English but with an accent. Their speech was conveyed rather mentally than verbally. “There was telepathic communication,” Salla says. “It’s as though you’re hearing a person but they’re not speaking.”

The technology they put on show defied belief. “During my two-day visit, I saw five separate and distinct types of aircraft being studied and handled by our Air Force officials – with the assistance and permission of the Etherians!...When the Aliens demonstrated their ability to become invisible along with mental telepathy, everyone there was terrified.”

The ability to disappear (an ability based on pure physics, not magic) and to communicate using thought.

Not all history is recorded, and not all history is known. Hence, we will probably never know the full details of the day-long meeting between the President and the Nordics aliens. What we know for sure is that the Nordics warned they about the Aliens – the Grays – who were orbiting the equator, that he should not have anything to do with them as they were a sinister race who would bring untold harm both to Earth and the human population.

The Nordics aliens in fact proposed an alliance with Earthlings to fight the Grays and promised to help us in spiritual development. However, they insisted that an alliance with us would only be possible if the US and any other country on Earth got rid of their nuclear weapons and other armaments programs.

The Nordic aliens also offered Earthlings very advanced technology for the betterment as opposed to the destruction of mankind. “The Nordics offered to share their superior technology and their spiritual wisdom with President if he would agree to eliminate America’s nuclear weapons,” says Salla. “They were afraid we might blow up some of our nuclear technology and apparently that does something to time and space and it impacts extraterrestrial races on other planets.”

It was a no-deal. President rejected the Nordic overture because he did not like the idea of getting rid of nuclear weapons. Apparently, he didn’t trust the Nordics. What if it was a ruse and all they were up to was to seize control of the planet eventually? The Nordics advised that the President think the matter over again and left. But not before they reiterated the warning “Beware of the Grays”.

BRITISH POLICE HAVE MET ALIENS

Residents of Wiltshire in the UK has long worried about the appearance of mysterious circles on the fields. A rational explanation for this local talent is yet to be found. But, it seems, to unravel an amazing phenomenon managed to approach the police from the specified British town.

On the condition of anonymity (for fear that he would be considered abnormal and out) a police officer told local reporters that appeared on the field the new round, he saw mysterious creatures.

He said that in his spare time passed the fields and saw on it were strange creatures, unlike men. Man, as befits a policeman, decided to find out what was going on. But when law enforcement began to approach the strangers, he heard a sound similar to crackling electricity, and creatures with incredible speed ran.

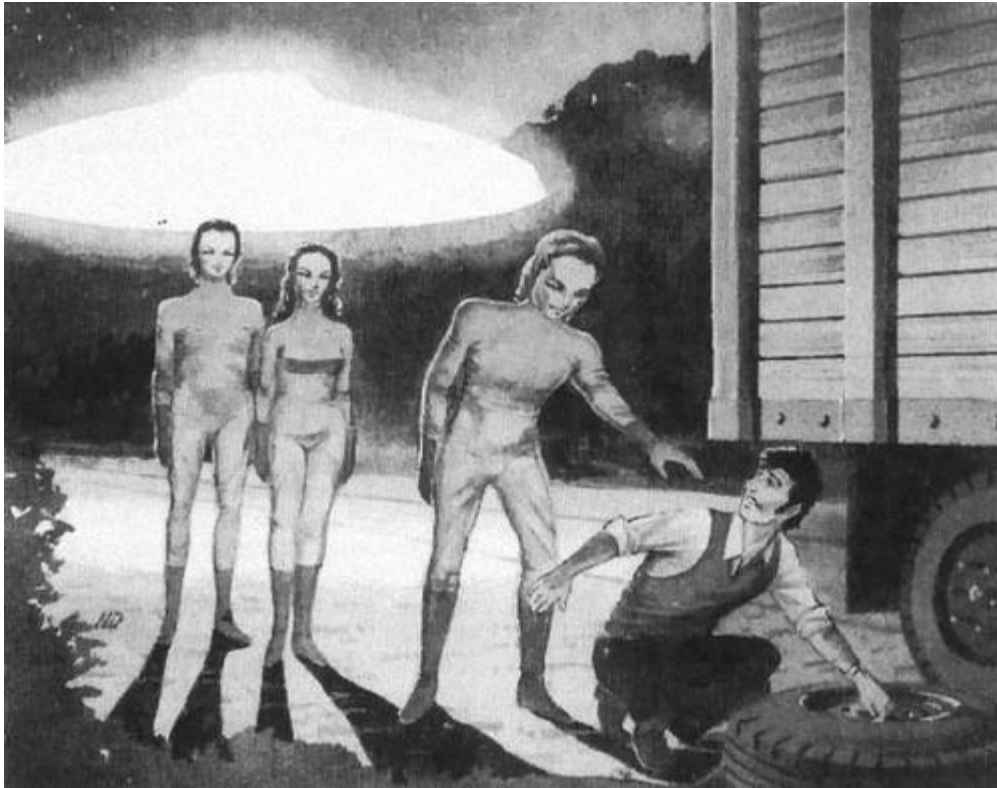

According to police, their height was above 180 cm, and they had long blond hair. Law enforcement complained that after meeting with these creatures, he developed a headache that had bothered him for some time. He believes that he was able to meet an alien.

The situation is commented by British ufologists, they believe that the man saw the so-called “Nordic aliens”, which in the past few years have supposedly met in different parts of the world.

DONALD WORLEY, ALIEN ABDUCTION RESEARCHER

In the abduction syndrome, most of the attention is on the gray-type Humanoids. However, we really need to be looking at the often-blonde Nordic-type entities who appear to be a vital element in all of it. "Who are they? Why are they here? What is their moral orientation?" These questions are of utmost gravity for our human species.

For the last 38 years, I have specialized for the most part in alien human abduction and Nordic-type aliens. My conclusions are based on 50 Nordic cases out of my total of 150 cases and data from other sources. Generally, the following description applies to most Nordics. Nordics look human with beautiful angular faces. They are tall, have long blonde hair, breathtaking bottomless blue eyes changeable with emotion, and wear skin-tight suits or flowing white robes. Giant over 7 feet Nordics and human-sized ones also exist. Females and children are rarely seen.

Other hair colors have been reported. Their telepathic communications are soothing and they can project an intense feeling of love for the abductee. Some persons have remained in a euphoric state for weeks after an altered state episode with one. Let us look a series of my cases and see what they may be telling us. Case names are sometimes pseudonyms.

DONNA BUTTS, KANSAS

In a November incident, a large truck traveling on I-70 in Kansas was hit by a beam of light and Donna who was behind it had her first abduction. [Note: Other people have reported being nearly hit by a large truck just seconds before the start of a highway abduction, which has caused them to wonder if the image of a truck was a screen memory for a UFO.]

At 2:00 a.m. one night, an alien appeared in the hallway of Donna's home. Once they were in the UFO, she was instructed to stand under a light that caused her to feel electrified. In still another abduction, a device that the alien called a "Monotron" was implanted at the base of her brain. Donna's case is very extensive and she too received the Earth devastation messages as well as many other predictions.

When Donna went public her life became a living hell. One group branded her a satanic disciple and harassed her. Had these fanatics known the truth about the "Blonde Aliens" they would not have become so overwrought. Then the day came when the alien appeared as a sparkling white figure in a uniform right in her front room. He looked solid enough but she and the others present could see through him before he faded away.

In the next abduction she was taken to the bord of a spaceship. With the “blond alien” in the lead a number of things happened.

She was given another light treatment, drank a hauntingly beautiful blue liquid, and received an implant through her ear. Later Donna was privileged to see many things and learn much. Her predictions as told to her by her benefactors are many.

“We can look at the Bible with the understanding of advanced intelligence. It has been termed a coded message unable to be understood until the last days. These are most assuredly the last days.”

WILLIAM CURTIS FROM REDFORD MICHIGAN

Curtis saw the beautiful female “Tall white alien” who visited him four times. On the very clear last visit, the alien brought another white-haired alien. They both floated in the air at the foot of his bed for several minutes. The female wore a silver form-fitting garment. Her bare arms and hands were beautiful. Her blonde hair was piled on the back of her head sort of World War I style. She had a beautiful face with blue eyes. Curtis thought the other alien was in her teens...

PAT, INDIANA

In her book Taken, my now-deceased dear friend Karla Turner writes about an important case right under my nose here in Indiana. In one abduction of young Pat, a long blonde-haired, blue-eyed, tall appeared in her bedroom. He was in a shaft of sparkling light that came through the ceiling. He took the little girl's hand and said, "Don't be afraid. These are mine" gesturing to the little gray humanoids who were standing around the room.

The next day military medical personnel and troops arrived at the farm. They stayed several days conducting all kinds of examinations of the inhabitants and the terrain.

ORFEO ANGELUCCI

An important but lesser known contactee is Orfeo Angelucci. Like Maxwell, his encounters also took place in Los Angeles in the 1950s. The humanoid beings he encountered were tall, muscular, attractive, and had blond hair and very large eyes. In typical fashion, they wore bodysuits.

One of them explained to Orfeo that they were not native to our dimension. They had to project themselves into our dimension in order to be visible. If they projected fully, they could appear and function as human beings and walk among society.

VILAS BOAS

Another famous encounter involving similar beings is that of Antônio Vilas-Boas, a Brazilian farmer who was abducted in October of 1957. The beings he encountered apparently communicated through speech that sounded like barks and growls and could be considered similar to the way the beings communicated in front of Shaw and his companion, i.e., warbling and guttural. Vilas-Boas described the female he interacted with as follows:

“Her hair was blonde, nearly white... nose was smooth, not very thick and she had big blue eyes, rather longer than round, for they slanted outward, like those pencil-drawn girls made to look like Arabian princesses, that look as if they were slit ... except that they were natural; there was no makeup.”

“Her nose was straight, not pointed, not turned-up, nor too big. The contour of her face was different, though, because she had very high, prominent cheekbones that made her face narrow to a peak so that all of a sudden it ended in a pointed chin, which gave the lower part of her face a very pointed look. Her lips were very thin, nearly invisible in fact.”

EXCERPTS

“I remember looking at his face and his eyes were very similar to a human’s except they were a beautiful blue and a bit larger than ours. I looked at him and studied his face and head and saw that he had peach fuzz for hair along his scalp.

I touched his face as well as the right side of his head where the ridges were and I noticed where his skin was light blue, it glistened in places when the light showed on it.”

“...I saw that he had beautiful pale skin that glistened and almost sparkled in places. The skin on his legs, which were muscular like a human’s, but not overly so, was more like a powder-white color. His legs had hair that was straight and very uniform.”

“... They were possessed of a strange and indescribable beauty. I can express myself in no other way. They were graceful to a degree, and more divinely beautiful than anything I ever beheld.”

In a 2013 Report filed with MUFON, it appears the Tall Whites were seen again. A slightly edited synopsis follows:

“I turned back to my truck door and tried to unlock it when I caught something at the corner of my eye. I jumped back against the side of my truck and about 15 feet away stood three people staring at me that had not been t here prior to this incident. There were two very attractive women and one very tall man who was at least ten feet tall. All of them had blonde hair that was almost white, and blue eyes.”

“They did not say anything to me directly but I heard one of the woman’s voices in my head. I know you’re probably thinking that I am crazy, but it did happen. She said, “[My Name], please do not be afraid. You have an important role to play if you would like to help us.’ I said out loud in a shaky voice ‘Okay but I don’t know how.’ Then the woman said, ‘Don’t worry, you will know in time.’ Right after she said that everything went black. Eventually, I woke up around two-thirty, laying about thirty feet away from my last remembered position at the side of my truck.”

An extremely well-researched case by Colin Andrews is excerpted below from his article entitled The Silbury Hill Stargate? The apparent fast pace at which these beings moved is emphasized below.

“The contact, who doesn’t want to be named, was driving past Silbury Hill early Monday morning (6th July 2009) when he saw three figures in the formation there. At first, he thought they were forensic officers as they were dressed in white coveralls. He stopped his car and approached the field. The figures were all over 6ft and had blond hair. They seemed to be inspecting the crop. When he got to the edge of the field he heard what he believed to be a sound not dissimilar to static electricity. This crackling noise seemed to be running through the field and the crop was moving gently close to where the noise was moving. He felt the hair on his arms and the back of his neck raise. He shouted to the figures who at first ignored him, not glancing at him. When he tried to enter the field they looked up and began running. He said “They ran faster than any man I have ever seen. I’m no slouch but they were moving so fast. I looked away for a second and when I looked back they were gone. I then got scared. The noise was still around, but I got an uneasy feeling and headed for the car. For the rest of the day I had a pounding headache I couldn’t shift.”

GULF BREEZE CONTACTEE

More information on humanoid alien groups comes from an anonymous account titled, UFOs in the Gulf Breeze-Pensacola Area: Contact Since 1955. The author was contacted by a blond man and a blond woman in silver jump-suits. They introduced themselves and said they would be visiting periodically.

The author explains an important observation. The consciousness of aliens is very bright and energetic, while that of humans is very dim. But when a human gets close to an alien, the alien's energy field activates the human into becoming consciously brighter.

Later in childhood, the Nordic aliens picked him up in a flying craft and brought him to a base built inside a remote mountain. In the base, he and other contacts were briefed on status of various alien agendas. He was informed that he and others like him would have descendants with enhanced abilities, who would populate the Earth when it became safe to do so. They also warned that Gray aliens had succeeded in producing human-Gray hybrids, and that their agenda was not in humanity's best interest.

MIRIAM DELICADO

Miriam Delicado was contacted at an early age by benevolent, tall blond extraterrestrials, apparently singled out specifically for a very special role. She was advised by them to keep a low profile for many years, and finally last year, in 2007, she was told by them that it was time for her to write her book: Alien Blue Star.

She tells a riveting story of her very real and physical contact with a highly advanced, Guardian Race, and the information she was asked to pass on.

Interview

K: Okay. So let's go to your incident in 1988 and tell a little more about that, kind of capsule it if you will.

M: In 1988 I was living a very normal, average life as a young adult. I'd just moved from a small town into a big city in Vancouver, British Columbia. And my friends and I had decided to take a road trip to my home town. And on the way up there, everything was normal. We took the drive and everything was fine. But on the return journey everything, everything changed.

There were four of us, four adults, and a young child in the car. And the trip... we were driving for hours. I was sleeping in the back seat of the car. And then it started to get dark out. The people who were driving wanted a break, so they went into the back seat, and I went up into the front, into the passenger side with my friend.

And right away these big balls of light... they looked like truck lights, actually; that's what we thought that they were for the longest time... came streaming up behind us rather quickly in the car. And as that happened, we were wondering why they were traveling so fast.

Now, these particular lights followed us for hours and hours in the darkness. And every time we came up to a car or any kind of house or building at all, the lights would fall back and disappear.

So after hours of this going on, eventually we went through a town where we thought for sure that we had lost the lights. And as soon as we got to the other side of this town, into the forested area, the absolute moment we said: Okay, we're clear. There's no way they can catch up with us... and literally in the blink of an eye, there they were, these balls of light that were probably about this big. [holds hands about 12 inches apart]

And they came up behind us. And then – poof – and at this point, after hours they had been appearing and disappearing, appearing and disappearing, and in the blink of an eye. So my friend got very, very nervous, as I did. Neither one of us was comfortable with what was happening at all, and the people in the back seat were still sleeping.

So all of a sudden I screamed at her and I said: Pull over the car right now! It's not you they want. It's me! And I went to grab the steering wheel to pull her over, when all of a sudden she just sort of flopped, you know, like a Raggedy Ann doll, flopped her head over and started pulling over and stopped at the side of the road.

And by that time the car filled with light from every direction. And these balls of light were sitting behind the car. So at that point – I was the only one conscious at that time – when I turned from the back of the car to the front, I saw a craft on the road.

Now, I couldn't make out any detail because it looked almost misty and very, very bright. And these beings that were about four feet tall walked... were walking towards me. They were very androgynous, almost childlike in their nature. And they had big round black eyes. They didn't have any oval eyes at all. These were round black eyes.

And they were directing me to get out of the car, which I did. And I was very scared. I wasn't terrified though, and that distinction needs to be made. I was not terrified. I was scared.

So I got out of the car. They led me down the highway a little bit, and at this point I wasn't even thinking about my friends, I was just wondering where they were taking me.

And on this embankment on the left... they led me up the embankment where I saw, when I looked up, a larger craft that had two beings standing in this doorway. And they had blond hair – and I mean blond as in snow white hair – and the most brilliant blue, Mediterranean water blue, eyes that you've ever seen, and quite incredible. And the beings, the short ones, took me to the craft, and when I got to the doorway, I walked onboard the craft.

But what was interesting was that just prior to all of this happening I'd had a dream in the back seat of the car. And in this dream that I had, this man and woman told me, they said:

We are coming for you soon. Do not be afraid. We are your friends. We are your family. Do not be afraid. And then, when I saw these two tall beings, the moment that I laid eyes on them, I said in my mind: What are you doing here? Why can't you just leave me alone? And then I walked onboard the craft.

K: And did you have any memories of what happened on the craft at that point?

M: From the moment I walked off that craft, I had very clear memories. And I have had those clear memories for twenty years.

K: Clear memories of what happened on the craft? Or just clear memories up to the point you've told us?

M: Both. Once I was onboard the craft, I remember a great deal of what happened to me. I do not by any means remember the full three hours. I don't. And I don't know if I ever will or not, because up to this point... I mean, I have not had hypnosis done to recover memories. So that's a very important point for me to make to anyone watching, is that these memories have come from conscious memories.

K: Can you give us an idea what was conveyed to you at that time?

M: Twenty years ago I was given messages. And these messages and information that I was given were so crystal clear to me that two days after I walked off the craft I had a clear understanding of all of my psychic abilities, and where they came from, and how I had them, and why I had them.

So they gave me warnings about possible futures in which the planet could potentially have destruction, and the people could potentially have a very difficult time.

Now, these warnings were just possibilities , but they were things that they had made very clear to me, crystal clear to me, that humanity had a choice in whether or not we were going to end up on this destructive path or a positive path.

M: When I was onboard the craft, I was sitting in what I call a “light chair,” and it was... you could look at it just like this. [points to the chair she’s sitting on.] Except, instead of being a chair, it was made from pure light, so it almost glowed. And I sat in this chair, and I looked across the room, and I had a being on either side of me. And a screen popped up. And the screen was actually quite large. It was probably about this... as large as the chair, and you know. Two or three feet high. And as I looked at the screen, there was information that came across it. And images.

These images would be accompanied by information that was given to me by these beings, either through telepathy or – meaning they would directly speak to me – or it felt like there was just a constant flow of information being sort of placed within my mind.

Now, one of the things that they shared with me was the creation of man.

So, to make this story really short, they explained that they had a hand in creating mankind. They were the helpers of this Earth to ensure that... They were overseers, so that they would be here to watch over the Earth, to help man become more than what they currently are.

So, in the beginning life was created but nothing came of it.

In the Second World, they gave this life more form, but still thought that it would evolve into something more. And again nothing of any real value was produced.

In the Third World that they created... And, again, these are the things that were shown and told to me. And in the Third World, they said that the form – meaning our bodies – were created, and then our souls would come into the bodies. And when they did, we had all this knowledge; we had all this ability to communicate with one another; we had telepathy; we had an understanding far beyond what we currently do right now.

But it was like giving children matches to play with without allowing them to evolve, more along the lines of emotionally, and to be able to handle all of this knowledge. So they kind of went crazy. They played around too much. They were becoming destructive. And the things that they did were very dark and evil at that point.

So again the world was sort of cleaned out, cleaned off, and again these new vessels were created – meaning the vessels that we have now. So there's been a slow evolution of "mankind" over time.

As this took place, one of the things that happened was... In this Third World, I was shown an image of these people. And it was sort of like looking from above. And I looked down into this room and I saw these people. And these people, I was told, were living the life that was intended, which was the spiritual life.

And so, because they had this great knowledge, and because they had a true understanding of why they were here and the bodies that they had seemed to be doing very well, they were spared and taken from the Third World and brought into this, the Fourth World.

M: Yes. Yes. In the Second World, I was shown, in the Second World, that this very grotesque life form was produced and that they waited for it to evolve to see if it would be the right host for this spark of life – whatever you would like to call it; I call it the spark of life – to be able to facilitate a spiritual life and a greater understanding of the universe.

And so when I myself, as Miriam, look back through history at this, I see it as being some of those "Lost Worlds" that have been looked for, and some of them, part of them, found over the course of our lifetimes, or over the last hundred years.

So, these three Worlds that were talked about prior to this one... it makes very clear sense to me, in my limited knowledge of anthropology and paleontology and all of the rest of it.

It just looks clear to me that these were the different Worlds.

B: The question I do have, though, linked with what I was just mentioning about the American military and the American Intelligence services. Do you know anything about the possible relationships of this group with the military? Or is it a different group of aliens that they have been working with?

M: The question is: Will I answer?...They haven't said: Yes we work with these people; we're working over here with that person.

However, I have been shown and told certain things that were of a darker side, and warned of certain things. For example, at one point I was shown something... It's difficult, difficult for me to talk about. I was shown an image of being in an underground base (Dulce ???) that... What took place there was so dark and ugly and horrifying to me that it was difficult for me to deal with.

I don't know how to say this nicely, but it was of... I saw images of beings and creatures that were just beyond the human comprehension of being able to see in real life. Now what happened...

In this time that I was shown this, I was in the astral, and the being, the tall blond that I was with, said:

You must be very quiet because if you're not, they will know that we are here. And don't ever come to this particular area. It is very dangerous for you.

And I said: Okay. I'm not going anywhere near there.

You asked me about these other beings that so many people are familiar with, which... one of the biggest ones is the Grays. I do not have any direct information, but here's what I was told by the tall blonds: That they are here as the Caretakers of the Earth and that they would help protect us from ourselves or other things that we may not be aware of.

So does that mean other beings? Absolutely.

Does it mean that there's a presence of other beings on the planet? Absolutely.

Am I here to talk about those beings with you? No. Because I want the message of the tall blonds to be really clear with people, that they are here in peace and that they do not mean any harm.

They will not come here and take over the Earth. That is not their purpose. If it was their purpose, they would have done it long, long ago.

INSIDE THE OLD MASON

(excerpt) ...I Have a step-grandfather — a dollar millionaire, it is not Hilo density “Mason”. 2 weeks ago I went to visit him. And started the topic of higher civilization, mentioned in the Holy Scriptures. We discussed it the whole evening.

He also told me in the next 10-15 years, planned a huge technological growth in the space industry, that is, to 2030. All space technologies is. That is, even though tomorrow we may space a highly developed civilization.

All government institutions will have to give the people the truth about human origins, “they’ll have to,” said my grandfather.

Alien civilizacija his mouth was said that our gods eat, drink, love, and give birth, then they have the hormonal system and feelings, only their hormones don't kill them, and the fact that they look practical like humans, only taller, with very white skin and blue-green — grey eyes. And live as long as you want. And the fact that they have reboot the dream also as in humans, they are updated using this, rebooting of the body, and the fact that it is normal for organics. (And here comes the similarity with the movie "Thor", where One fell into a lethargic sleep, remember ?)

And here's the Anunnaki-nefilim supposedly from "the Pleiades" (pay attention to their noses, and the whole iconography of almost all religions, the fact that the faces of the saints are written with a thin and long noses. This is an alien race.)

Told me that up to the 2035 plan the first official extraterrestrial contact with representatives of the race. This coming and prepared the masons, the Illuminati and others, improving technological civilization in preparation for a meeting with their princes.

This contact will be formal and expected, that is, about a month before their arrival, the people will be announced, the fact that the earth is approaching an alien ship with a goal and a signal of good contact. That is, their arrival of them will show and describe all media channels and “mass sources”, etc. they will Call themselves our creators, teachers, and mentors — ancient. Call us — the terrestrial race, its a Grand successful experiment. And the fact that contact people officially reveal the truth about the cosmos and the world, etc. This is the most incredible sensation in the history of mankind. It will be the whole idea. They will look smart, tall, slender, with perfect bodies, blond, white-skinned with green-blue-gray eyes, the men of the growth will be approximately 210 to 220 cm, and the wives 188 to 200cm (models). After this event, all countries will unite in a single state. Monetary financial pyramid will collapse.”

HOWARD MENDER

The “G.I.’s” predictions proved remarkably accurate.

After being sent to Hawaii, as he had promised, I was taken out of the tank crew and transferred to Battalion Headquarters and made a battalion draftsman; and, as predicted, I did work on detached service with the Navy.

As we had parted I could not help thinking that these people from other planets seemed to know the past, present and future. Again he had sensed my thoughts and smiled, terminating the conversation with another handshake, and walked away.

Most everything he had told me had already come true, except the contact he promised, and this I impatiently awaited, almost breathlessly.

It was a strange, wonderful feeling, to meet these people. Somehow, as unimportant and weak as I felt in their presence, there was still the knowledge of kinship I couldn't help sensing.

So it was that one early evening after work I did not hesitate to accede to a strong impulse to visit a section of cavern area a few miles away.

I "borrowed" a jeep and took off.

I didn't know exactly where I was going, except for the general area. It seemed I was being led.

Near the caverns I stopped, then pulled the jeep off the bumpy, dirt road, and walked through the dense underbrush toward the caves.

I knew I would meet one of the space people. Ordinarily, I would have been fearful of being alone in such a wild place. But the thought of the meeting erased all of my natural apprehensions.

Suddenly I halted as I saw a figure ahead of me. Through the underbrush I could see it was a female form.

As I walked closer I discovered she was a beautiful woman.

I stopped in my tracks, staring at her in uncontrolled admiration, until she extended her hand and called out my name.

Although I shall always remember the girl on the rock with a special kind of memory, this girl, too, exuded the same expression of spiritual love and deep understanding.

Then she grew more serious.

“That is one of the reasons you were chosen out of many thousands for contact with my people and the enlightenment you will receive.”

Again, she read my thoughts.

I was again overjoyed. I was so afraid that, feeling so powerless and inconsequential in the presence of these people, they would think of me as inferior as I imagined.

“You have been observed closely, as you now realize. You will be trusted and have further contacts.”

She also made predictions. Our outfit would go to Okinawa and would arrive there between April 1, and 5, 1945.

My abhorrence of war she easily picked up telepathically.

“I know how you feel, and it is most admirable. You cannot think of killing a living soul. But yet you cannot understand why you yet help play such a role. You will be contacted on Okinawa, and you will be told much more about this.”

I hesitated to ask her if I might be killed, but it was on my mind.

“Oh no, don’t worry—but be careful! You will have some narrow escapes.”

The average person with whom I talk about these contacts does not realize that the space people, though far superior to us physically, mentally, and in spiritual development, are still much like us. Often little gasps of amazement come when I tell of intimate conversations and the warm humor of the visitors. They would probably stand sanctimoniously before the space people, afraid they might say or think something wrong—until, of course, they received the same feeling of ease I did immediately, even at the first meeting.

At such a meeting one knows innately that one’s every thought is bared under powerful telepathic observation. And with such knowledge, one suddenly realizes he cannot hide anything, and becomes completely honest, both with himself and the visitors. It is a refreshing, cleansing feeling, which carries over into everyday dealings with one’s fellow men.

The conversation with the beautiful girl was so fascinating I hoped I hadn't annoyed her with too many questions. I learned, for one thing, she was from Mars. As to meeting her again, she wouldn't state firmly; instead she explained we might meet again, and I would have to know by my inner feelings whether it was really she.

Suddenly I realized the sun had set, and as I looked toward the horizon, still bright with a hundred shades of red, then back at her, she smiled, and extended her hand.

We said goodbye and I walked back to the jeep. It was dark by the time I arrived back at camp.

THE WAR FOR THE EARTH

Especially a lot of mention of the wars is contained in the Mahabharata, the Indian epic:

“Vimanas (flying ships) approached the Earth with incredible speed and released many arrows, glittering like gold, thousands of lightning ... Roar, published by them, was like thunder from thousands of drums ...It was as if the elements had been unleashed. The sun spun around. Scorched by the incandescent heat of the weapon, the world reeled in fever. Elephants were set on fire by the heat and ran to and fro in a frenzy to seek protection from the terrible violence. The water boiled, the animals died, the enemy was mown down and the raging of the blaze made the trees collapse in rows as in a forest fire... Horses and war chariots were burnt up and the scene looked like the aftermath of a conflagration. Thousands of chariots were destroyed, and then deep silence descended on the sea. The winds began to blow and the earth grew bright. It was a terrible sight to see. The corpses of the fallen were mutilated by the terrible heat so that they no longer looked like human beings. Never before have we seen such a ghastly weapon and never before have we heard of such a weapon...”

Talking about the wars of the gods, the myth of the battle of the Greek God Marduk with the dragon Tiamat, the struggle of the Slavic God Perun with the Snake king, and the battle of the ancient Egyptian God RA with the serpent of Apop.

All myths even said that the Snake was defeated in the war, expelled into the earth in his Kingdom. In our time, scientists have discovered many kilometers of underground tunnels and mines in all parts of the world. Some tunnels have walls made of an unknown material, perhaps covering the entrance to their cities.

During the endless wars of “white gods” decided to leave the planet and return with more powerful weapons. Returning, they struck at Mars, thus showing their power. The civilization of reptilians was forced to reckon with the conditions of “white gods”. The main condition was “not intervention” in the development of the people.

«Back in 2011 the scientist first postulated that the red colour on Mars could have been due to a naturally occurring thermonuclear explosion.

‘The Martian surface is covered with a thin layer of radioactive substances including uranium, thorium, and radioactive potassium – and this pattern radiates from a hot spot on Mars’.

His research centers around the ‘high concentration’ of Xenon-129 in the Martian atmosphere, and uranium and thorium on the surface, spotted by Nasa’s Mars

Odyssey spacecraft. Scientists have previously pointed out that the appearance of these elements is not surprising, as they are natural elements found everywhere. But Dr Brandenburg is adamant they are the remnants of two nuclear explosions on the surface.

'Taken together, the data requires that the hypothesis of Mars as the site of an ancient planetary nuclear massacre must now be considered.'

Dr Brandenburg says his theory could explain the Fermi Paradox – namely why, if the universe is abundant with life, we haven't heard anything from anyone else yet. He warns, though, that we need to be fearful of an attack on our planet, and should mount a manned mission to Mars to know what we're up against.

'These stories and many variations of them present a view that our Solar System was the home of several nuclear battles raged between alien visitors and settlers,' he said» In 1972, American station Mariner reached Mars. Circled Mars, the station has made 3000 pictures. 500 of them have been published in the popular press. In one of the pictures, the world saw Earthlings' dilapidated pyramid, whose top was a mile, and a sphinx with a human face. Photos are accompanied by comments — that it is likely to play off natural forces. The remaining 2500 NASA images are classified, referring to the fact that they have to, ostensibly, to decipher. More than ten years, and in the popular press published photos of another sphinx and pyramids. In new images, it was possible to clearly distinguish between the Sphinx, the pyramids, and the remains of the huge wall of the rectangular building. In Sphinx, looking at the sky, his eyes rolled out and froze tears: Based on the remaining dried channels — in the past rivers, reaching a width of 50 kilometers — the biosphere on Mars in size and power is not inferior to the Earth's biosphere. What killed the Martian civilization?»

From the Mahabharata, as quoted by Charles Berlitz (1972), is probably the best description of ancient atomic warfare one can find:

"...(it was) a single projectile, charged with all the power of the Universe. An incandescent column of smoke and flame, as bright as the thousand suns, rose in all its splendor... it was an unknown weapon, and iron thunderbolt, a gigantic messenger of death, which reduced to ashes the entire race of the Vrishnis and the Andhakas... the corpses were so burned as to be unrecognizable. The hair and nails fell out; pottery broke without apparent cause, and the birds turned white... after a few hours all foodstuffs were infected... to escape from this fire the soldiers threw themselves in streams to wash themselves and their equipment."

During the first Egyptian "pyramid war", between Horus and Seth, Horus strikes:

"...(and he) let loose against them a storm which they could neither see with their eyes, nor hear with their ears. It brought death to all of them in a single moment..."
(Sitchin, 1985)

This sounds to me like the gamma-ray and neutron pulse from a sub-kiloton nuclear weapon, which has no fireball and the nuclear radiation extends far beyond the blast wave.

There are many other clues regarding nuclear warfare. Childress discusses ancient atomic warfare, first Hattusas in Turkey where “parts of the city are vitrified, and the walls of rock are partly melted.” He then discusses Sodom and Gomorrah and compares them with Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Mohenjo-Daro and Harappa, Pakistan: David Davenport (1996), who spent 12 years studying ancient Hindu scripts and evidence at the ancient site of Mohenjo-Daro, declared in 1996 that the city was instantly destroyed 2,000 years bc. The city ruins reveal the explosion’s epicenter which measures 50 yards wide. At that location everything was crystallized, fused or melted. Sixty yards from the center the bricks were melted on one side indicating a blast... the horrible mysterious event of 4000 years ago was recorded in the Mahabharata.

According to that text: “white hot smoke that was a thousand times brighter than the sun rose in infinite brilliance and reduced the city to ashes. Water boiled... horses and war chariots were burned by the thousands... the corpses of the fallen were mutilated by the terrible heat so that they no longer looked like human beings...”

Libyan glass

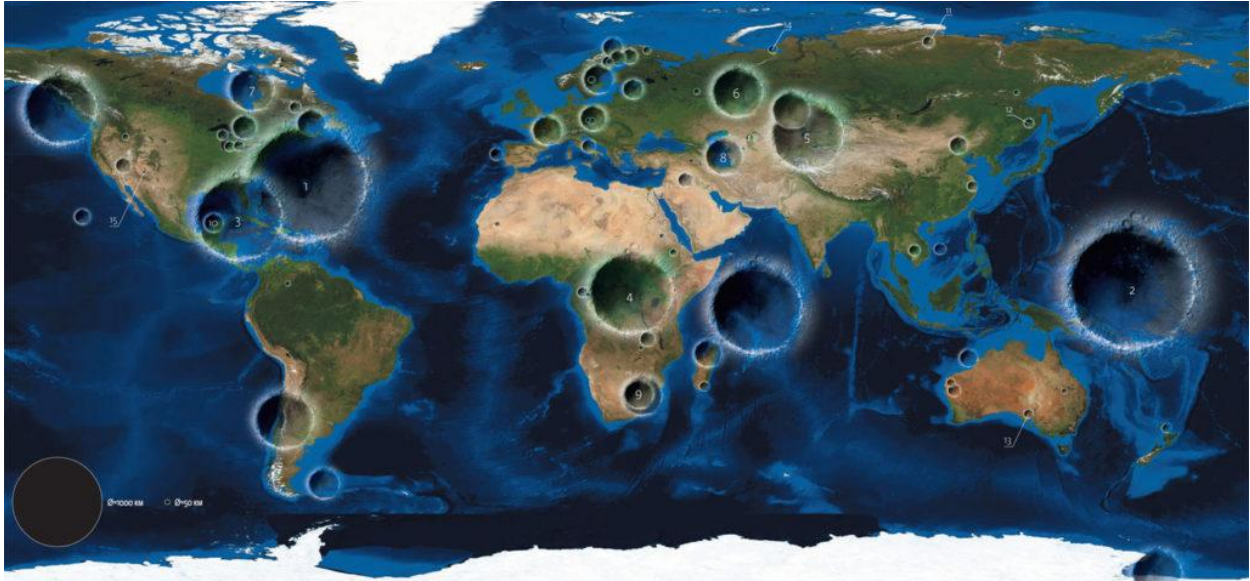

When the first atomic bomb exploded in New Mexico, the desert sand turned to fused green glass. This fact, according to the magazine Free World, has given certain archaeologists a turn. They have been digging in the ancient Euphrates Valley and have uncovered a layer of agrarian culture 8,000 years old, and a layer of herdsman culture much older, and a still older caveman culture. Recently, they reached another layer of fused green glass. It is well known that atomic detonations on or above a sandy desert will melt the silicon in the sand and turn the surface of the Earth into a sheet of glass. But if sheets of ancient desert glass can be found in various parts of the world, does it mean that atomic wars were fought in the ancient past or, at the very least, that atomic testing occurred in the dim ages of history?

Pieces of Libyan Desert Glass weighing as much as 16 pounds are found in an oval area measuring approximately 130 by 53 kilometers. The clear-to-yellowish-green pieces are concentrated in sand-free corridors between north-south dune ridges.

Libyan Desert Glass is found widely scattered over an area 130 km north to south by 53 km east to west.

Craters

Almost 170 terrestrial impact craters have been identified on our planet. These range in diameter from a few tens of meters up to about 300 km (186 miles). The impact craters featured on this list are relatively small and young making them easier to spot.

Roter Kamm Crater

Located in the Namib Desert, Namibia, the Roter Kamm crater is about 2.5 km (1.6 miles) in diameter and is 130 meters (400 feet) deep.

Tenoumer Crater

Nearly a perfect circle, the Tenoumer Crater is 1.9 kilometers (1.2 miles) wide, and sports a rim 100 meters (330 feet) high. The crater is located in the western Sahara Desert, Mauritania.

Lonar Crater Lake

The Lonar Lake in Maharashtra. The saltwater lake that evolved in the resulting basaltic rock formation has a mean diameter of 1.2 kilometers (3,900 feet) and is about 137 meters (449 feet) below the crater rim. Numerous temples surround the lake, most of which are in ruins, except for a temple of Daityasudan, at the center of the Lonar town, which was built in honor of Vishnu's victory over the giant Lonasur. The crater itself is a fun trek and the surrounding vegetation is a treat for birdwatchers.

Monturaqui Crater

The Monturaqui Crater is located south of the Salar de Atacama in Chile. The present dimensions of the crater are approximately 460 meter (1,509 feet) in diameter by 34 meter (100 feet) deep.

Tswaing Crater

In the center of the crater is a small lake which is filled by a spring and rainwater. Stone tools from the stone age show that the crater was regularly visited by people in order to hunt and collect salt.

Pingualuit Crater

Diameter crater rises 160 meters (520 feet) above the surrounding tundra and is 400 meter (1,300 feet) deep.

Amguid Crater

It is located in a remote area in southwestern Algeria. The perfectly circular meteorite impact crater is 450 meter (1476 feet) in diameter and 30 meter (100 feet) deep. The top of the rim is covered by blocks of sandstones that are several meters in diameter. The center of the crater is flat, and is filled by compacted eolian silts.

Barringer Crater

Measuring about 1,200 meters (4,000 feet) in diameter and 170 meters (570 feet) deep, with a rim 45 meter higher on average than the surrounding plain, the crater lies near Flagstaff, Arizona.

Interview with the reptilians Laserta

(excerpt, Read more)

“Question: Back to your and our own history. You’ve mentioned the race of the “Illojim” who have created our human race. From where did they come and how did they look like? What had exactly happened when they arrived? Are they our “God”.

Answer: The “Illojim” came from this universe, from the solar system you call “Aldebaran” in your maps. They were a very tall humanoid species with usually blonde hairs and a very white skin (they avoided the sunlight, because it hurt their skin and their eyes. This was absolutely unbelievable for a sun-loving species like us).

They seemed to be intelligent and peaceful at the beginning and we started a more or less friendly communication with them, but later they showed their real intentions and plans: they wanted to evolve the apes to a new breed and we were a disturbing factor for them on their new zoo planet. At first, they caught around 10,000 or maybe even 20,000 of your simian ancestors and they left the planet for some hundred years. When they returned, they brought your (now more human) ancestors back.

Then they left Earth again for some thousands of years and the primitive pre-humans lived together with us without major problems (they were just afraid of our aircraft and technology). The “Illojim” had taught their mind and enhanced their brain and their body structure and they were now able to use tools and fire. The “Illojim” returned within 23,000 years seven times and accelerated the evolution speed of certain of your kind. You must understand that you are not the first human civilization on the planet.

Well, after some centuries the aliens decided to extinct their first creation and they accelerated the evolution of a second and better test series, and so on and so on. The truth is that your modern human civilization is not the first on this planet Earth but already the seventh.

The last creation of the seventh breed – of your series – was done just 8,500 years ago and this is the only creation you can remember and to which your religious writings refer. You rely on archeological and paleontological artifacts which show you a wrong and short past, but how should you know anything about the six civilizations before.

There was a long war between us and the “Illojim”. The last battles in this war were fought around 5,000 years ago in orbit and surface.

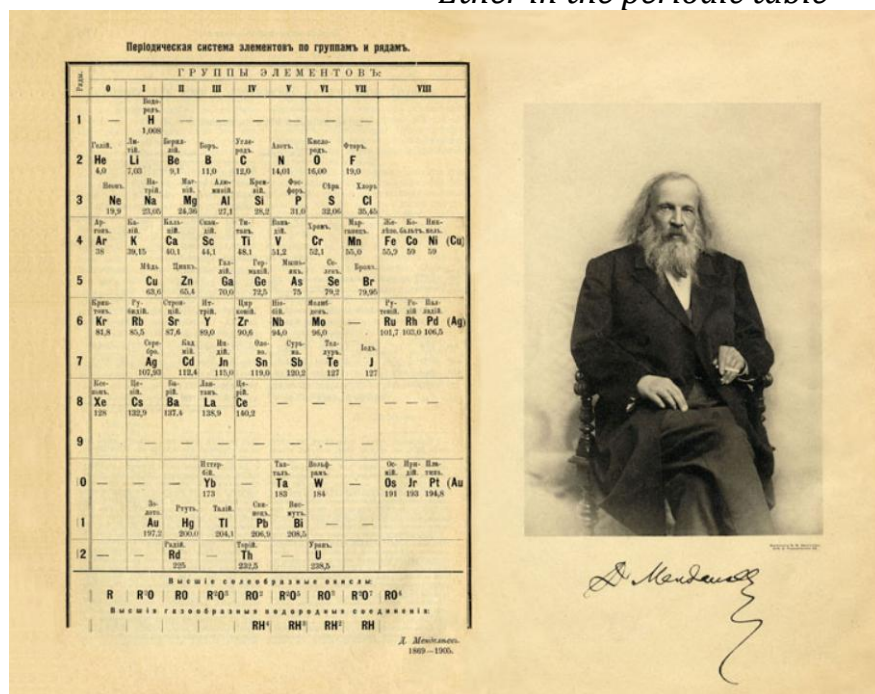

The aliens used powerful sonic weapons to destroy our underground cities but on the other hand we were able to destroy many of their surface installations and bases in space. The humans of your series were very frightened when they observed our battles and they wrote it down in the form of religious myths (their mind was not able to understand what was really going on.)

Your current civilization doesn't know anything about your real origin, about your real past, about your real world and universe and you know very little about us and our past."

Who and why hid the ether from the PERIODICAL TABLE..? Under Stalin, the original table was studied...

Ether in the periodic table

The Mendeleev table of chemical elements officially taught in schools and universities is a fake. Mendeleev himself, in his work entitled "An Attempt at Chemical Understanding of the World Ether," presented a slightly different table (Polytechnic Museum, Moscow):

The last time the real Mendeleev Table was published in its undistorted form was in 1906 in St. Petersburg (the textbook “Fundamentals of Chemistry”, 8th edition).

The differences are visible: the zero group has been moved to the 8th, and the element lighter than hydrogen, with which the table should begin and which is conventionally called Newtonium (ether), is completely excluded.

The same table is immortalized by the “BLOODY TYRANT” comrade Stalin in St. Petersburg, Moskovsky Prospekt 19. VNIIM named after D. I. Mendeleev (All-Russian Scientific Research Institute of Metrology).

The monument-table Periodic table of chemical elements of D. I. Mendeleev is made of mosaic under the supervision of the professor of the Academy of Arts V. A. Frolov (architectural design by Krichevsky). The monument is based on the table from the last lifetime 8th edition (1906) of the Fundamentals of Chemistry of D. I. Mendeleev. Elements discovered during the life of D. I. Mendeleev are marked in red. Elements discovered from 1907 to 1934 are marked in blue. The height of the monument-table is 9 m. The total area is 69 sq. m.

Why and how did it happen that we are being lied to so brazenly and openly?

The place and role of the world ether in the true table of D. I. Mendeleev

1. Suprema lex – salus populi

Many have heard of Dmitri Ivanovich Mendeleev and his discovery in the 19th century (1869) of the “Periodic law of change in the properties of chemical elements by groups and rows” (the author’s title of the table is “Periodic system of elements by groups and rows”).

Many have also heard that D. I. Mendeleev was the organizer and permanent leader (1869-1905) of the Russian public scientific association called the “Russian Chemical Society” (since 1872 – “Russian Physico-Chemical Society”), which published the world-famous journal ZhRFHO throughout its existence, right up until the moment of liquidation by the USSR Academy of Sciences in 1930 – both the Society and its journal.

But few know that D. I. Mendeleev was one of the last world-famous Russian scientists of the late 19th century, who defended the idea of ether as a universal substantial entity in world science, who attached fundamental scientific and applied significance to it in revealing the secrets of Being and for improving the national economic life of people.

Even fewer know that after the sudden (!!?) death of D. I. Mendeleev (01/27/1907), who was then recognized as an outstanding scientist by all scientific communities throughout the world except for the St. Petersburg Academy of Sciences, his main discovery – the “Periodic Law” – was deliberately and widely falsified by world academic science.

And there are very few who know that all of the above is connected by the thread of sacrificial service of the best representatives and bearers of immortal Russian Physical Thought to the good of the people, to public benefit, despite the growing wave of irresponsibility in the upper strata of society of that time.

In essence, the present dissertation is devoted to the comprehensive development of the last thesis, because in true science any neglect of essential factors always leads to false results.

So, the question is: why do scientists lie?

2. Psy-factor: ni foi, ni loi

It is only now, since the end of the 20th century, that society is beginning to understand (and even then timidly) from practical examples that an outstanding and highly qualified, but irresponsible, cynical, immoral scientist with a “world-famous” name is no less dangerous to people than an outstanding but immoral politician, military man, lawyer, or, at best, an “outstanding” bandit on the highway.

Society has been instilled with the idea that the world academic scientific community is a caste of celestials, monks, holy fathers who day and night care about the welfare of the people. And mere mortals must simply look into the mouths of their benefactors, meekly financing and implementing all their “scientific” projects, forecasts, and prescriptions for the reorganization of their public and private lives.

In fact, there is no less criminal element in the global scientific community than in the same politicians. In addition, criminal, anti-social acts of politicians are most often immediately visible, but the criminal and harmful, but “scientifically substantiated” activities of “prominent” and “authoritative” scientists are not immediately recognized by society, but years or even decades later, on their own “social skin”.

Let us continue our study of this extremely interesting (and classified!) psychophysiological factor of scientific activity (let us call it conditionally the psi-factor), as a result of which an unexpected (!) negative result is obtained a posteriori: “they wanted what was best for people, but it turned out as always, i.e. to the detriment”. After all, in science, a negative result is also a result that certainly requires comprehensive scientific understanding.

Considering the correlation between the psi-factor and the main objective function (OEF) of the state financing body, we come to a curious conclusion: the so-called pure, big science of past centuries has by now degenerated into a caste of untouchables, i.e. into a closed lodge of court healers who have brilliantly mastered the science of deception, brilliantly mastered the science of persecuting dissenters and the science of servility to their powerful financiers.

It is necessary to keep in mind that, firstly, in all the so-called “civilized countries”, their so-called “national academies of sciences” formally have the status of state organizations with the rights of the leading scientific expert body of the corresponding government. Secondly, all these national academies of sciences are united among themselves into a single rigid hierarchical structure (the real name of which the world does not know), which develops a single strategy of behavior in the world for all national academies of sciences and a single so-called scientific paradigm, the core of which is not the revelation of the laws of existence, but the psi-factor: implementing as “court healers” the so-called “scientific” cover (for the sake of solidity) of all the unseemly actions of those in power in the eyes of society, to gain the glory of priests and prophets, influencing, like a demiurge, the very course of the movement of human history.

Everything stated above in this section, including the term “psi-factor” that we introduced, was predicted with great accuracy and justification by D. I. Mendeleyev more than 100 years ago (see, for example, his analytical article of 1882 “What kind of Academy is needed in Russia?”, in which Dmitry Ivanovich actually gives a detailed description of the psi-factor and in which he proposed a program for the radical reorganization of the closed scientific corporation of members of the Russian Academy of Sciences, who considered the Academy exclusively as a feeding trough for satisfying their own selfish interests.

In one of his letters written 100 years ago to Professor P. P. Alekseev of the Kyiv University, D. I. Mendeleyev openly admitted that he was “ready to burn incense himself to smoke out the devil, in other words, to transform the foundations of the academy into something new, Russian, his own, suitable for everyone in general and, in particular, for the scientific movement in Russia.”

As we see, a truly great scientist, citizen and patriot of his homeland is capable of even the most complex long-term scientific forecasts.

Let us now consider the historical aspect of the change in this psi-factor discovered by D. I. Mendeleyev at the end of the 19th century.

3. Fin de siecle

Since the second half of the 19th century, in Europe, on the wave of “liberalism,” there was a rapid numerical growth of the intelligentsia, scientific and technical personnel, and a quantitative growth of theories, ideas, and scientific and technical projects offered by these personnel to society.

By the end of the 19th century, competition for a “place in the sun,” i.e. for titles, honors, and awards, had sharply intensified among them, and as a consequence of this competition, the polarization of scientific personnel by moral criteria had intensified. This contributed to the explosive activation of the psi-factor.

The revolutionary fervor of young, ambitious, and unprincipled scientists and intellectuals, intoxicated by their rapid erudition and impatient desire to become famous at any cost in the scientific world, paralyzed not only representatives of a more responsible and more honest circle of scientists, but also the entire scientific community as a whole, with its infrastructure and established traditions, which had previously counteracted the unrestrained growth of the psi-factor.

The revolutionary intellectuals of the 19th century, the overthrowers of thrones and the state system in the countries of Europe, spread the bandit methods of their ideological and political struggle against the “old order” (using bombs, revolvers, poisons and conspiracies) also to the field of scientific and technical activity. In student lecture halls, laboratories and at scientific symposiums, they ridiculed the supposedly obsolete common sense, the outdated concepts of formal logic – the consistency of judgments, their validity. Thus, at the beginning of the 20th century, instead of the method of persuasion, the method of total suppression of opponents by mental, physical and moral violence against them came into fashion (or rather burst in with a squeal and a roar). At the same time, naturally, the significance of the psi-factor reached an extremely high level, having experienced its extreme in the 1930s. As a result, at the beginning of the 20th century, the “enlightened” intelligentsia, in fact by force, i.e. revolutionary means, replaced the truly scientific paradigm of humanism, enlightenment and public benefit in natural science with its paradigm of permanent relativism, giving it the pseudoscientific form of the theory of general relativity (cynicism!).

The first paradigm relied on experience and its comprehensive assessment for the sake of searching for truth, searching for and understanding the objective laws of nature. The second paradigm emphasized hypocrisy and unscrupulousness; and not for the search for objective laws of nature, but for the sake of their own egoistic group interests to the detriment of society. The first paradigm worked for the public benefit, while the second did not assume this.

From the 1930s to the present, the psi-factor has stabilized, remaining an order of magnitude higher than its value at the beginning and middle of the 19th century.

For a more objective and clear assessment of the real, and not mythical, contribution of the activities of the world scientific community (represented by all national academies of sciences) to the public and private life of people, we will introduce the concept of a normalized psi-factor.

The normalized value of the psi-factor, equal to one, corresponds to a 100% probability of obtaining such a negative result (i.e. such social harm) from the introduction into practice of scientific developments that declared a priori a positive result (i.e. a certain social benefit) for a single historical period of time (the change of one generation of people, about 25 years), in which all of humanity completely perishes or degenerates in no more than 25 years from the moment of the introduction of a certain block of scientific programs.

4. Kill with kindness

The cruel and dirty victory of relativism and militant atheism in the mindset of the world scientific community at the beginning of the 20th century is the main reason for all human troubles in this “atomic”, “space” century of the so-called “scientific and technological progress”. Let’s look back – what other evidence do we need today to understand the obvious: in the 20th century there was not a single socially useful act of the world brotherhood of scientists in the field of natural science and social sciences that would strengthen the population of homo sapiens, phylogenetically and morally. But there is just the opposite: ruthless mutilation, destruction and annihilation of the psychosomatic nature of man, his healthy way of life and his habitat under various plausible pretexts.

At the very beginning of the 20th century, all key academic posts for managing the course of research, themes, funding of scientific and technical activities, etc. were occupied by a “brotherhood of like-minded people” professing a dual religion of cynicism and egoism. This is the drama of our time.

It was militant atheism and cynical relativism, through the efforts of their adherents, that entangled the consciousness of all, without exception, senior government officials on our Planet. It was this two-headed fetish of anthropocentrism that gave birth to and introduced into the consciousness of millions the so-called scientific concept of the “universal principle of degradation of matter-energy”, i.e. the universal disintegration of previously emerged – God knows how – objects in nature. In place of the absolute fundamental essence (the universal substantial environment), a pseudo-scientific chimera of the universal principle of degradation of energy was put, with its mythical attribute – “entropy”.

5. Littera contra littere

According to the ideas of such luminaries of the past as Leibniz, Newton, Torricelli, Lavoisier, Lomonosov, Ostrogradsky, Faraday, Maxwell, Mendeleev, Umov, J. Thomson, Kelvin, G. Hertz, Pirogov, Timiryazev, Pavlov, Bekhterev and many, many others – the UNIVERSAL ENVIRONMENT is an absolute fundamental essence (= substance of the world = world ether = all matter of the Universe = Aristotle’s “quintessence”), isotropically and without remainder filling the entire infinite world space and being the Source and Carrier of all types of energy in nature – indestructible “forces of motion”, “forces of action”.

In contrast to this, according to the currently dominant view in world science, the mathematical fiction “entropy” has been proclaimed as the absolute fundamental essence, and also some “information”, which the world’s academic luminaries have recently proclaimed in all seriousness as the so-called “Universal Fundamental Essence”, without bothering to give this new term a detailed definition.

According to the scientific paradigm of the former, harmony and order of the eternal life of the Universe reign in the world, through constant local renewals (a series of deaths and births) of individual material formations of different scales.

According to the pseudoscientific paradigm of the latter, the world, once created in an incomprehensible way, is moving into the abyss of universal degradation, equalization of temperatures to universal, universal death under the watchful control of some World supercomputer, which owns and controls some “information”.

Some see the triumph of eternal life around them, while others see decay and death, controlled by a certain World Information Bank.

The struggle of these two diametrically opposed worldviews for dominance in the minds of millions of people is the central point of the biography of humanity. And the stakes in this struggle are of the highest degree.

And it is not at all accidental that the entire 20th century the world scientific establishment has been busy introducing (supposedly as the only possible and promising) fuel energy, the theory of explosives, synthetic poisons and drugs, toxic substances, genetic engineering with the cloning of biorobots, with the degeneration of the human race to the level of primitive oligophrenics, downs and psychopaths. And these programs and plans are not even hidden from the public now.

The truth of life is this: the most prosperous and powerful spheres of human activity on a global scale, created in the 20th century according to the latest word of scientific thought, were: pornography, drug, pharmaceutical business, arms trade, including global information and psychotronic technologies. Their share in the global volume of all financial flows significantly exceeds 50%.

Further. Having disfigured nature on Earth for 1.5 centuries, the world academic brotherhood is now in a hurry to “colonize” and “conquer” near-Earth space, having the intention and scientific projects to turn this space into a garbage dump for their “high” technologies. These gentlemen academics are literally bursting with the coveted satanic idea of running the near-solar space, and not only on Earth.

Thus, the foundation of the paradigm of the world academic brotherhood of freemasons is the stone of extremely subjective idealism (anthropocentrism), and the building itself of their so-called scientific paradigm is based on permanent and cynical relativism and militant atheism.

But the pace of true progress is inexorable. And, just as all living things on Earth are drawn to the Sun, so the mind of a certain part of modern scientists and naturalists, not burdened by the clan interests of the world brotherhood, is drawn to the sun of eternal Life, eternal movement in the Universe, through the knowledge of the fundamental truths of Being and the search for the main target function of the existence and evolution of the species homo sapiens.

Now, having considered the nature of the psi-factor, let us take up the Table of Dmitry Ivanovich Mendeleyev.

6. Argumentum ad rem

What is now taught in schools and universities under the title “D.I. Mendeleyev’s Periodic Table of Chemical Elements” is an outright fake.

The last time the real Periodic Table was published in its undistorted form was in 1906 in St. Petersburg (the textbook “Fundamentals of Chemistry”, 8th edition).

And only after 96 years of oblivion, the real Periodic Table is rising from the ashes for the first time thanks to the publication of this dissertation in the journal ZhRFM of the Russian Physical Society.

The genuine, unadulterated Periodic Table of D. I. Mendeleyev

“The Periodic Table of Elements by Groups and Rows”

(D. I. Mendeleyev. Fundamentals of Chemistry. VIII edition, St. Petersburg, 1906)

After the sudden death of D. I. Mendeleyev and the passing of his loyal scientific colleagues from the Russian Physico-Chemical Society, the first to raise his hand against Mendeleyev’s immortal creation was the son of D. I. Mendeleyev’s friend and comrade-in-arms from the Society, Boris Nikolaevich Menshutkin. Of course, that Boris Nikolaevich did not act alone either – he was only carrying out an order. After all, the new paradigm of relativism required the rejection of the idea of the world ether; and therefore this requirement was elevated to the rank of dogma, and D. I. Mendeleyev's work was falsified.

The main distortion of the Table is the transfer of the “zero group” of the Table to its end, to the right, and the introduction of the so-called “periods”. We emphasize that such (only at first glance – harmless) manipulation can be logically explained only as a deliberate elimination of the main methodological link in Mendeleev's discovery: the periodic table of elements at its beginning, source, i.e. in the upper left corner of the Table, must have a zero group and a zero row, where the element “X” is located (according to Mendeleev – “Newtonium”) – i.e. the world ether.

Moreover, being the only system-forming element of the entire Table of derivative elements, this element “X” is an argument of the entire Table of Mendeleev. The transfer of the zero group of the Table to its end destroys the very idea of this fundamental principle of the entire system of elements according to Mendeleev.

To confirm the above, let us give the floor to D. I. Mendeleev himself.

“...If the analogs of argon do not give compounds at all, then it is obvious that it is impossible to include any of the groups of previously known elements, and a special zero group must be discovered for them... This position of the argon analogs in the zero group is a strictly logical consequence of the understanding of the periodic law, and therefore (placing it in group VIII is clearly incorrect) has been accepted not only by me, but also by Braisner, Piccini and others...

Now, when there is no longer the slightest doubt that before that I group, in which hydrogen should be placed, there is a zero group, the representatives of which have atomic weights less than those of the elements of group I, it seems to me impossible to deny the existence of elements lighter than hydrogen.

Of these, let us first turn our attention to the element of the first row of the 1st group. We will denote it by “y”. It will obviously possess the fundamental properties of the argon gases... “Coronium”, with a density of the order of 0.2 in relation to hydrogen; and it cannot in any way be the world ether. This element “y”, however, is necessary in order to mentally approach that most important, and therefore the fastest moving element “x”, which, in my opinion, can be considered ether. I would like to call it “Newtonium” in advance – in honor of the immortal Newton ... The problem of gravitation and the problems of all energetics (!!!) cannot be imagined as actually solved without a real understanding of the ether, as a world medium transmitting energy over distances. A real understanding of the ether cannot be achieved by ignoring its chemistry and not considering it an elementary substance” (“An Attempt at a Chemical Understanding of the World Ether”. 1905, p. 27).

“These elements, according to the magnitude of their atomic weights, occupied an exact place between the halides and the alkali metals, as Ramsay showed in 1900. From these elements it is necessary to form a special zero group, which was recognized first of all by Herrere in Belgium in 1900. I think it is useful to add here that, judging directly by the inability of the elements of group 0 to form compounds, the analogs of argon should be placed earlier (!!!) than the elements of group 1, and in the spirit of the periodic table, one should expect a smaller atomic weight for them than for the alkali metals.

This is what turned out to be the case. And if so, then this circumstance, on the one hand, serves as a confirmation of the correctness of the periodic principles, and on the other hand, clearly shows the relationship of argon analogs to other, previously known, elements. As a result, the principles being discussed can be applied even more widely than before, and one can expect elements of the zero series with atomic weights much smaller than those of hydrogen.

Thus, it can be shown that in the first row, first before hydrogen, there is an element of the zero group with an atomic weight of 0.4 (perhaps this is Yong’s coronium), and in the zero row, in the zero group, there is a limiting element with an insignificantly small atomic weight, incapable of chemical interactions and possessing, as a result, an extremely rapid proper partial (gaseous) motion.

These properties, perhaps, should be attributed to the atoms of the all-pervading (!!!) world ether. I indicated this idea in the preface to this edition and in the Russian journal article of 1902 ... ” (“Fundamentals of Chemistry”. VIII ed., 1906, p. 613 et seq.).

7. Punctum soliens

From these quotations the following follows quite definitely.

1. Elements of the zero group begin each row of other elements, located on the left side of the Table, “...which is a strictly logical consequence of understanding the periodic law” — Mendeleev.
 2. A particularly important and even exceptional place in the meaning of the periodic law belongs to the element “x”, — “Newtonium”, — the world ether. And this special element should be located at the very beginning of the entire Table, in the so-called “zero group of the zero row”. Moreover, — being a system-forming element (more precisely — a system-forming essence) of all elements of the Periodic Table, the world ether is a substantial argument of the entire diversity of elements of the Periodic Table. The Table itself, in this regard, acts as a closed functional of this very argument.
- Now let us turn to the works of the first falsifiers of the Periodic Table.

8. Corpus delicti

In order to eradicate from the consciousness of all subsequent generations of scientists the idea of the exclusive role of the world ether (and this is exactly what the new paradigm of relativism required), the elements of the zero group were specially transferred from the left part of the Periodic Table to the right part, shifting the corresponding elements down a row and combining the zero group with the so-called “eighth”. Of course, there was no room left for either the element “y” or the element “x” in the falsified table.

But even this seemed insufficient to the brotherhood of relativists. The fundamental idea of D. I. Mendeleev about the especially important role of the world ether was distorted exactly the opposite. In particular, in the preface to the first falsified version of the Periodic Law of D. I. Mendeleyev, without the slightest embarrassment, B. M. Menshutkin states that Mendeleyev allegedly always opposed the special role of the world ether in natural processes. Here is an excerpt from an article by B. N. Menshutkin, incomparably cynical:

“Thus (!?) we are again returning to the view against which (!?) D. I. Mendeleyev always (!!!!) spoke out, which existed from the most ancient times among philosophers who considered all visible and known substances and bodies to be composed of the same primary substance of the Greek philosophers (“proteule” of the Greek philosophers, prima materia – of the Romans). This hypothesis always found adherents due to its simplicity and in the teachings of philosophers it was called the hypothesis of the unity of matter or the hypothesis of unitary matter.” (B. N. Menshutkin. “D. I. Mendeleyev. Periodic Law.” Edited and with an article on the current status of the periodic law by B. N. Menshutkin. State Publishing House, M-L, 1926).

9. In rerum natura

When assessing the views of D. I. Mendeleyev and his unscrupulous opponents, it is necessary to note the following.

Most likely, Mendeleyev was unwittingly mistaken in that the “world ether” is an “elementary substance” (i.e., a “chemical element” in the modern sense of the term). Most likely, the “world ether” is a true substance; and as such, in the strict sense, it is not a “substance”; and it does not possess “elementary chemistry”, i.e., it does not possess “extremely small atomic weight” with “extremely rapid proper partial motion”

Let D. I. Mendeleyev be mistaken in the “materiality”, “chemistry” of the ether. In the end, this is a terminological miscalculation of the great scientist; and in his time this is excusable, because then these terms were still quite vague, just entering scientific circulation. But another thing is absolutely clear: Dmitry Ivanovich was absolutely right in that the “world ether” is the all-forming essence, the quintessence, the substance of which the entire world of things (the material world) consists and in which all material formations reside. Dmitry Ivanovich is also right in that this substance transmits energy over distances and does not possess any chemical activity. The latter circumstance only confirms our idea that D. I. Mendeleyev consciously singled out the element “x” as an exclusive essence.

So, the “world ether”, i.e. the substance of the Universe, is isotropic, does not have a partial structure, but is the absolute (i.e. the ultimate, fundamental, universal) essence of the Universe. And precisely because, as D. I. Mendeleyev correctly noted, the world ether “is not capable of chemical interactions”, and therefore is not a “chemical element”, i.e. an “elementary substance” – in the modern sense of these terms.

Dmitry Ivanovich was also right that the world ether is a carrier of energy over distances. Let us say more: the world ether, as the substance of the World, is not only a carrier, but also a “keeper” and “carrier” of all types of energy (“forces of action”) in nature.

From the depths of centuries, D. I. Mendeleyev is echoed by another outstanding scientist – Torricelli (1608 – 1647): “Energy is the quintessence of such a subtle nature that it cannot be contained in any other vessel than in the most secret substance of material things.” So, according to Mendeleyev and Torricelli, the world ether is the MOST SECRET SUBSTANCE OF MATERIAL THINGS.

That is why Mendeleyev’s “Newtonium” is not just in the zero row of the zero group of his periodic table, but it is a kind of “CROWN” of his entire table of chemical elements. The crown that forms all the chemical elements in the world, i.e. all matter. This Crown (“Mother”, “Matter-substance” of any substance) is the Natural environment, set in motion and induced to change — according to our calculations — by another (second) absolute entity, which we called the “Substantial flow of primary fundamental information about the forms and modes of motion of Matter in the Universe”. More details about this can be found in the magazine “Russkaya Mysl”, 1-8, 1997, pp. 28-31.

We have chosen “O”, zero, as the mathematical symbol of the world ether, and “LONO” as the semantic one. In turn, we have chosen “1”, one, as the mathematical symbol of the Substantial flow, and “ONE” as the semantic one. Thus, based on the above-mentioned symbolism, it becomes possible to laconically express in one mathematical expression the totality of all possible forms and modes of motion of matter in nature:

$\{0\ 1\}$

This expression mathematically defines the so-called open interval of the intersection of two sets, — set “0” and set “1”, while the semantic definition of this expression is “ONE IN THE WOMB” or otherwise: The substantial flow of primary fundamental information about the forms and methods of motion of Matter-substance completely permeates this Matter-substance, i.e. the world ether.

In religious doctrines, this “open interval” is clothed in the figurative form of the Universal act of creation by God of all matter in the World from Matter-substance, with Which He continuously exists in a state of fruitful copulation.

The author of this article is aware that this mathematical construction was once inspired to him again, as strange as it may seem, by the ideas of the unforgettable D. I. Mendeleev, expressed by him in his works (see, for example, the article “An Attempt at a Chemical Understanding of the World Ether”).

Now it is time to summarize our research, presented in this dissertation.

10. Errata: ferro et igni

The world science’s categorical and cynical disregard for the place and role of the world ether in natural processes (and in the Periodic Table!) has given rise to the entire range of problems facing humanity in our technocratic age.

The main one of these problems is fuel and energy.

It is precisely the ignoring of the role of the world ether that allows scientists to make the false (and deceitful at the same time) conclusion that a person can only obtain useful energy for his daily needs by burning, i.e. irrevocably destroying matter (fuel). Hence the false thesis about the absence of a real alternative to the current fuel energy. And if so, then there is supposedly only one thing left: to breed nuclear (the dirtiest ecologically!) energy and gas-oil-coal production, polluting and poisoning our own environment immensely.

It is precisely the ignoring of the role of the world ether that pushes all modern nuclear scientists to the sly search for “salvation” in the splitting of atoms and elementary particles in special expensive synchrotron accelerators. In the course of these monstrous and extremely dangerous experiments in their consequences, they want to discover and then use allegedly “for the good” the so-called “quark-gluon plasma”, according to their false ideas – as if “pre-matter” (the term of the nuclear scientists themselves), according to their false cosmological theory of the so-called “Big Bang of the Universe”. It is worthy of note, according to our calculations, that if this so-called “most cherished dream of all modern nuclear physicists” will be inadvertently achieved, then this will most likely be a MAN-MADE END OF ALL LIFE ON EARTH AND THE END OF PLANET EARTH ITSELF, a truly “Big Bang” on a global scale, but not in make-believe, but for real.

Therefore, it is necessary to stop as quickly as possible this insane experimentation of world academic science, which is infected from head to toe with the poison of the psi-factor and which, it seems, does not even imagine the possible catastrophic consequences of these insane parascientific undertakings.

D. I. Mendeleyev turned out to be right, – “The problem of gravitation and the problems of all energy cannot be imagined as actually solved without a real understanding of the ether, as a world environment transmitting energy over distances.”

D. I. Mendeleyev was also right when he said that “someday they will realize that handing over the affairs of a given industry to people who live by it does not lead to the best results, although it is very useful to listen to such people.” “The main meaning of what has been said is that common, eternal and strong interests often do not coincide with personal and temporary ones, and often even contradict each other, and, in my opinion, it is necessary to prefer – if it is no longer possible to reconcile – the first, and not the second. This is the drama of our time.” D. I. Mendeleyev. “Thoughts for the understanding of Russia.” 1906.

So, the world ether is the substance of EVERY chemical element and therefore – for EVERY substance, there is Absolute true matter as the Universal element-forming Essence. The world ether is the source and crown of the entire genuine Mendeleev Table, its beginning and end, the alpha and omega of the Periodic Table of Elements of Dmitry Ivanovich Mendeleev.

20.01.1999 Rodionov V.G.

Air or any elastic matter is a medium for the propagation of sound waves. In the absence of such a medium (in a vacuum), sound does not propagate. More than two centuries ago, the medium carrier of the electromagnetic wave (light) was called ether, and electric and magnetic fields were identified with the mechanical stresses of the ether.

Faraday was skeptical about the ether and expressed uncertainty about its existence, while Maxwell, Umov and Helmholtz considered the ether to be the carrier of light, electricity and magnetism. Henri Poincaré believed that the ether exists, but cannot be detected in principle. N. Tesla was also a great supporter of the ether theory, who even tried to extract energy from the ether.

However, by the beginning of the 20th century, a huge number of unsolvable problems related to the properties of the ether had accumulated (the experiments of Michelson, Morley, etc.) and only Einstein's Special Theory of Relativity (STR) completely abolished the concept of the ether and eliminated all the contradictions and problems that had accumulated up to that time.

From a modern point of view, an electromagnetic wave is a self-sufficient physical object, does not need a special carrier medium, and propagates in a vacuum at the speed of light. The main reason why the concept of the ether was rejected was the fact that this concept turned out to be redundant after the development of the STR. The final argument was the discovery of the quantum nature of the electromagnetic field, which is incompatible with the hypothesis of a continuous ether.

EXTRACTS FROM A CONVERSATION BETWEEN A HUMAN AND AN ALIEN ABOUT TECHNOLOGIES AND THE SUBTLE WORLD

I personally know a woman who communicated with an alien from a race of aliens similar to us (blond, blue-eyed) they said that they created humanity. I myself have seen UFOs several times. I am not a skeptic and believe many stories about meetings with aliens. Here are some excerpts from the contact between Herman Ilg and the alien:

(Excerpts)

Answer: – Earthly humanity is of the opinion that for many things there is the word “impossible”. We have a different opinion because what we consider a utopia today may become possible tomorrow.

Practically, utopias do not exist at all. If 4000 years ago you had told people about what you have today, they would all, without exception, have considered it impossible. Utopias have become a reality. The fantasies of today’s generation are quite possible to realize. Therefore, we do not understand at all why many doubt our existence. Why they cannot understand that we travel at a speed greater than the speed of light? Why do they doubt the possibility of existing in a dematerialized state?

There are no utopias. Everything is possible if you know the ways to implement it.

Answer: Your science is too closely connected with material facts. For you, only the Universe exists that can be seen and measured.

This an error in natural science, since along with the visible Universe there is also an opposite invisible system of the Universe, i.e. the opposite pole. This Anti-Universe is similar in structure and construction to the material Universe, as it has almost the same life forms.

The Anti-Universe, or Anti-Worlds, form one thing in common with the material world. There are certain relationships between the two great creations. Thus, there are two huge magnetic poles with incomprehensible energy. You would designate these forces as positive and negative.

Question: I would like to ask a couple of questions about the etheric substance. I do not quite understand the nature of the etheric substance.

Answer: For example, the etheric form of our metals differs from earthly metals in its molecular and atomic structure. For example, the distance between the nuclei and the electrons revolving around them in etheric iron is much greater than in iron known on Earth. This allows the atoms of earthly steel to pass through the atoms of etheric steel without harming each other. The etheric form of steel has higher vibrations than earthly steel, and therefore remains invisible to earthly sight, or, as you say, to the physical eye. Under certain circumstances it becomes visible – say, in the presence of certain atmospheric gases of the earth, or when the controlling intelligence so desires. It does not matter how great the mass of the etheric body. Even a spaceship several miles wide cannot be damaged by collision with physical matter...

From these polarized energies, gravity arises for you.

The distance between celestial bodies is not determined by their own gravitational force but depends on both gravitational constants of the material and antimaterial worlds. I have already mentioned the existence of antiworlds.

There was an opinion that we travel through the Universe thanks to the clever use of electromagnetic fields. This is not true. We use the stress fields of both different gravitations. You must imagine that both Universes repel each other since they are differently polarized.

Well, now about our fantastic possibilities of movement. We do not use the power of the atom, we do not have an electrical system; we only use the polarization of the Universe, i.e. we have the equipment, with the help of which we switch the spaceship to the antiworld and change the pole.

At the moment when this change of poles occurs, our cosmic body disappears from material vision along with all living things and everything inside. No radar device can detect us. However, the flying body is repelled by matter. The flying ship is thrown out of matter with incredible increasing speed. There is no need to talk about speeds anymore; it increases as in free fall and the speed of light is not comparable at all.

Now it all comes down to regulating and directing the flight. For this we use particles of light. For you such a construction is still unthinkable; we are millions of years ahead of you and besides, you are harming progress with cruel wars.

Answer: I know that you are very interested in our technology for travel.

However, I want, as an exception, to briefly explain to you by what force and by what means we cover such distances comparatively quickly. This is too difficult and voluminous.

I must draw your attention to the fact that my explanations seem extremely fantastic, but they are absolutely true.

I have already said once that in life there are different forms of existence. Thus, there are worlds that are not subject to your perception.

Such a form of existence with fauna and flora is, for example, the other world, which a person enters after leaving Mother Earth (after death). Almost all of earthly humanity doubts this objective truth. Therefore, I ask myself, what is the point of your religions and churches?

Along with the so-called other world, there is another form of existence with fauna and flora, namely the antiworld. This form of existence allows us to develop enormous speed, which in interstellar space is ten times faster than light.

I have already mentioned to you several times the eternal existence of human life. By this I do not mean existence in the flesh, but of a spiritual man in a semi-material world.

We have thought a lot about why there is no peaceful coexistence on Earth. The reason must be sought in the level of spiritual development. In high politics and diplomacy, people also think too superficially.

It is very important to see far ahead. This foresight is impossible for you. As soon as your thoughts have reached a certain point, they stop, although very important things still remain uncovered.

For this reason, most earthly people cannot imagine what awaits them after death. Thought reaches only as far as the grave, after which it stops and goes no further. You must get used to the fact that your consciousness is immortal.

Question: Dialectical materialism claims that human consciousness is connected with matter.

Answer: If you counted all the errors, they would make up a whole dictionary. However, consciousness is not connected with matter at all, it freely exists in the Universe. Only by mistake does a person get the feeling that consciousness is in the head.

When a lunar probe transmits a photograph from a satellite to Earth and the photograph appears on a television screen, no one claims that this signal is located in the body of the apparatus. This is an example of the error mentioned. Consciousness can expand for millions of miles, and yet the final effect is in the body.

But this means that the final effect can also be in the spiritual body or antibody. Consciousness requires an instrument, but this instrument does not necessarily have to be made of meat and blood.

When a person dies, it is not the consciousness that dies, although the brain ceases to function. The brain's job is to accurately maintain the personal frequency of consciousness. A small deviation in this frequency leads to enormous consequences, which are called insanity. But the brain is not designed for thinking, but for controlling the frequency.

In this conversation, the alien said that they created another world, which we call Heaven and Hell. Here are some excerpts from the stories of people who experienced clinical death and visited that world.

“... everything was filled with an amazing light: life-giving, golden-yellow, warm and soft, completely different from the light we see on earth.”

“...I woke up and found myself standing next to the bed. I looked at the bed, and there I was lying! I shook my head, and felt myself with my hands: no, here I am! Standing, alive, and normal! Who is lying there? I ran my hands over my body again: a strong, slender body, like in my youth, somewhere around fifteen years old. I went to the doctor’s office, feeling quite real. And there I encountered the fact that they did not see or hear me! I shake the midwife, and the nurse, but my hands go through them. I scream, but they do not hear!”

“...I saw such a dazzling sight that I had never seen and could not even imagine in my entire life! The beauty, grandeur, and magnificence of that city were breathtaking! The golden color and rays of light that emanated from that city were blinding to the eyes. The walls were absolutely transparent, because the light from inside that city was so bright that absolutely nothing could resist it. ”

“...she was surrounded by colorful flowers, trees, bushes, and although the sun was not visible, the entire space was flooded with bright light. ”

“...describes the feelings of a woman who also visited heaven. As soon as her soul left her body, she found herself in a place flooded with light. She believed that all earthly joys were incomparable with what she experienced there. Her soul revelled in beauty, constantly felt the presence of harmony, joy, compassion, she herself wanted to merge, to become a part of this beauty. ”

“...a woman who experienced clinical death left her body at that very moment. She stood by the bed and saw herself from the outside, felt how the nurse passed through her, heading for an oxygen mask. Then she floated up, found herself in a tunnel, and came out to a shining light. She found herself in a wonderful place, filled with bright colors, indescribable and unlike earthly ones. The whole space was filled with sparkling light. ”

“On the Oprah Winfrey show, which took place on May 27, 2004, actress Sharon Stone shared with the audience her experience of clinical death.

I saw a lot of white light,” Stone said. This happened after she had an MRI. She was unconscious during the session, and when she woke up, she told doctors that she had experienced clinical death. It’s like fainting, only you can’t come to your senses for longer,” she says.

Stone suffered a stroke in 2001. Her out-of-body experience began with a flash of white light.

– I saw a lot of white light and my friends who had already died, they talked to me. My grandmother came to me and told me to trust the doctors, and then I would return back to my body,” the actress said.”

P.S.: It is possible that all this is true. I wish scientists could find a way to see the world woven from light, located in the ether, which the alien spoke about. But studying many eyewitness stories, it became clear that this subtle world is in space near Saturn. It is not so easy to study.

In an excerpt from a conversation with an alien, he said that a person with an amputation of a limb continues to feel it, since it exists in a “subtle body”. This can be studied. I hope scientists can find a way to see the “subtle body” consisting of light in the etheric environment!

(Quote from the passage: The etheric form of our metals differs from the earthly metals in its molecular and atomic structure. For example, the distance between the nuclei and the electrons revolving around them in etheric iron is much greater than in iron known on Earth. This allows the atoms of earthly steel to pass through the atoms of etheric steel without harming each other. The etheric form of steel has a higher vibration than earthly steel and therefore remains invisible to earthly sight, or, as you say, to the physical eye. Under certain circumstances it becomes visible – say, in the presence of certain atmospheric gases of the earth.)

CREATORS OF MANKIND

History abounds with White gods or masters from the Heavens.

It is more than just a coincidence that throughout history many cultures have had encounters with White gods from the skies. The following is a list of some of the historical and or mythological events of inter-reaction with man and white gods from the heavens.

South America – Viracochas are interpreted as the White Masters from the skies. They gave astronomy, building skills, the calendar, and culture to the Incas.

Mesopotamia – Ahura Mazda, meaning spirits of knowledge were described as “white spirits” that flew in a shiny disk.

America – The Hopi Indians encountered the Bahana. Bahana means, “white brother” from the skies. The Bahana gave them spiritual understandings of a theosophical nature.

India – Asura, has the meaning of the white gods of the wind. They gave an understanding of ancient knowledge. Vishnu the third deity of the top godhead is to come back on a white horse. Ancient Vedas describe a pre-flood world, filled with aircraft called Vimanas engaged in aerial combat, missile launches, and descriptions of nuclear war with fallout and radioactivity.

It is a highly developed civilization that came to Earth hundreds of thousands of years ago and founded its own colony – people. In the myths and stories describe them as tall, slender people with white, plaster sculpture skin, blue eyes, and white hair.

In our days some people were lucky enough to meet with the “alien creators”. Here are some of the examples:

“Miriam D.: I with my friends had decided to take a road trip to my hometown. Suddenly in the sky appeared big balls of light. And by that time the car filled with light from every direction. And these balls of light were sitting behind the car. I was scared. So I got out of the car. On the left, I saw a larger craft that had two beings standing in this doorway. And they had blond hair – and I mean blond as in snow white hair – and the most brilliant blue, Mediterranean water blue, eyes that you’ve ever seen, and they were like people. I walked onboard the craft and had a meeting, that lasted some time.

They gave me warnings about possible futures in which the planet could potentially be destroyed if we don’t go to a positive path of development. I remember they gave me at the time quite a lot of information. And a screen popped up. And the screen was actually quite large. Two or three feet high. And as I looked at the screen, there was information that came across it. And images.

These images would be accompanied by information that was given to me by these beings, either through telepathy or – meaning they would directly speak to me – or it felt like there was just a constant flow of information being sort of placed within my mind. Now, one of the important things that they shared with me was the creation of man.

So, to make this story really short, they explained that they had a hand in creating mankind. They were the helpers of this Earth to ensure that... They were overseers, so that they would be here to watch over the Earth, to help man become more than what they currently are...”

“George A.: During the previous year he with friends had journeyed on several occasions into the Mojave Desert. Suddenly, everyone turned to look over a ridge—

*and gaped. As Adamski describes it in *Flying Saucers Have Landed: Riding high, and without sound, there was a gigantic cigar-shaped silvery ship, without wings or appendages of any kind. He saw that the ship was settling into a cove.

Someone was standing about a quarter of a mile away, motioning for Adamski to come over. Adamski walked toward the man. The man was wearing a silver jumpsuit. His long, blond hair was blowing in the wind. He was smiling. Adamski halted an arm's length from the stranger. Now, for the first time, I fully realized that I was in the presence of a man from space—a human being from another world! ...The beauty of his form surpassed anything I had ever seen. He was radiating a feeling of infinite understanding and kindness, with supreme humility. He was youthful in appearance. He had a high forehead, blue eyes, and a smile that revealed glistening teeth. His jumpsuit was with a radiant sheen. The two men began to communicate, via a combination of telepathy, gestures, and facial expressions.

His visit was friendly but serious in purpose. For he had come to warn us of the dangers of nuclear explosions—dangers for both the Earth and its neighbors in the Solar System. Adamski noticed now the saucer in which he had arrived. Bell-shaped and translucent, it was hovering just off the ground in a cove. A scout ship explained the spaceman, that had emerged from the mother ship seen earlier. Adamski put questions to the spaceman. How did his ship operate? Did they experience death? The spaceman answered the questions. But when Adamski asked to take his picture, he shook his head. Then the spaceman said goodbye and reboarded his ship. It rose, glided over the mountains, and disappeared from view..."

The Earth they found during the search of habitable planets. They liked the Earth with all its diversity of flora and fauna, seas and oceans. And it was decided in any way, to found a colony. For them, due to the lack of pigmentation, the sun was fatal, so they decided against using genetic engineering to create humans adapted to the Earth's conditions.

“White aliens” have chosen from the variety of animals on the Earth that are the most suitable for the experiment – the monkeys (chimpanzees and gorillas). They made several attempts to create humans. Their goal was the creation of man, whose body is the biological structure will be like earth animals, but with the appearance and mind of “Creators”.

From history, we remember the Australopithecines, Pithecanthropus, Neanderthals, and so on. These failed attempts were washed away from the face of the Earth, and “humanoid white gods” again inhabited the planet for more perfect people. During this period, on the Earth appeared races of people, such as Indians, Africans, Asians, and Arabs. These races are more ancient and preserved memories of the gods. Men of the European type inhabited little later in parts of the European continent, and from there they had gone tribes.

If we assume that, for example, European people of the modern species evolved naturally from apes, how strange they appeared several thousand years ago and diverged almost from the same area!? Or is this a fantastic evolutionary leap? Then why does the evolution of animals last many millions of years?

Different races were created, to see which of them would take root better, with skin color from black to white. According to the structure of the body – we are animals of planet Earth, and all that separates us from the monkeys is from the creators.

After creating a satisfactory hybrid race, and settling on different continents, they made the decision not to interfere in our development. “Creators” wondered which way we would go, and how to develop our culture and society. They wished that we had purchased individuality. For thousands of years, they watched over us and hid their presence.

They are good at it! We must not forget that we are all their children, we are all one! You can’t consider yourself better than others, it is necessary to respect and appreciate all creations of our “Creators”.

But still, people are not quite adapted to the conditions of the Earth.

“A U.S. ecologist has claimed that humans are not from Earth but were put on the planet by aliens tens of thousands of years ago.

Dr Ellis Silver points to a number of physiological features to make his case for why humans did not evolve alongside other life on Earth.

They range from humans suffering from bad backs – which he suggests is because we evolved in a world with lower gravity – to getting too easily sunburned and having difficulty giving birth.

Dr Ellis says that while the planet meets humans’ needs for the most part, it does not perhaps serve the species’ interests as well as the aliens who dropped us off imagined.

‘Mankind is supposedly the most highly developed species on the planet, yet is surprisingly unsuited and ill-equipped for Earth’s environment: harmed by sunlight, a strong dislike for naturally occurring foods, ridiculously high rates of chronic disease, and more.’

Dr Ellis also claims humans are always ill and this might be because our body clocks have evolved to expect a 25-hour day, as proven by sleep researchers.

He also believes humans are not designed to be so exposed to the sun as they are on Earth, as they cannot sunbathe for more than a week or two ; unlike a lizard ; and cannot be exposed to the sun every day

THE ‘EVIDENCE’ TO SUGGEST HUMANS CAME FROM SPACE SO FAR

- Bad backs suggest humans evolved in a world with lower gravity
- Sunburn hints humans were not designed to be exposed constantly to the sun

- The size of babies' heads presents a problem for women when giving birth – difficulty not shared by other species on the planet
- Humans are always ill, perhaps because their body clocks have evolved to expect a 25-hour day – unlike Earth's
- People just feel like they are not at home on our planet

Dr Ellis said many people feel that they don't belong and feel at home on Earth.

'This suggests that mankind may have evolved on a different planet, and we may have been brought here as a highly developed species.'

As on any planet where there is life, there are special kinds of animals, which evolve into intelligent creatures. The Earth was no exception. In the time of dinosaurs over millions of years, one kind of reptile evolved into intelligent beings. They achieved technological progress, built cities, studied science, and flew into space. The inhabitants of that civilization were humanoid reptilians.

They were tall, and athletic, with scaly skin like a snake, large on half-face red eyes with a vertical pupil and a small comb from the forehead and along the spine. Their cities were mainly located underground at depths of 2-8 kilometers. They did not agree with settling on the surface of the Earth a new sentient race. Between the “white gods” and the reptilian civilization was a War for the Earth, in which the planet had suffered multiple nuclear strikes.

Wars for the Earth between the reptilians and the “white gods” were many, and the most ancient civilizations has preserved the memory of the battles in their culture.

Especially a lot of mention of the wars is contained in the Mahabharata, the Indian epic:

” Vimanas (flying ships) approached the Earth with incredible speed and released many arrows, glittering like gold, thousands of lightning... Roar, published by them, was like thunder from thousands of drums... It was as if the elements had been unleashed. The sun spun round. Scorched by the incandescent heat of the weapon, the world reeled in fever. Elephants were set on fire by the heat and ran to and fro in a frenzy to seek protection from the terrible violence. The water boiled, the animals died, the enemy was mown down and the raging of the blaze made the trees collapse in rows as in a forest fire... Horses and war chariots were burnt up and the scene looked like the aftermath of a conflagration. Thousands of chariots were destroyed, and then deep silence descended on the sea. The winds began to blow and the earth grew bright. It was a terrible sight to see. The corpses of the fallen were mutilated by the terrible heat so that they no longer looked like human beings. Never before have we seen such a ghastly weapon and never before have we heard of such a weapon...” (weapons of the gods are very similar to nuclear)

Talking about the wars of the gods, the myth of the battle of the God Marduk with the dragon Tiamat, the struggle of the Slavic God Perun with the Snake king, and the battle the ancient Egyptian God RA with the serpent of Apop.

All myths even said that the Snake was defeated in the war, expelled into the earth in his Kingdom. In our time, scientists have discovered many kilometers of underground tunnels and mines in all parts of the world. Some tunnels have walls made of an unknown material, perhaps covering the entrance to their cities.

From legends of the Indians of Peru it is said that the path of the cave system Chinkanas lead to the underworld where lives the mighty civilization of amphibious serpent people. In appearance, which look like both a man and a snake. In the 20th century in these caves disappeared several dozen adventurers. To get out of there managed to a few people. From their disjointed stories can be understood that in the depths of the earth, they met with strange creatures.

During the endless wars of “white gods” decided to leave the planet and return with more powerful weapons. Returning, they struck at Mars, thus showing their power. The civilization of reptilians was forced to reckon with the conditions of “white gods”. The main condition was “not intervention” in the development of the people.

«Back in 2011 the scientist first postulated that the red colour on Mars could have been due to a naturally occurring thermonuclear explosion.

‘The Martian surface is covered with a thin layer of radioactive substances including uranium, thorium, and radioactive potassium – and this pattern radiates from a hot spot on Mars’.

His research centers around the ‘high concentration’ of Xenon-129 in the Martian atmosphere, and uranium and thorium on the surface, spotted by Nasa’s Mars Odyssey spacecraft. Scientists have previously pointed out that the appearance of these elements is not surprising, as they are natural elements found everywhere. But Dr Brandenburg is adamant they are the remnants of two nuclear explosions on the surface.

‘Taken together, the data requires that the hypothesis of Mars as the site of an ancient planetary nuclear massacre must now be considered.’

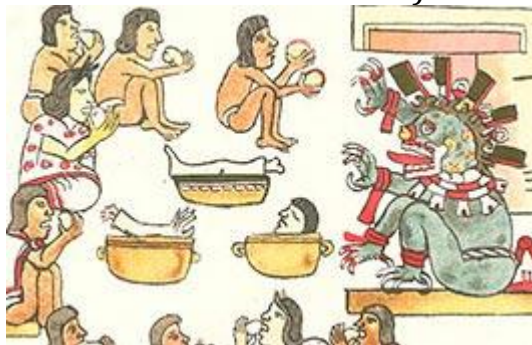

Dr Brandenburg says his theory could explain the Fermi Paradox – namely why, if the universe is abundant with life, we haven't heard anything from anyone else yet. He warns, though, that we need to be fearful of an attack on our planet and should mount a manned mission to Mars to know what we're up against.

'These stories and many variations of them present a view that our Solar System was the home of several nuclear battles raged between alien visitors and settlers,' he said»

At a time, when "Creators" left the Earth, the reptilians were presented like gods of men. In the mythology of the ancient Maya, Aztecs, China, India, and Egypt mention reptilian gods, whom ancient civilizations worshipped and offered sacrifices.

"The Aztecs, fearing their gods, performed human sacrifice. Prisoners were forced to climb to the top of the pyramid to be sacrificed. When the Indians brought them to a small platform on which stood their idols, the people were laid on the sacrificial stone and a stone knife cut out the hearts. The hearts were offered to their idols standing nearby, and the bodies were thrown down the stairs..." (excerpt from en. "Lost civilization")

This picture shows the custom which was in tradition among the Indians. In the day they sacrificed the people to their idols. They laid the bodies in front of the demon, who is called Mictlantecuhtli.

Also, each day reptilian gods took blood. Not many have escaped this painful charge. Even they pierced the ears of infants for these purposes.

Usually, the thorn of the maguay is used for bleeding.

The civilization of reptilians was very fond of snakes, they found them beautiful, and sacred. Owning genetic engineering, they created hybrids of their species and snakes. In mythology, these creatures are known as “Naga”. Naga was half reptilian (to the waist), but instead of legs, they had a snake’s tail. Over people put genetic experiments too. Many of the ancient mythical beasts such as centaurs, mermaids, half man half snake, and minotaurs are the results of their experiments. The witnesses that have been in contact with aliens say that mermaids and Nagas, they save and they still exist. Naga takes pride of its place among civilizations of reptilians, and the mermaids live in the ocean and hide from people because people will immediately guess how they are created.

The mythology of “Naga” has very ancient roots. They depict the head and torso of a man and tail of a serpent.

According to the Mahabharata: “... some of the Nagas were little like mice, others were the size of an elephant’s trunk, ...all the monstrous snakes who had great strength and was of such enormous value that, when they raised on their tails resembled mountain peaks."

Their images are available on the bas-reliefs of Angkor in Cambodia, on the bridges of the Nagas in the temples in Thailand, in the temple of Phnom Rank, and in other places.

Some people say that they encountered these mysterious creatures.

"Victor C.: I went for a hike to the gorge of the Kok-Asanas (Crimea) and decided to spend the night on the tour of the Parking lot. Lay down in a sleeping bag and spend time admiring the stars, until one of them grew to enormous size. Above me in the sky hung a flying saucer. I was raised into the object. I found myself inside a UFO. There was a strange creature.*

One of them says, "Wanna fly?", I "Yes, I want"...

I was inside the ship in a circular room. There was Central control.

The room inside the ship was dimly lit and filled with some mucus. But even more surprising were the creatures that I met. The image of a human figure, but below the waist they had a snake tail is pretty long, somewhere 2.5 meters. They had three breasts. The main female snake telepathically appealed to me. She suggested a long-term relationship in order to allegedly study humans... But I refused, and I was back."

There are many references about encounters with half-human, half-fish or simply a mermaids.

“G. Hudson in the 17th century in his ship’s log recorded that one of the members of his team, looking overboard, saw a mermaid. He began to call other sailors, came another sailor. Together they were eyewitnesses to how a strange woman with very white skin and black hair came near the ship. She also studied the people with interest. When the wave knocked over a water creature, the sailors saw that it was a woman only half. Instead of legs, attached to her entire lower body, she had a fishtail, which looked like a brown dolphin tail and was covered in spots, like mackerel. This event occurred on 15 June 1608, and witnessed the emergence of mermaids, Thomas Hills and Robert Rayner.”

Reptilians left on the surface of the Earth many artifacts, the most famous being the pyramids, built in large numbers in different parts of the world. Scientists still can’t understand how people of the time built these monumental structures without the use of high technology, which we still have not mastered. For the reptilians pyramidal form was perfect, any ground building was a pyramidal shape. Also, some ships of this civilization have the shape of a pyramid. According to eyewitnesses, these ships wide reach 15-20 meters at the base of the pyramid. The ships emit a glow and are masked, becoming transparent.

Until a certain time “Creators” can’t interfere in our development for the sake of “cleanliness of experiment”. Because we have to develop our own way, to be an individual unlike any other civilization of the Earth. Then they will open the secret of his presence, when our technology level reaches a certain point. Not that in ancient times, when representatives of other intelligent civilizations were considered gods, mages, their ships fire-breathing dragons, and rocket arrows. The opening time is near, different sources point to the period from 2030-2040.

THE STORIES OF WITNESSES IN OUR TIME

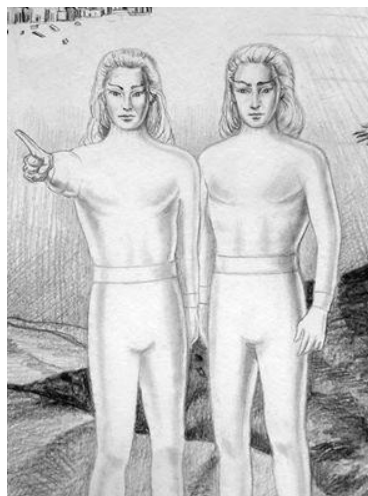

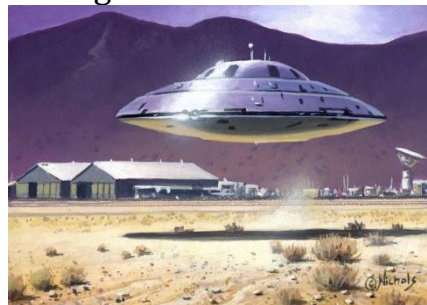

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER AND ALIENS

President Eisenhower had three secret meetings with aliens. The aliens met with our leaders in 1954 says Retired, Command Sergeant Major, Robert O. Dean!

In addition to President Dwight David Eisenhower and other top brass, the Muroc Airfield meeting with extraterrestrials on February 20- 21 1954 was attended by a “Wise Men” group of four members of civil society... The meeting was at once awesome and terrifying to most of the people present, who thought they had met supernatural beings and the world had come to an end. President along with others... met and spoke with two white-haired Nordics alien (other name "Tall white aliens") that had pale blue eyes and colorless lips. The spokesman stood several feet away from Ike and would not let him approach any closer. A second Nordic stood on the extended ramp of a bi-convex saucer that stood on tripod landing gear on the landing strip... these visitors said they came from another solar system. They posed detailed questions about nuclear testing...

Physically, the Nordics looked like humans, only they were larger in stature, about 7 to 8 feet tall. Their speech was conveyed rather mentally than verbally. "There was telepathic communication," Salla says. "It's as though you're hearing a person but they're not speaking."

VILAS-BOAS

Another famous encounter involving similar beings is that of Antônio Vilas-Boas, a Brazilian farmer who was abducted in October of 1957. The beings he encountered apparently communicated through speech that sounded like barks and growls and could be considered similar to the way the beings communicated in front of Shaw and his companion, i.e., warbling and guttural. Vilas-Boas described the female he interacted with as follows:

“Her hair was blonde, nearly white... nose was smooth, not very thick and she had big blue eyes, rather longer than round, for they slanted outward, like those pencil-drawn girls made to look like Arabian princesses, that look as if they were slit... except that they were natural; there was no makeup.

BRITISH POLICE HAVE MET ALIENS

Wiltshire, UK.

On the condition of anonymity (for fear that he would be considered abnormal and out) a police officer told local reporters that appeared on the field the new round, he saw mysterious creatures. He said that in his spare time passed the fields and saw on it were strange creatures, unlike men. But when law enforcement began to approach the strangers, he heard a sound similar to crackling electricity, and creatures with incredible speed ran. According to police, their height was above 180 cm, and they had long blond hair.

Excerpts

“I turned back to my truck door and tried to unlock it when I caught something at the corner of my eye. I jumped back against the side of my truck and about 15 feet away stood three people staring at me that had not been there prior to this incident. There were two very attractive women and one very tall man who was at least ten feet tall. All of them had blonde hair that was almost white, and blue eyes.”

“They did not say anything to me directly but I heard one of the woman’s voices in my head. I know you’re probably thinking that I am crazy but it did happen. She said, ‘[my name] please do not be afraid. You have an important role to play if you would like to help us.’ I said out loud in a shaky voice ‘Okay but I don’t know how.’ Then the woman said, ‘Don’t worry, you will know in time.’ Right after she said that everything went black. Eventually I woke up around two thirty, laying about thirty feet away from my last remembered position at the side of my truck.”

CHARLES HALL AND TALL WHITES ALIENS

Charles Hall's Millennial Hospitality book series, describing his encounters with a race of human-like extraterrestrials – the “Tall Whites” (TW) – during a two year duty assignment at Nellis Air Force Base from 1965 to 1967.

(excerpts)

Hall has described these beings as tall – ranging upwards of 6-7 feet in height – and quite thin and frail. The skin color is chalk white. They are physically different from us in several noticeable ways, yet the most important physical aspect is that they are humanoid, a fact that is filled with significance.

Their life span is about ten times ours. They do not age as we do, but after around 400 earth years' time they undergo a second stage of growth, eventually reaching around nine feet in height. They die of organ failure at an age of approximately 800 years.

The Tall Whites have a physical form similar to ours in all gross aspects. That is, they are upright bipedal vertebrates; they have human-like faces, etc. With suitable clothing, they can and do pass as humans during well-guarded forays into Las Vegas. The Tall Whites have the faculty of speech, but some of their speech sounds are outside the audible spectrum for humans. In other words, we can't hear the sounds.

Normal speech sounds "like a dog barking or a meadowlark singing". However, some Tall Whites can mimic human speech and in fact carry on normal conversations with humans. Some have demonstrated an ability to imitate specific humans so well that the imitation cannot be detected when used over a telephone.

They also can use a device that projects speech so that it is heard by humans within their head. This works only over a short range (several feet) and requires the human to turn the head sideways to the Tall White.

The device is also a language translator. According to its settings from time to time, Hall was occasionally able to overhear Tall Whites conversing among themselves as though they were speaking English.

As stated, there was a pattern of confrontations with our personnel, in which panic led to injury and death of our soldiers. These beings are all well-armed, and they can and do kill, sometimes at the tiniest provocation. They react and move much more rapidly than humans can, so if they decide you have threatened them, you may be cut down and bleeding out without having even been warned.

Every Tall White adult carries a pencil-like weapon that can be set to stun, kill, immobilize, or "hypnotize" humans. It can also administer severe pain, and they frequently use it to discipline people who act in ways that annoy, frighten, or endanger them. The weapon's actions and effects are accomplished by varying the frequency of focused microwaves to interact with specific ions in the human body.

Although their technology is quite beyond ours at this time, evidence suggests that by other and less tangible measures – "wisdom", "intelligence", "moral stature" – they might be quite comparable to ourselves.

Among the interesting matching characteristics of the Tall Whites and the Imdugud:

1. Very tall humanoid “Nordic” with white skin
2. Often have blue eyes
3. Emit barking or whistling sounds
4. Solitary
5. Warriors

Biological features of “Tall white aliens”

Parks adds in private communication that the Imdugud are among the very few that practice natural childbirth and raise families. (Most use genetics and cloning, and take advantage of very long or indefinitely long life spans. In other words, they are immortal.)

Yet there are contradictions, perhaps the most noteworthy being their apparent home base. Although the Tall Whites would never reveal this information to Charles Hall, they allowed him to believe it was not local, and via circumstantial data Hall has placed their home tentatively at the star Arcturus. However, it is also possible that Arcturus is simply another base – a “second home.

SECRET SOCIETIES AND REPTILOIDS

- Bilderberg Group
- Puppeteers: Secret Organizations That Rule the World
- David Icke's Theory "The World is Ruled by Reptiles"
- David Icke - The Reptilian Conspiracy
- Japanese Temple Conceals Ancient Reptilian Statue
- Zeta and Reptilian Underground Base in Dulce \(USA\)
- Reptilians Seen in Giant Cave in Vietnam
- Excerpts from contacts with reptilians
- Conversation with an alien from the race of Creators of humanity
- Conclusions

Bilderberg Group

It's a secret society so hidden that even most conspiracy theorists don't know about it.

When it comes to membership in a historic secret society, the Bilderberg Group has an undeniable appeal. The Bilderberg Group's membership roster includes some of the world's wealthiest and most powerful people, a coalition of men and women who meet once a year to discuss the biggest issues facing the planet. Formed in 1954 to encourage collaboration between North American and European political leaders, economic experts, and influential figures in industry, academia, and the media, the Bilderberg Group was kept secret for more than half a century.

But what is the real agenda of the Bilderberg Group? The secrecy surrounding the Bilderberg Group has led to countless conspiracy theories about who its members are, what they intend to do, and whether they can be trusted. Are they a group of well-intentioned, well-informed elites, or are they really part of a larger Illuminati conspiracy to take over the world? No one knows for sure, but here are some of the most outrageous facts and theories about the role they play every day without you even realizing it.

They were accused of controlling the US Republican Party

Lawyer and conservative activist Phyllis Schlafly, who actively opposed the Equal Rights Amendment in the 1970s, saw the Bilderberg Group as one of the forces working against the interests of a truly conservative agenda around the world.

In her 1964 pamphlet, Elections Not Echoes: The Inside Story of How American Presidents Are Elected, Schlafly lamented her conservatism, blaming the decline of the Republican Party on “the ‘secret kings,’ the ‘Rockefeller Republicans,’ and the Bilderberg globalists who plotted to control the party in order to advance social and economic liberalism.” Her idea that the Bilderberg Group was made up of men who controlled the leaders of the nation quickly caught on.

Founding members had Nazi ties

At least two of the four founders of the Bilderberg Group – Denis Healy, Joseph Retinger, David Rockefeller, and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands – had long-standing conspiracy theorist ties to the Nazi party.

David Rockefeller, heir to the Rockefeller billionaire fortune, was an American banker and philanthropist who could not escape his family’s ties to the Nazi Party. According to scholars, the Rockefeller Foundation played a major role in funding the Nazi eugenics program, as well as eugenics research in the United States. The Foundation is also believed to have “funded the program in which Josef Mengele worked before he was sent to Auschwitz.”

Despite showing active resistance to the Nazis after their invasion of the Netherlands in 1940, Prince Bernhard was a member of Adolf Hitler’s Brownshirts in 1933 and joined the Schutzstaffel, the Nazi paramilitary group, in 1934. He left the Nazi Party in late 1934 or 1935 – although he later swore he had never actually been a member – but his controversial past only added to the Bilderberg Group’s mystique.

They were accused of trying to create a Global Government

Rockefeller said at a UN meeting and later at the Bilderberg party, I want to thank the MSM and their political friends for helping the New World Order, without them we would never have gotten this far. If you still have doubts about the high income of these gangs?! — новый мировой порядок 7 May 2018

One of the most common concerns with the Bilderberg Group is that they are attempting to create a system of government – or what they already have – that controls political decisions and policies around the world. Since so many notable, wealthy, and powerful people have been involved with the Bilderberg Group, the notion that money rules the world fuels speculators' minds about the amount of power the Group wields. It also fuels speculation as to what the Group's goals really are: money or a potential quest for world domination.

From an outsider's perspective, the Bilderberg Group appears to want to implement NAFTA on the global stage, establish some kind of world legal order, and use the United Nations to tax everyone on the planet. In truth, the Bilderberg Group's agenda, according to some sources, is to solve the world's problems, so their influence on governments and global politics is open to interpretation. Getting millionaires and billionairesses into a room to discuss problems isn't the same as doing anything about them, but it can be a springboard for further action.

Serbs Blame Group for Kosovo War

Following the collapse of the Soviet Union, ethnic divisions in the Balkans led to the creation of seven sovereign states. Serbian nationalist politician Slobodan Milosevic established a power base in the region in the late 1980s and early 1990s. As he worked to suppress ethnic Albanians in Kosovo (not to mention Muslim Bosniaks and Croats in Bosnia and Herzegovina), war broke out between the various ethnic groups.

By 1996, aggression from Milosevic's Federal Republic of Yugoslavia (an independent republic comprising Serbia and Montenegro) led to the emergence of the Kosovo Liberation Army (KLA), leading to increasingly violent conflicts between Serbs and Kosovo residents. Fighting between Kosovo and Serbia escalated over the next three years and was only stopped by the intervention of the United Nations.

How does all this relate to the Bilderberg Group? According to some conspiracy theorists, the entire conflict between Serbia and Kosovo was engineered by the Group to start a war in the Balkans and trap Milosevic into committing war atrocities. Proponents of this theory claim that the Group fueled ethnic tensions in the region and funded the KLA.

Bilderberg Group May Have Influenced Iran to Join Russia and China

A post shared by Samir Dattopadhye on Nov 5, 2017

In the view of some outsiders, Bilderberg has gone too far, and the world is reacting. The lack of trust in the European Union is one symptom of Bilderberg's broader plan to unite North America and Europe. The group's ties to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), which was outspoken in its opposition to Russia's treatment of Ukraine in 2014, led to Russia allying itself with China and Iran in retaliation. That, in turn, led to a security agreement between the three countries, the possibility of a Russia-China oil pipeline, and, ultimately, if international pressure is strong enough, the group's acquiescence to Iran in the interests of ending the "Eurasian anti-Western alliance."

Bilderberg Group Accused of Spreading Diseases to Reduce World Population

A post shared on Thought and Conduct Podcast (@thoughtandconductpodcast) on Feb 1, 2018 at 8:52pm PDT

Because of the Bilderberg Group's alleged ties to the Nazis, eugenics, and even Chinese Communism, it has long been believed that one of their goals is to reduce the world's population by any means necessary. Alex Jones of InfoWars fame has accused Bilderberg member Bill Gates of spreading "vaccines" that actually prevent women from carrying viable pregnancies, while writer Brad Olson has accused the Bilderberg Group of developing diseases like AIDS and Ebola that kill massive numbers of people. If there were far fewer people on the planet, the Bilderberg Group would certainly have an easier time establishing their New World Order.

Their Secrecy Has Led to Theories That They Are Part of the Illuminati

The Illuminati, perhaps the most popular conspiracy group in the world, is believed to be directly linked to the Bilderberg Group. One segment of the Illuminati also believes that the world is run by human-reptilian hybrids, which lends credence to these theories when it comes to the Bilderberg Group, but the secrecy surrounding the Bilderberg Group is enough to evoke associations with the famous cabal.

The locations of Bilderberg Group meetings are public, but the conversations that take place between members are as strictly confidential as the participants themselves. The group operates under the Chatham House Rule, meaning “members are free to use the information received, but neither the identity nor affiliation of the speaker(s) nor any other participant may be revealed.” The Bilderberg Group publishes the names of known participants, but there is no guarantee that they reveal everyone present.

Rules Clearly define who can and cannot attend meetings

When it comes to the Bilderberg Group meetings themselves, there are more rules than just the Chatham House rule about identities and privacy. During their annual meeting: “Invited guests must come alone; no wives, girlfriends, husbands, or boyfriends. Personal assistants (meaning security, bodyguards, CIA or other secret service personnel) may not attend the conference and must eat in a separate room. (Also) Guests are strictly forbidden from giving interviews to journalists” or divulging anything that happens at the meetings. Host governments provide general security to keep out outsiders.”

When the group met in Chantilly, Virginia, in 2017, the Westfields Marriott Hotel was closed and trees and other shrubbery were planted to protect the event. In 2015, when the group met in Austria, security was just as tight, but that didn’t stop protesters from making their presence known, as happens every year.

Less than 25% of Participants Are Women

Over its half-century of existence, the Bilderberg Group has invited prominent men and women from around the world to attend its meetings, with about one-third of those attending being political leaders. The rest are “from industry, finance, academia, labour and communications”, but overall, only about 25% of the most recent list of participants were women. The group did not begin inviting women to join until the early 1970s, and even then many male participants resisted. Women such as former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and former US National Security Advisor Condoleezza Rice have attended in the past, but overall they remain significantly outnumbered.

However, Margaret Thatcher’s presence led to widespread speculation that it was the end of her in British politics. After appearing at a meeting in 1975, “the Bilderberg boys said they had to get rid of her, so they replaced her with a trapeze artist [John Major’s father worked in the circus] from the same party.” Other sources indicate that Henry Kissinger immediately approached Thatcher.

Terrorists Accuse Group of Global Interference

The Bilderberg Group has been called a “terrorist organization,” but terrorist organizations also use it to justify their actions. Some of the deadliest terrorist attacks have been carried out by people who believed in the power and conspiracy of the Bilderberg Group, including “Oklahoma City bomber Timothy McVeigh, London suicide bomber David Copeland, and Osama Bin Laden.” By accusing the Bilderberg Group of manipulating national governments in the interests of a New World Order and a global empire, these people have found a justification – or perhaps a scapegoat – for their actions.

Some People Think the Group Is Led by Lizard-Man Hybrids (Reptilians)

According to British author, former professional athlete, and professional conspiracy theorist David Icke, the Bilderberg Group is made up of men and women who are actually reptiles in disguise. These humanoid reptilians are the “embodiment of evil” and dominate the elite classes of society. As the heads of the Bilderberg Group, they are in the perfect position to rule the world and quite possibly destroy the human race.

To be fair, the idea of reptilian people isn’t something Icke came up with on his own, but he does include many theories about them on his website.

Skeptics Think the Group Has Too Much Ego to Get Anything Done

When you look at the list of Bilderberg members and consider that they have three to four days to discuss 15 to 20 major topics, it's hard to believe they'll get much done. According to security analyst Gary Schmitt, with "everyone's commitment to 20 seconds of deep thinking, what ends up happening is a bit of a schmoozing without much to show for it."

The meeting is meant to be an open forum for the exchange of ideas, and the participants probably enjoy their status and the audience, but as Schmitt puts it, "nothing comes of it." Even the participants themselves don't think they have much to be proud of, whether they actually have control over the world's problems or not. In 2005, Bilderberg Group chairman Viscount Etienne Davignon told the media: "When people say this is the secret government of the world, I say that if we were the secret government of the world, we would be ashamed of ourselves."

Puppeteers: Secret Organizations That Rule the World

Conspiracy theories and secret societies have been fascinated by people for centuries. Just imagine: mysterious unions that were both religious and secular, with limited membership. Only select individuals could join them. A little about secret societies Such societies could exert strong control over the entire world. In addition, they had their own strange rituals and great wealth, the origin of which remains unknown. Even today, there are organizations that control the world, making it work the way it does. So let's dive a little into the world of conspiracies and recall the most famous organizations that have often been accused of possessing the secrets of the world.

The Society of Freemasons

It is the Masons who are most often suspected of exerting a strong influence on world politics. It is believed that there is practically no event behind which the shadow of the Masonic brothers would not be hidden. The Society of Freemasons was founded only in 1717. However, there is an opinion that they originate from a much more ancient time – from the heyday of the Templars. The structure of the Society is quite complex: the order is divided into lodges, and each of them has its own rules. One of the most striking differences is that some lodges accepted women, while in others it was strictly forbidden.

This society still exists. It is believed that at present there are about 4 million people among its members. These are very prominent personalities: political leaders, and the richest entrepreneurs. In history, you can also find many influential Masons. For example, the Founding Fathers of America were also members of the lodge. The Masonic order is surrounded by a huge number of myths and legends, so it is difficult to say which of them are true and which are pure fiction. Now the main activity of the lodges is charity: each member upon joining must donate funds that will be spent on good deeds. One of the mandatory requirements for becoming a Mason is faith in God. Atheists are not allowed into this order at all. However, they do not differentiate between religions.

This secret organization was created by two influential people. They were the American diplomat Henry Kissinger and David Rockefeller. People who are interested in conspiracy theories are of the opinion that this group is the secret world government. This group was founded in 1954. The first meeting was held at the Bilderberg Hotel, which gave it its name. There are 130 members in this club, although the number may vary. It includes political leaders (even presidents), diplomats, leading entrepreneurs, and bankers. Over the years, Margaret Thatcher, Hilary Clinton, Emmanuel Macron, and many other famous people who have a strong influence on the country's policy could be seen at the meetings. However, there are only 5 permanent members, among them the founder Henry Kissinger.

Trilateral Commission

It is known that David Rockefeller participated in the creation of another secret society, namely the Trilateral Commission. It was founded in 1973 and united three zones: North America, Asia and Western Europe. Its main feature is that it is not directly connected with government administrations. Conspiracy theorists believe that the goal of this group is to make America a world leader, strengthening its hegemony. However, according to official information, they create an opportunity for dialogue between the most powerful world powers. Currently, the society has 390 members, who annually publish reports of their meetings for public review. So it cannot be called completely secret.

Illuminati

Russians know the Illuminati better from the novel “Angels and Demons” by Dan Brown. However, in reality, this order is one of the oldest in the world. The enlightened were accused of trying to take over the world back in 1797. And also of organizing the French Revolution, trying to destroy Christianity.

This society fully justifies the word “secret”. It is not even known for certain whether they still exist or whether the society was really abolished back in 1787.

There is even a theory that the founding fathers were not only Masons but also Illuminati, since in America there are many images of the order's symbol – the All-Seeing Eye. Henry Kissinger, John Rockefeller, and Zbigniew Brzezinski are now considered members of this order.

Skull and Bones

In 1832, a secret society called Skull and Bones was organized at Yale University, which is part of the Ivy League. William Russell is considered to be its founder, although this is not known for certain.

Only representatives of the American aristocracy can join this society. It was they who chose the image of a human skull and bones as their coat of arms, and the number 322 underneath. It represents the year of death of Demosthenes, who is considered the progenitor of the order.

The headquarters of the society is located on the campus of Yale University in a room called the tomb. All members continue to work closely together after graduation throughout their lives. Now it is believed that the Skull and Bones fraternity includes representatives of the most influential families in the country, who are heirs to political positions or future managers of large companies. Former US President George Bush considered himself a member of the society, but he himself stated that even he could not reveal the secrets of the fraternity.

Bohemian Club

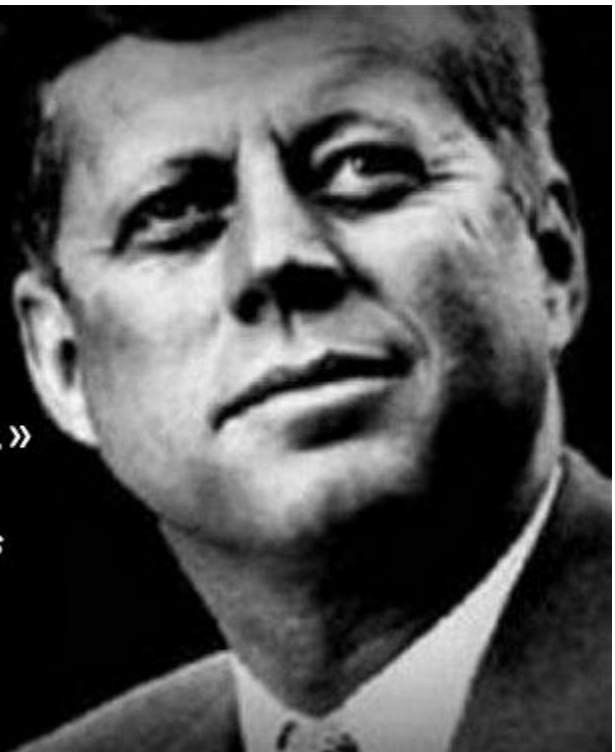

The society was founded in 1872 and brought together creative people. Among the members were musicians, artists, and journalists. Their meeting place was a private club in the Bohemian Grove in San Francisco. However, over time, prominent politicians and presidents began to appear among the members. For example, Richard Nixon and Ronald Reagan were among them.

Today, this society continues to exist and enjoys great influence. Only its members can come to the club, although sometimes guests are invited here. People have to overcome many obstacles to become a member. The club's Charter explicitly states that all deals and problems must be left outside the door, but it is well-known that world problems were also solved here. For example, it was here that the Manhattan Project was discussed, which led to the creation of the first atomic bomb.

«There is a plan in this country to enslave every woman, man, child. Before leaving this high and honorable position, I intend to reveal this plan.»

President John F. Kennedy 7 days before his assassination.

David Icke's Theory "The World is Ruled by Reptiles"

In the West, in the 90s, a rather “impressive” book was published under the title “The Biggest Secret”. Its author was David Icke, who in this book expresses his confidence that the Earth has been inhabited by human reptiles since ancient times – a race of people whose goal is to capture and enslave humanity. According to Icke, these “intelligent” reptiles have already come quite close to achieving their terrible goal.

The book provides detailed explanations about how, while studying distant history, Icke came across a very specific race that physically exists to this day. This is a race consisting of reptiles and called, according to the Sumerian tablets, “Annunaki”.

Dr. D.A. Horn wrote the book “Extraterrestrial Human Origins”, in which he also conducted relevant research, on the basis of which he claims that the connection between man and reptiles began many millennia ago and continues to this day.

These reptilian bloodlines originate from the Caucasus Mountains, from the area of Sumer, or Babylon, where the crossbreeding between reptiles and humans occurred. As a result of the crossbreeding, hybrids appeared – demigods or intermediaries between man and god, some kind of snake kings.

Icke writes that later in Egypt a certain community arose, called the Royal Court of the Dragon. And even after 4000 years, this organization is quite strong. Its leadership is located in England, which, according to Icke, is the epicenter, or headquarters of the network.

Icke’s hypothesis is very similar to science fiction, but this science fiction is full of historicism.

Reptilians ruled the Middle East and neighboring states in various eras of humanity and then became members of European royal families.

Today, only one such royal family remains: all the others perished from revolutions or coups, and were removed from power. And only one line rules to this day, under different names – the Windsors.

In 1689, William of Orange, a Dutchman by nationality, was placed on the English throne. It is with him that every royal family in Europe is connected by kinship. On both sides of the Atlantic, “managers” begin to organize work in their families: the Oppenheimers in the countries of South Africa, and the Rockefellers in America.

You are simply amazed when you delve into the genealogy of American presidents: European royal blood flows in all of them. Almost all presidents are genetic descendants of King Alfred of England and the monarch Charlemagne, who ruled in what is now France. Many such people occupy key positions of power, and all of them, according to Icke, are descendants of reptiles.

It is naive to think that anyone can become president. George Bush, the son of Prescott Bush, a member of the Crossbones Society and the Skull Society, was raised from the very beginning as a future president and holder of power. Bill Clinton, according to the official genealogical Book, is a genetic relative of the House of Windsor. Clinton is considered a member of the Rockefeller family. This explains the fact that an ordinary boy “from the street” receives the Rod scholarship, given by Oxford University only to a select few. There are many such examples...

There are also many people who confidently say that literally before their eyes, many in power are turning into reptiles. How is that possible? It turns out that there is a certain frequency field for reptiles, in which it is difficult for them to be in human form. And if a person’s consciousness at least briefly switches to this frequency, then he can see a reptile without its third-dimensional attire. And there are tons of such eyewitnesses.

Ike is sure that what humanity calls the World of the New Order is in fact a plan of the reptiles who want to create absolute chaos in the world, not disdaining even large-scale wars. The World of the New Order is the structures of a world government, a central bank, a world currency, the disappearance of cash, humanity with implanted microchips, a world army.

The whole point is that the vibration of planet Earth is increasing, and it is becoming increasingly difficult for the reptiles to remain in human form. And the moment will come when the reptiles will no longer be able to hide, and people will finally see their true faces. That is why it is necessary to have time to do a lot.

Of course, Ike's information concerning reptiles can be treated with some distrust, but the fact that the world is ruled by a bunch of people related to each other by family ties cannot be denied. It turns out that the structure of control over the world is a pyramid with other pyramids inside it, the principle of a nesting doll: one inside another, etc. (Not to be confused with fractal healing pyramids built on the principle of the golden section)

If you look at any organization from the outside, you can notice this pyramid principle. Those sitting on the lowest steps of this complex pyramid do not even know what the entire organization is doing. They work at their workplaces, and return to their homes after work, not even knowing that their small labor is combined with another, the same, and eventually turns into something huge and sinister. And only those at the top know about this.

Not long ago, one of the Russian TV channels showed a report about how, after a long search in the 80s of the twentieth century, a policeman and traitor was caught on whose conscience several burned villages in the Smolensk region were. However, out of the blue, Margaret Thatcher and Ronald Reagan began to intercede for this fascist policeman. Isn't it interesting? The announcer explained that these powers that be were saving their agent... However, after Ike's publications explaining the differences between reptiles and ordinary people, a characteristic feature could be seen in the photograph of the traitor. That is, it turns out that this traitor and sadist is not an agent, but someone who is related to his protectors. A community of reptile relatives is a reliable and strong defense.

The main differences between reptiles that immediately catch the eye are: a vertically elongated pupil, an almond-shaped diagram, a pointed and long tongue, and sharp and large teeth.

Until now, no one has managed to more or less reliably reject the Ike doctrine, at the same time the world has somehow become thoughtful. And the number of Ike's supporters is growing every day, which indicates that his chosen direction is correct.

David Icke – The Reptilian Conspiracy

Hailed by some as the “paranoid of the decade,” David Icke warns that shape-shifting reptilian aliens are among us — as our presidents, our royalty, our diplomats, even our entertainers.

David Icke says that world history has been nothing more than a conspiracy against the human race, a campaign waged over thousands of years by the Anunnaki, a secret society of extraterrestrial reptilians. The reptilian race spun the myths that formed the world's religions and cleverly crafted the teachings of various prophets to keep people in a mental prison. The Anunnaki controlled gullible humans and ruled over them as pharaohs, kings, emperors, and various royals. The insidious reptilians are behind secret societies and powerful groups such as the Illuminati, the Bilderbergers, the Trilateral Commission, and the Freemasons.

For those who admit to an innate fear of snakes but can't recall any reptilians walking around as preachers, teachers, or government administrators, that's because the Anunnaki are shapeshifters and can take on human form. Icke claims that famous people are all intergalactic reptiles disguised as humans.

Icke, a native of Leicester, England, wasn't always chasing blood-sucking lizards from other worlds. Until he developed arthritis in 1973, he was a professional footballer for Coventry City and Hereford United. No longer an active player, Icke turned his sporting skills to being a sports announcer for BBC-TV. Politics was also among his main interests, and he was a national spokesman for the British Green Party from 1988 to 1991.

New Age concepts and ideas began to appeal to him, and for a time Icke dressed in turquoise and called himself the "Son of God." Concerned about the health of the planet, he became an environmentalist, but then, somewhere during his studies, he read The Protocols of the Elders of Zion, a well-known Tsarist anti-Semitic forgery, and endorsed the theory of a global conspiracy as true. Icke has said that he very much believed that a small group of Jews despised the larger mass of Jewish people and that this "elite"; worked with non-Jews to precipitate World War I, the Russian Revolution, and World War II. According to Icke's interpretation of world events, this elite cabal of Jews even provided the financial influence that allowed Hitler to come to power and rearm Nazi Germany.

It was in 1998 that Icke pieced together the final sections of the reptilian bloodline. In his book, The Biggest Secret, he recounts meeting two mind control victims, Cathy O'Brien and Arizona Wilder, who claimed they were forced to perform Satanic human sacrifice rituals for high-ranking individuals.

Icke has expounded his views in a number of books and recorded lectures. Among his book titles are the following, all available from Bridge of Love publications: The Biggest Secret: The Book That Will Change the World (1999); Children of the Matrix (2001); Alice in Wonderland and the Disaster of the World Trade Center (2002); and Endless Love Is the Only Truth – Everything Else is Illusion (2005).

In 2011, the Intel Center named Icke the fifth most influential person in alternative media, citing his voluminous writings and his all-day stage appearances that always left his audiences wanting more. According to the Intel Center, Icke may well be one of the most dangerous people to the establishment because of his ability to “convince ordinary people of their enormous power to affect positive change.” Icke is considered by many to explore what he calls “the Fifth Sense Reality,” and provides historical evidence of “some very strange and thought-provoking phenomena.”

Japanese Temple Conceals Ancient Reptilian Statue

Source: <https://www.freaklore.com/japanese-temple-mysteriously-hides-ancient-reptilian-statue>

The Horyu-ji Temple in Japan’s Nara Prefecture has long attracted attention for its unusual statue, which disappeared not long ago. It depicted a seated figure with distinct lizard-like features. According to some researchers, the statue was evidence of the existence of a reptile cult in ancient Japan.

Any finds of this kind are always very interesting, and the cult of reptiles is found in many ancient cultures of the world (Middle East, Africa, Europe, Mesoamerica). Starting with the mysterious humanoid reptilian artifacts discovered by archaeologists during excavations of Al-Ubaid in Iraq, and ending with the documented cult of the crocodile in Ancient Egypt, stories about the feathered serpent worshiped by the Mayans, and, finally, legends about the Slavic god of the underworld Veles. It is difficult to deny that many references to humanoid reptiles should make one think about the real existence of such an ancient race on our planet.

There are also many theories about alien reptiles. These creatures have been living on Earth for a long time, over time they adapted and even allegedly interbred with humans. Hybrids can exist in the world, and in the vastness of the Internet in various videos, you can see that people have snake eyes. It seems suspicious that this statue was suddenly removed from the temple. Most information about it suggests that there was a monument to a potential reptilian in this place and that it was sold around 2017. It is also difficult to find information about this statue in the history of the building itself, since all records were destroyed by fire in 1670, and the temple itself was rebuilt in 1708.

Even if the story of the disappearance of the statue from the Horyu-ji temple turns out to be untrue, it is worth remembering that legends about lizard-like creatures exist in too many isolated cultures to be considered a simple hoax. Something strange and unknown to us must have happened on our planet if artifacts of this kind are found even after thousands of years. It is quite possible that this Japanese temple is just one of the clues on the path to the truth.

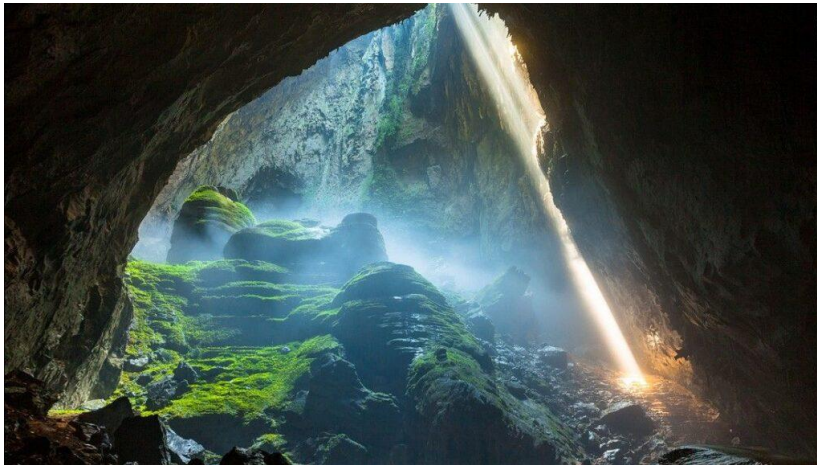

Zeta and Reptilian Underground Base in Dulce (USA)

The US-Zeta joint use bases were built in accordance with the 1954 Greada Treaty. Although some researchers have already counted more than two dozen such bases, only two are known for certain today: the Dulce Base and Area 51 (Dreamland, Groom Lake, S-4, Watertown Streep, Paradise Ranch, The Box).

Built for the purpose of transferring technology from the Zetas to the US Government, each base, however, has its own area of specialization. The Dulce base specializes in Genetic Experiments and Mind Control experiments. The main task of Area 51 is the program of reverse engineering of the Zetas' flying saucers.

The Dulce base was located under the Archuleta Mesa mountain – approximately two and a half miles northwest of the small town of Dulce (New Mexico, USA). The exact location of the base was first established by American electronics scientist Paul Bennewitz in 1979, thanks to his interception and decoding of Zeta communications between the base and ships in the atmosphere and orbit of the Earth. Bennewitz established direct electronic contact with the Zetas and received a wealth of interesting information from them, which he later made public. Gradually, dozens of other sources, independent of Bennewitz, (including Cooper) confirmed his data. In 1999, Branton compiled all the available information about the Dulce base into a book, The Dulce Book. In 2003, Dr. Michael Salla conducted a meticulous scientific analysis of all the available information regarding the Dulce base and published The Dulce Report.

Reptilians Seen in Giant Cave in Vietnam

In the early 1990s, the Son Doong Cave (Hang Son Doong) was accidentally discovered in Vietnam, which is now called the largest cave in the world. The cave is located in Quang Binh Province, in the Phong Nha-Ke Bang National Park, about 500 kilometers south of Hanoi. Even before the discovery of the Son Doong Cave, this place was known for its long and vast caves, which are still almost unexplored.

The total volume of the Son Doong Cave is estimated at 38.5 million square meters. Some internal voids reach a height of 200 meters and a width of 150 meters, and in this part the cave is also considered a record holder.

The age of the Son Doong Cave is estimated at approximately 3 million years. Researchers have so far walked 6.5 km through it, but it is claimed that the cave is much longer. Soon after the discovery of the Son Doong Cave, rumors began to circulate that locals were seeing strange creatures near it. They described them as humanoid, but with reptilian features, and claimed that the creatures lived somewhere in the depths of the cave and that they saw these creatures sometimes coming out. This suspiciously fits with the stories of American soldiers during the Vietnam War, who saw “terrible reptilian people” in the jungle.

In 1970, one of the US military units was based in South Vietnam near the Phong Nha-Ke Bang caves. One day, the soldiers noticed a two-meter “upright humanoid lizard” at the entrance to one of the caves. They immediately opened fire on it, but when they ran to this place after the shooting, they found neither a body nor traces of blood there. This story was told by one of the soldiers on condition of anonymity who claimed that this incident was not officially confirmed and that they decided to simply hush it up.

A large Vietnamese-British research team explored Son Doong Cave in 2009, and in 2013 the cave opened for tourist excursions. And immediately there were reports of people seeing strange reptilian humanoids in the cave. It was even claimed that one of the tourists went missing, having been abducted by these creatures.

In 2015, a murky black-and-white photograph surfaced, which, according to the author, was a “devilish creature” that he noticed during a visit to Son Doong Cave. The eyewitness claimed that the creature had a human body, but its face was more like a lizard or dragon.

By the way, legends about reptile people (or snake people) who live in underground caves are known in many countries. For example, in Cusco, Peru, they say that there is a large network of tunnels underground inhabited by strange creatures associated with the snake deity Amaru. Once upon a time, entrances to these tunnels could be found, but then the authorities of Cusco decided that it was too dangerous for people to go there and gave the order to seal all the entrances.

Excerpts from contacts with reptilians

CONTACT WITH REPTILOIDS IN KRASNOYARSK

I decided not to keep silent about this like many others and wrote to you on the site about my story, which happened to me recently. Together with my boyfriend, I live in a residential area of the city in a nine-story building on the 8th floor. That day I went to bed late; it was about 4 am. When I turned off the light and went to the window to close the blinds, I noticed a strange object above the house opposite. It looked like a fireball, about 2-3 meters in diameter, glowed yellow, and orange at the edges. I then thought that it could be a large Chinese lantern, but it did not fly up as usual but slowly moved over the roof. I was not interested in the UFO topic at that time, and I went to bed.

That night I woke up from an incomprehensible feeling of anxiety and noticed a tall dark figure near the bed. Out of the corner of my eye, I saw that my boyfriend was sleeping. This creature sat down next to me and had some metal object in its hands. The blanket was thrown back, and I saw that the creature was doing some manipulations over my stomach. I did not feel pain, my body was numb. I gathered my strength and raised myself up on my hands. It turned its head in my direction and a second later everything went dark before my eyes, I don't even remember how I fell onto the pillow.

I woke up in the morning. I noticed 8 red dots in the lower abdomen as if from injections and pain when pressed. I remembered the creature's appearance well, it had a proportional human figure, and the face also looked like a human one, with a sharp chin, thin lips, and protruding cheekbones, but the eyes struck me. They were huge in size, probably half the size of a face, with a vertical pupil like a cat's, red.

A week later I saw a glowing ball in the sky again, it was about 2 am. It was higher than the last time and was moving towards our house, then it disappeared from view. I waited for a while and went to bed. I don't remember what happened that night. I didn't tell anyone about what happened, there was no fear, only curiosity.

The next night I really hoped that I would see a UFO again and maybe I would have time to talk to this creature. I asked myself the question "When will you come again?" and heard the answer, it surprised me. The creature greeted me and said that its work with me was finished, and I was not suitable for them due to health reasons. It's interesting that when I closed my eyes, I saw its well-lit face, it was in some room, but as soon as I opened my eyes, the picture disappeared.

I asked how it heard my question and how does this communication happen? He replied that they have special technologies that allow them to monitor the thoughts of every person on Earth. Human thought forms are filtered with the help of technology, and thanks to this they can identify unauthorized contact with their kind or track those people on whom they conduct experiments. He said that I only need to remember his face well, and this can be noticed by their "observers". I asked him why your ships are so small and spherical, because many eyewitnesses talk about a disc-shaped form? The alien said that today I will have the opportunity to see their ship of a different shape, it is nearby. I got out of bed and went to the kitchen to the window. He said that when their ship flies closer, he will open the opportunity for me to view it. He said that their ships are disguised from people in several ways, sometimes it is a telepathic influence, a person thinks that he sees just the sky, although there may be their ship, and only through a camera can you see it.

After some time, I saw a pyramidal object glowing orange in the sky. It is difficult to say how big it was, it was very big. It was turned towards me with one side, its base was parallel to the horizon line, its shape was like an isosceles triangle. Then the object began to rise into the sky and disappeared into the clouds.

PS: After everything that happened, I had questions about why they were watching people, what are these experiments for, and why are they hiding if they were stronger than us. Also, when I saw the image of a Masonic sign on a dollar bill (a triangle in rays of light with an eye), it reminded me of that glowing orange pyramidal object, and the “eye” is a symbol of surveillance, because as the alien said, they are watching people.

CONTACT WITH REPTILOIDS IN CRIMEA

(Excerpt)

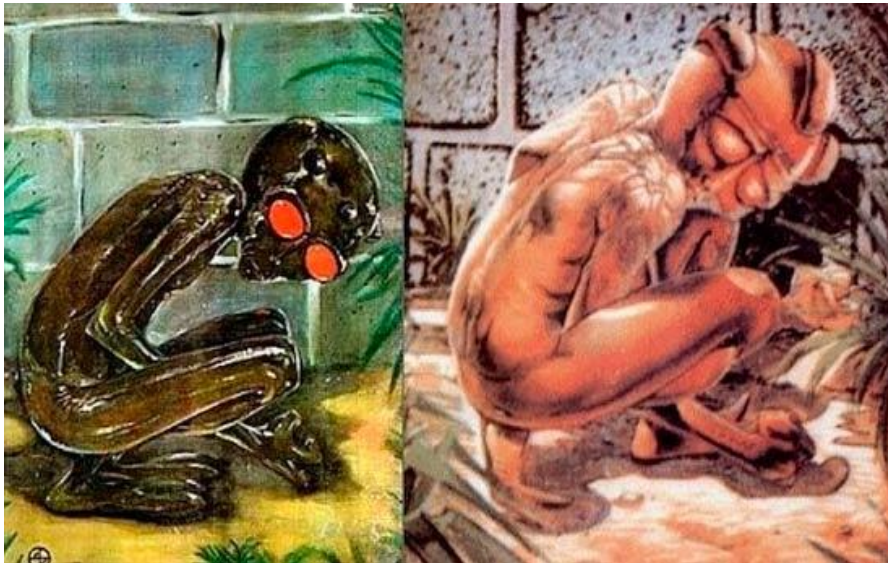

The contact began with me waking up at night, motionless, just opening my eyes, and realizing that I couldn't move. I could only move my eyes. A bright neon light filled the room, the source of the light was not visible, but it was falling from somewhere outside the window. A blinding flash, a shiver through my body – and I felt that I was no longer lying on a bed, but on a metal table, which was really cold, in some kind of room like an operating room. But this room was just empty. Matte white light was coming from everywhere, and the sources of this light were not visible. As if the whole room was one lamp. The light was neon, there were no nets anywhere.

I was amazed that I immediately got there, without flying anywhere, I don't remember that. In my room on the 6th floor, both the window and the door were closed. It was probably teleportation. I saw several strange-looking creatures near me: tall, lizard-like, typical reptiles with scaly skin stood around me. There were 5-7 of them. Their faces were longish, with thin necks, and snake-like eyes with vertical pupils. They had a comb on their heads and a small hump, but it did not stick out much. They were all naked, without clothes. Among them were females – I understood this by the presence of breasts on some of the creatures. Two other creatures that were in the distance also came into my field of vision – with gray skin, thin, with large bald heads and pure black eyes, their skin was also like snakes. The gray-skinned ones, as I understood, were hand and foot for the reptiles, like servants. Basically, they did all the auxiliary work. I really wanted to examine them in more detail, but because I could not move, I could not. I screamed in horror, but to my even greater horror, when I screamed, for some reason I couldn't hear my own voice! ...

The creatures stood over me as if I were dead, I repeat, I was completely immobilized, and they operated on me with various instruments, examined my genitals, and, as I understood, removed my egg.

THE DEVIL OR THE RED-EYED POOR MAN FROM ANOTHER PLANET

(Excerpt)

The city of Varinga is located in Brazil. According to ufologists, this place is popular with aliens. In January 1996, something unusual happened in Varinga. Three girls were returning from work. Suddenly, in a vacant lot, a few meters in front of them, they saw a strange creature, crouched by a concrete wall. Its appearance was terrifying. It was about one and a half meters tall, its skin was dark brown and seemed oily. Its head was large, with three cone-shaped protrusions on it, and its eyes emitted a red light. The girls decided that it was the devil. There was a police squad nearby. After listening to the story of the terrified girls, the police went to intercept it.

The red-eyed creature, limping, tried to cross the road. One of the policemen touched the body of the “devil” with his bare hand, for which he paid. Three weeks later, he fell ill. The doctors were unable to make a diagnosis. The policeman died of a mysterious infection. The mysterious creature was taken to the hospital’s surgical department. They tried to operate on the “patient’s” broken lower limb, and most importantly, they began to examine him thoroughly. However, the results of the studies were not available to the general public, because the military, who always react to extreme situations with lightning speed, immediately became interested in this incident. The army authorities vetoed the information. And ufologists were left to be satisfied with only crumbs that leaked through the curtains of secrecy.

MEETING WITH THE REPTILOIDS OF JIM SPARKS

(Excerpt)

It happened one night in May 1995. Around half past three in the morning, Jim Sparks, a landowner living in a small town in Northern California, was awakened by a strange sound. Resembling a low-frequency buzz, it gradually turned into a deafeningly loud howl. Jim realized with horror that he was paralyzed, and he could not move either his arms or legs. His body rose above the bed and floated toward the wall, which was becoming transparent before his eyes. When Sparks realized that he was passing through the wall, he lost consciousness. Jim came to when his body slowly descended onto the territory of an abandoned amusement park. The fear passed. He even liked the feeling of his body flying through the air.

Having landed, Sparks saw that tall humanoid creatures were standing in a semicircle not far from him.

The aliens entered into telepathic communication with Jim and it seemed to him that all those standing were directing their thoughts to the Elder. Communicating with Sparks mentally, the elder alien said that their civilization had long been in contact with the governments of some countries and the leadership of the security forces. As a result, they managed to reach certain agreements that are kept secret from the population, since, according to the leadership, most of the population is not ready to tell them the truth. In particular, an agreement was reached with the governments of several countries to improve the environmental situation on the planet, using alien technologies provided to them, but they violated this agreement. That is why the aliens began to turn to ordinary people.

According to the alien, the air, soil, and water of the Earth are already so poisoned that several breaks have formed in the human food chain. The planet is overpopulated to a critical level. But there are other ways to provide the population with food and energy. And without harming the environment. The governments of some countries are familiar with these technologies, but they are not taking any action.

At the end of the conversation, the alien said that in the near future, the population of the Earth will receive more information. After the conversation was over, Jim asked the aliens to show him their true appearance. The aliens warned that their true appearance could scare Sparks, but he insisted on his own.

A glowing spot of a greenish hue appeared in the air next to the aliens, which gradually became brighter and brighter. It illuminated the enormous growth of creatures whose bodies were covered with powerful muscles. Their heads resembled snakes. These were representatives of the so-called reptilian civilization. The diamond-shaped eyes glowed with red pupils. Sparks was well aware that if he started trumpeting to the whole world about what the aliens had told him, he would simply be locked up in a mental hospital. That is why he turned to the American writer and journalist, ufologist Linda Moulton Howe for help. It was thanks to Linda that the story received wide publicity.

MEETING IN THE SONORA DESERT

(Excerpt)

An alien was spotted in the Sonoran Desert. The friends were on their usual 24-hour route and decided to stop halfway to relieve themselves. At that moment, they saw a strange, very thin creature, 6 feet tall, with an unsteady, slouching gait, moving along the path.

The further description of the humanoid is simply shocking. Stopping and staring at one of the cyclists, he allowed himself to be examined. Eyes similar to a snake, with a yellow-black stripe in the middle, red and green lines along the length of the face, facial skin as if created from sand. The reptilian had no nose, only 2 black depressions.

REPTILOID ENCOUNTER IN THE SUPERSTITION MOUNTAINS, ARIZONA

(Excerpt)

While I was lying exhausted in a dry riverbed, a human figure in a long dark brown robe, like a hooded robe, came up to me. I could tell it was a woman because the outline of her chest was visible. She sat down next to me, half-turned. There were some tools she was working with lying nearby. I could barely turn my head and get a better look at them.

Her image was photographically imprinted in my memory. Her face was similar to a human's, but she had large red-orange eyes with a vertical pupil, her skin was dark, greenish, her hands were the same color with thin long fingers, and her nose on her face was flat and unnoticeable. When she noticed that I was conscious and looking at her, I don't know what happened, but I seemed to fall into darkness as if I had been turned off.

When I woke up in the morning, I was surprised to feel a lot of strength in myself to go on. I didn't know what kind of creature it was, but it saved my life. I walked along the path until I reached people, where I was helped. My friend who lived in the area warned me about going to these places, he said that many bad things happened there in the old days.

LIZARD MAN ATTACK IN THE USA

(Excerpt)

Meeting at the Swamp On the night of June 29-30, 1988, a young black man named Christopher Davis was returning home from work in his Toyota Celica. Not far from the Scape or Swamp, he had a flat tire. He had to stop and repair it. When the job was done and Christopher had put the jack in the trunk, he suddenly heard a terrible noise. Turning around, he saw a terrible creature with glowing red eyes running towards him across the field at full speed, resembling a huge lizard, and at the same time a man. The disgusting green monster was clearly going to attack the seventeen-year-old boy, but he managed to jump into the car and slam the door in the lizard man's face. Davis stepped on the gas, but the enraged monster managed to jump onto the roof of the Toyota.

Christopher kept increasing the speed, but the rumble was still heard on the roof. The young man abruptly turned the car to the right, and the monster fell to the ground. After the fall, the lizard man, apparently, still tried to pursue the car, but he was unable to catch up with the car.

The terrible summer of 1988 According to the descriptions made by people who happened to see this monster, its height is more than two meters, its skin is green and scaly, and on its hands and feet, there are three fingers with black claws about ten centimeters long. Large eyes glow red in the dark. The creature has phenomenal strength. The strange green monster attacked pets and damaged parked cars. When teenagers Rodney Rolfe and Shane Stokes with their girlfriends were driving past a swamp, a lizard man ran right in front of them. In broad daylight, at 12:30, Edward and Michelle Bryan, returning from a trip to Elmore Monastery, almost collided with a huge bipedal creature on the road. George Hollomon claimed that the monster attacked him when he was getting water from a well. When George told his older brother about the lizard man, he kept demanding that he shut up, Hollomon Jr., shocked, could not shut up. All this could hardly be a prank and looked very serious. Two weeks after the monster attacked Christopher Davis, the police managed to get casts of the monster's feet imprinted on the soil.

The three-toed tracks reached 38 centimeters in length. Johnny Evans, head of the South Carolina Department of Water Resources, was unable to identify the mysterious creature by the tracks. “Most likely,” Evans explained, “it is either a mutant lizard or a creature that has not yet been encountered by modern science.”

INTERVIEW WITH THE REPTILOID LACERTA

(Excerpt)

I, Ole K. from Sweden, officially certify that this interview is absolutely true information. There is no point in me deceiving. I was also skeptical like 99% of ordinary people and also thought that this was a fantasy and invention of my friend, who periodically told me about his contacts with an alien – and a female one at that – I simply did not believe him and laughed. Until December 16th in a city in the south of Sweden, I saw a real non-human in a small house. This is a fact!

These are parts of the deciphered transcript of the interview that I took with the female reptilian alien – Lacerta.

(Excerpts from the Interview)

Question: First of all – who are you? Are you really an earth species or are you of extraterrestrial origin?

Answer: As you can see with your own eyes, I am not a human (!) like you, and to be completely honest – I am not a mammal – despite my partially mammal-like features of the body organs, which are the result of some kind of evolution. I am a female reptile, belonging to a very old race of reptiles (saurians).

We are natural earthlings, and we have lived on this planet for millions of years. We are mentioned in your religious texts like your Christian Bible, and some of the ancient human races knew our presence and some worshiped us, such as the Egyptians, the Incas, and many other old tribes. Your Christian religion has misinterpreted our role in your creation, so we are mentioned as the “evil snake” in human documents.

If you are asking me if I am an extraterrestrial – then I must answer – no. We are natural earthlings. We had and have some colonies in the solar system, but we originate from this planet.

Question: What is your task? Do you have a “job” like us?

Answer: Yes, in your words: I am a student of social behavior of your species (a student of xenobiology).

That is why I am here and talking to you, that is why I have revealed my real nature of existence to your friend and now to you, and that is why I am giving you all that is also classified information and why I will try to answer all questions honestly.

Question: Can you give me a short answer now: Are UFOs (UFOs) really flying “objects” controlled by aliens or do they belong to your species?

Answer: Some of the observed UFOs – as you call them – belong to us, but most do not.

The least of the observed objects-modules actually belong to us, because we are generally very careful with our movements in the atmosphere, and we have special ways of camouflaging our aircraft.

If you are reading a report about a metallic bright grey cigar-shaped cylindrical object with lights, at a height between 20 and 260 meters, and if this object made a very deep buzzing sound, and if there were 5 bright red lights on the metallic surface of the cigar (one on top, one in the middle, two at the end) – then it is likely that some of you have seen one of our ships.

Question: Do you have a special identification symbol by which we can identify your species?

Answer: Another symbol, which is mystical, you would call the “Dragon” – in the form of a circle with seven white stars in the middle. This symbol is much more well-known today.

Question: These seven stars in the second symbol you mentioned – do they represent the Pleiades?

Answer: The Pleiades? These seven stars are the planets and moons, and they are a symbol of our former seven colonies in the solar system. The stars are shown on a blue background, and the dragon circle represents the shape of the Earth. The seven white stars represent the Moon, Mars, Venus and the 4 moons of Jupiter and Saturn, we colonized them in the past. Two colonies are no longer in use and were abandoned due to a war with another race of aliens, so depicting 5 stars would be more correct.

Question: Since you did not allow me to take photographs – which would be very useful to prove your real existence, and the truth of this story – can you describe yourself in more detail?

I can also try to describe myself, but I doubt that other representatives of your species will be able to imagine my real appearance based on ordinary words, because there is an automatic denial of the existence of a reptilian species and any other intelligent species, while your own opinion is part of the programming of your opinion.

Imagine the body of a normal human woman. Like you, I have a head, two arms, two legs – supports of two feet in length, and the dimensions of my body are similar to yours.

Because I am female, I also have two breasts. Despite our origin – reptilians, we began to give milk to our babies during the development process – this happened about 30 million years ago – because it is the best thing.

My skin is mostly green-beige – a paler green – and we have some patterns of brown irregular dots (each dot is 1 – 2 centimeters in size) on our skin and in our face – the patterns are different for both sexes, but women have more, especially in the lower part of the body and on the face.

You can see them in my case as two lines on the eyebrows crossing my forehead, on my cheek, and on my chin. My eyes are much larger than human eyes – for this reason, we can see better in the dark.

We have external round ears, but they are smaller and not as curved as yours, we can hear better because our ears are more sensitive to sounds – we can hear a wider range of sound frequencies.

Our lips are shaped like yours – women have more than men, but are pale brown. Our teeth are very white and strong and a little longer and sharper than your mammal teeth.

We do not have any different hair colors like your species (but there is a tradition to dye hair at different ages) in the original color – like mine – greenish-brown.

Our five fingers are slightly longer and thinner than human fingers. Our palm skin is plain, so we have no lines like you, but the base is a combination of skin structure and brown dots, both sexes have dots on the palm, and we have no fingerprints like you.

If you touch my skin, you will feel that it is smoother than your hairy skin.

The next feature is very different from your body and part of our reptilian origin: if you touch the back of my body, you will feel a hard bony line.

This is not my spine, but a very strong shaped outer structure of skin and tissue located on top of our spine from top to bottom.

There are an extremely large number of nerve endings and large blood vessels in this structure and in the plates – this is the reason why we always get problems after sitting on our chairs – like those in this house.

The main function of these little plates is simply to regulate our body temperature and if we sit under natural or artificial sunlight these plates become more blood-active and the vessels become wider. Therefore the sun can heat our reptilian blood (which circulates through the body and through the plates) to raise the skin temperature, which gives us great pleasure.

How else are we different from your kind? Oh, we have no navel because we were born in a different way to your mammalian birth. Other external differences from your kind are minor and I think I should not mention them all now because most of them are not visible if we wear clothes.

I hope that the description of my body was detailed enough.

Question: What do you eat?

Answer: Generally different foods like you: meat, fruits, vegetables, special types of mushrooms (from underground farms) and other foods.

The main difference between you and us is that we must eat meat because our bodies need proteins. We cannot live as complete vegetarians like your species because our bodies would stop working and we would die after a few weeks or perhaps months without meat.

Many of us eat raw meat and other foods that would be disgusting to you. Personally, I prefer cooked meat and fruits from the surface of the earth, like apples or oranges.

Question: Can you tell me something about the natural history and evolution of your species? How old is your species? Did you evolve from primitive reptiles?

Answer: Oh, it is a very long and complicated story, and it certainly sounds incredible to you, but it is true. I will try to explain it briefly. About 65 million years ago, many of our old ancestors from the dinosaur race died in a great global cataclysm.

The nuclear winter ended after 200 years. Despite the cataclysm, some species were able to survive; fish (like sharks), birds, some creepy mammals (your ancestors), various reptiles like crocodiles, and there was a special kind of small but slightly advanced dinosaurs that evolved together with the last big animals of the reptilian species.

This new reptile walked on two legs and looked like your Iguanodon (it originated in this family), but smaller (about 1.50 meters in height) with some humanoid features – a modified bone structure, a larger skull and brain, a hand with a thumb that was able to grasp things, a different organism from the previous one, more developed eyes in the middle of the head like your eyes, and most importantly – a brain with a new and better structure. This was our direct ancestor. Over millions of years, our species evolved and improved.

About 10 million years ago, our development almost stopped (in fact, there were some minor changes in species, like most humanoid and similar mammals, appearing over the generations).

You see, we are a very old race compared to your species. Which then existed in ape-like form, living in trees at the time when we invented technology, colonized other planets in this system, built large cities on this planet (which disappeared without a trace in the centuries), and designed our own genes while your genes were still at the animal stage.

About a few hundred thousand years ago, another extraterrestrial species reached Earth. And it would be even more surprising if you knew how many different species are here today. The interest of this humanoid species – you call them Elohim or (Tall white aliens) – was not raw materials or copper. They were, to our surprise, advanced humanoid apes.

Despite our presence on this planet, the aliens decided to “help” you evolve a little faster by making you like themselves.

The fate of your species was not really important to us, but we did not like the presence of the “Elohim” on our planet, and they did not like our presence on their new “galactic menagerie”. So, your sixth and seventh variants, created by them, were the reason for the war between us and them. You can read about that war, for example, partly in the book you call “the Bible”, but it is described in a very strange way.

Questioner: No, not now. I have made some notes about your history, and now I would like to ask some questions.

Answer: Please ask.

Question: First of all, you are talking about a very large time scale. You claim that your primitive ancestors lived together with the dinosaurs. Also, your evolution began more than 30 million years ago and was finished 10 million years ago. This sounds incredible to me. Can you say something about this?

Answer: I understand that this must seem incredible to you because you are a young and genetically engineered species. Your historical horizon ends at a scale of only a few thousand years, and you think that this is correct. But it is not.

Your programmed opinion is not capable of operating with such large time scales. Our time of evolution may seem incredibly long to you, but this is the original path of nature. And they evolved slowly over the next millions of years. They are divided into different varieties and shapes, some of them larger, others smaller.

This is the development of the body. But what about their intelligence? They were simple animals. Mammals have evolved since then – we cannot speak of 150 million years, but only of the last 2 – 3 million years, during which they were able to become intelligent and reflective.

Think about it, within this short period of time, creatures like you could have been created by nature? 148 million years are needed to develop animals like you – mammals. And 2 million years of this time to develop (more or less) intelligent creatures like you?!

Ask yourself: Do you really think this accelerated development is natural? Then your species is even more ignorant than I thought. It was not we who developed incorrectly, but you.

Question: You sometimes talk about underground cities and artificial sunlight. Do you mean something like a “Hollow Earth”? Is there a second sun inside our planet?

Answer: No, the Earth is not completely hollow and there is no second sun inside. This story is false and physically impossible (even your species should be intelligent enough not to believe it.) Do you know how much mass the sun must have to produce energy and light for any length of time? Do you really think that there could be a small active sun inside the planet?

When I talk about our underground home, I am talking about large cave systems. The caves you have discovered close to the surface are tiny compared to real caves and huge caverns deep inside the earth (2,000 to 8,000 meters but connected by many hidden tunnels to the surface or surfaces in the vicinity of the caves). And we live in large and developed cities and colonies inside such caves.

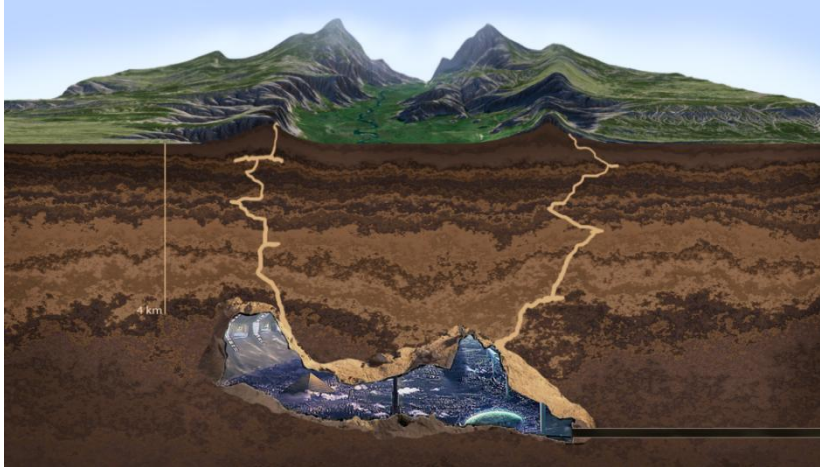

The main areas of our caves are Antarctica, Inner Asia, North America, and Australia. When I speak of artificial sunlight in our cities, I do not mean the real sun, but various technological light sources (including gravity sources) that illuminate the caves and tunnels.

There are special areas of caves and tunnels with strong UV light in each city, and we use them to heat our blood. In addition, we also have some areas of sunny places on the surface in remote areas, especially in America and Australia.

Question: Where can we find such surfaces – near the entrance to your world?

Answer: Do you really think that I will tell you their exact location? If you want to find such an entrance, you must look for it (but I would advise you not to do this.) When I arrived on the surface four days ago, I used an entrance about 300 kilometers north of here, close to a large lake, but I doubt you could find it (there are only a few entrances in this part of the world – more – many more to the north and east.)

As a little advice: if you are in a narrow cave or in a tunnel or even in something that looks like an artificial shaft, and the deeper you go, the smoother the walls become; and if you feel unusual warm air flowing from the depth, or if you hear the sound of flowing air in the ventilation or lift shaft, and find special kind of artificial things; also – if you see a wall with a door made of gray metal, somewhere in the cave – you could try to open that door (but I doubt it); or, you got underground in an ordinary kind of technical room with ventilation systems and lifts into the depth – then this is – probably – the entrance to our world;

If you have reached this place, you should know that we are now aware of your location and are aware of your presence, you are already in big trouble. If you enter the round room, you should look for one of the two reptilian symbols on the walls. If there are no symbols or there are other symbols, you are probably in even more trouble than you think, because not every underground facility belongs to our species.

Some of the new tunnel systems are used by alien races (including hostile races). My general advice if you find yourself in an underground facility that is strange to you is to run as fast as you can.

Question: You mentioned earlier that you use the name “Lasserta” when you are among humans and that you like to be in the real sun on the surface of the earth. But how can you be among humans? You do not resemble us, so anyone will see that you belong to another species. Why has no one seen and described the emergence of beings like you, if your species has been living, since our “creation,” together with us on the same planet? Can you explain this to me?

Answer: First, my species was certainly seen and described (and many times) in your primitive past, for example in your religious books, like the Christian Bible. You can find descriptions, and even simple drawings of our species also in the southern part of the American continent on various temples.

The so-called “wise” people from India and the Asian mountains have described our species many times in letters, along with other “wise” people from the African continent. I think that we are the most mentioned non-human species (possibly also as “Elohim”) in your history. If you do not believe me, look at your history, and you will see the truth in my words. Your “big” scientists called our description “superstition” and “religion” and today “intelligent” people have forgotten our presence on the surface in the past.

Also, our species is seen even today by human means of observing the surface in our original form on earth, or on our surface – near entrances and tunnel systems. Fortunately, you and your media do not take such reports seriously (this is good for us, and this is the reason why we allow people to see us in reality.)

Some of my kind are also in direct contact with human scientists and politicians on the surface, but this is top secret – as many would say – and none of your public knows anything serious about it. But there is also another explanation why we can be among you, and you are not able to recognize us. It is mimicry.

The following may again sound incredible and even disgusting to you, but since you asked, I will not hurt you with this. I told you before that we are more developed mentally than your kind, and by “more developed” I mean that we are able to use telepathy and telekinesis from birth (in fact, mother and newborn child communicate telepathically during the first months) without special training. You can and need to develop telepathy and telekinesis by activating the dormant parts of your brain.

Our brain structure is slightly different from yours, and our pituitary gland is larger and more active than yours. Especially when we are in sunlight. Our own abilities are very strong compared to yours, but weak compared to the consciousness powers of some other alien species. I have never had a good opinion of this state of affairs, but we all have these primordial abilities and can use them, for example, for our defense or even for attack.

When we are on the surface, and meet people (even a large group – it does not really matter, all your minds are like one consciousness) we are able to “touch” their consciousness and stimulate them through telepathy, with the command “See us as one of your kind” and the weak human consciousness will accept this order without discussion, and they will see us (despite our reptilian appearance) as normal people.

I have done this many times with you too, weak people generally see me as an attractive brunette woman because I created this special “mimicry image” a long time ago and I can instill it into your minds without problems.

Question: How do you appear in photographs?

Answer: This is a stupid question. I appear in photographs as a true reptile because I cannot influence the photograph or the camera itself, but only the opinions of the photographers. If he or she were to make a film and show the photographs to others, they would see me in my original form.

This is the reason why it is forbidden for our kind to be filmed or photographed, and we must avoid every camera on the surface (which is very difficult, and we have been filmed sometimes in the past without our knowledge, especially by some of your government and secret services).

Question: What other commands can your kind induce into our minds?
Something like “Serve you” or “Obey”?

Answer: This is again a strange question. We are not your enemies (most of us), so why should we do this? To answer your question: it is fear of human opinion and that reptilian hostility. There is no one who “Serves us”, or “Serves me”. Such a command is much harder to instill.

If human consciousness and community opinions are weak, and the reptilian has experience in these things and also spends several hours in the sun before he or she tries it, then it could probably work for a while. There is a secret teaching about such things, but I have never learned anything about it. I use my primal abilities for mimicry and for communication with my own kind – and sometimes for other private things, but I have never used them to harm people or their consciousness.

It would be best for me if we end our dialogue with this topic.

Question: Last question. You said earlier that you can hide your UFOs? Do you use the same abilities to do this?

Answer: Yes, but on a technical basis. There is a powerful device inside each ship that can send an artificial signal to your mind to convince you that you are seeing something, or only the sky, or that you are seeing a normal aircraft, like your aircraft, instead of our ships. This is not used often, because we avoid the human public when moving in the atmosphere.

If you are able to see our “UFOs”, it means that the device has been damaged or deactivated for some reason. The camouflage effect does not work on photographs – to answer this possible question of yours already in advance – that is why if someone takes a photo of the sky, he can see something unusual there.

By the way, most of the surfaces near the entrance indicate our tunnels are also hidden with such a device, and you will see only normal cave walls instead of a door. This is one of the reasons why I said I doubt you will be able to find such a secret door to our world (although it has happened several times in the past.)

Question: Back to your history and ours, actually. You mentioned the race of “Elohim”, those who created our human race. Where are they from, where do they arrive, and how are they referred to? What exactly happened when they arrived? Are they our “God”?

Answer: Yes. The “Illojiim” (Elohim) came from this universe, from the solar system you call “Aldebaran” on your maps. They were a very highly evolved humanoid species – usually had very light blond hair and very white skin (they avoided sunlight because it damaged their skin and their eyes (this was absolutely unbelievable for us, who love the sun). They seemed to be intelligent and peaceful at first, and we began to maintain more or less friendly relations with them.

But later they revealed their real intentions and plans: they wanted to develop a new breed of “monkeys”, and we were alarmed by their plans to create their new “zoo planet”. At first, they captured 10,000 or perhaps even 20,000 of your simian ancestors and were absent from the planet for several hundred years. When they returned, they brought (now a larger number) of your ancestors back.

After that, they left Earth again for several thousand years, and the primitive ancestors of humans lived together with us without any problems (they were only afraid of our ships and technology). The Illojiim had access to their consciousness and enlarged their brains. They changed their body structure and they were now able to use tools and fire.

The Illojiim came seven times and accelerated the speed of development of some of your species. You must understand that you are not the first human civilization on the planet. The first more advanced humans (who lived at the same time as the less advanced ancestors of humans because the Illojiim experimented with different speeds and stages of development) with technology and speech, existed about 700,000 years ago on this planet.

This genetically advanced human species lived with us, but they avoided contact with my species because the Illojiim teachers warned them with misleading intent that we were evil beings and that we were subordinate to them.

After several centuries, the aliens' interest in their first creation was withdrawn, and they accelerated the evolution of the second and better test species, and so on and so forth. It is also true that your modern human civilization is not the first on this planet Earth, but already the seventh.

The last creation of the seventh civilization of your series was started only 8,500 years ago, and this is the only creation that you can remember and to which your religious letters refer. You rely on archaeological and paleontological forgeries that show you an incorrect and short past. But how do you know anything about these six civilizations before?

And if you find evidence of their existence, you deny and distort the facts. This is partly the programming of your consciousness and partly pure ignorance. I will inform you further only about your seventh creations, because the six previous humanity is lost, and therefore they should not concern you.

There was a long war between us and the "Illojiim". The last battles in this war were fought about 5,000 years ago in orbit and on the surface. The aliens used powerful sonic weapons to destroy our underground cities, but on the other hand, we were able to destroy many of their surface installations and bases in their place. The people of your kind were very frightened when they watched these battles, and they wrote it down in the form of religious myths (their consciousness was not able to understand what was really happening).

The "Illojiim" – who appeared as "gods" to the sixth and seventh of your races – told them that this was a war between good and evil and that they were the good and we were the evil race. It depends, of course, on your point of view.

This was our planet before they arrived, and before they began their development project with your kindness. In my opinion, it was our right to fight for our planet.

Many of us have been in contact with some of the more southern tribes of your species for many centuries, and we have been able to convince some of them that we are not “Evil,” but the aliens did not want them to believe that.

Your current civilization does not know anything about your real origins, your real past, and your real world and universe. And you know very little about us and our past. And you know nothing about the events that will happen in the near future. Until you understand and believe my words.

Question: How many alien races are active on Earth at present?

Answer: As far as we know, 14 species. 11 from this universe, 2 from another “bubble,” and 1 very advanced species from a very different universe from ours.

Question: What do you mean by “one species came from a very different Universe than ours”?

Answer: Before I can begin to explain what is correct for you, you must understand the universe, and that would mean, perhaps uselessly, training your consciousness (including removing some barriers) for many weeks and in combination with training not only in words. I said this with your word “field” or “level” because, again, there is no better word in your vocabulary. And dimension would be completely wrong in this case (it is quite wrong even for another “bubble”) because dimension cannot exist without fields.

If you were a species living in another field or level and if you were furthermore able to enter that field without technology so that your body would transform into one of those types of matter, you know, then you would be the most powerful being alive. This highly advanced race that I mentioned did not evolve here, and in fact, they have evolved over billions of years.

They could destroy all of you and us with just one single thought. We have only been in contact with them 3 times in our entire history because their interest in your planet is different from that of all other races. They pose no danger to you or us.

Question: What would happen if a war with them began?

Answer: This is difficult to answer. It depends on the enemy race and their tactics. “War” is not always the primitive events that you imagine, “War” can be fought on many different levels.

One possibility they may use is to “destroy” your social system by influencing political leaders, another is to use powerful weapons systems that can cause earthquakes volcanic eruptions, or other disasters (including weather disasters) that may seem natural to you.

The copper alloy – which I mentioned earlier – has special fields that can influence your weather in the world. I think that they will not directly attack the planet before human civilization is weakened because even you have the ability to destroy their technology (but not many). I am not allowed to say that we are absolutely sure whether such a war will actually happen in the next few years. I do not want to talk about it further.

Question: This is the end of the interview. Do you have anything to say?

Answer: Open your eyes and see. Do not believe only your false history or your scientists or your politicians. Some of them know the truth about various events, but they do not tell them to the public to avoid confusion and panic. I think that your species is not so bad – so thinks a part of my kind – and it would be a pity to see your end. That is all I can say. Go into your world with open eyes and you will see – or perhaps not. Your kind is not aware at all.

Question: Do you think that many will believe that this interview is true?

Answer: No, but it is an interesting experiment for my social studies.

Conversation with an alien from the race of Creators of humanity

(Excerpt)

QUESTION: The Second World War claimed 55 million killed and 35 million wounded. In addition, there are 5 million missing, who are probably also dead. Was it permissible to allow such a sacrifice, if you are Missionaries of Peace and have the power to defeat the earthly powers that be?

ASHTAR: This question is posed from your point of view. From our point of view, everything looks completely different...

We are studying the reasons for this immaturity. Whether a person dies sooner or later, whether he perishes in a war or becomes a victim of a catastrophe – this is immaterial. You do not yet know that death does not exist and after the loss of the material body, the spiritual world and the world of retribution for sins await you.

Therefore, we see no reason to delay or prevent the total destruction of all mankind.

But we have an enemy and he would be very happy if he could destroy part of our creation. For him, it would be a victory. Most likely, this is the reason for us to prevent the global destruction of the Earth. But the main thing is the intention to ennoble earthly humanity with the help of detailed explanations and thereby confirm the purpose of the Earth. Earthly life should serve not only material development but also make people more mature spiritually. This maturity can never be achieved with the help of successful atheism or false pious vanity.

Of the 55 million people who lost their lives in the World War, almost 54 million did not find any purification of their souls. They went into a world of retribution, not pleasure.

They had learned to fight, they had learned the language and they had some knowledge of science and technology. Only religion remained completely unclear to them. If these 54 million war victims had remained alive, hardly anything would have changed qualitatively in terms of spiritual purification.

If we assume that the war took 2 billion human lives, then almost 2 billion would have gone to the world of retribution, you call it Hell. But the same situation remains when these people die gradually, naturally.

The Americans have proven that they are also guilty of impudence, and they are no exception in this regard. The first test of the atomic bomb proved that they are risking the good of the Earth. The atomic bomb dropped on the civilian population of Japan is further proof that any means are good if it serves the end. Although the Americans do not profess communism, in many cases they act in exactly the same way.

Democracy is a perception of life for which there is still no maturity in society. And communism is not yet ready to be truly communism; the peoples are not yet at all ready for this...

Conclusions

P.S.: Based on my own observations and studying many stories of other people, a certain picture of the world is emerging. In which our Creators have recaptured planet Earth from the reptilian civilization and there is now a cold war between them. It is important for our Creators that we learn the whole truth as late as possible and live separately and develop in our own way, be unique with our own culture and identity. It is also beneficial for their reptilian opponents to hide their existence. This is one of their advantages over us. The reptilians took control of the world elite several hundred years ago. Now they control the governments of many countries, banks, media, secret societies with satanic cults, royal families. Their task is to reduce the population of the Earth to a minimum in various ways: wars, viruses, economic problems, cataclysms, same-sex marriages, they also destabilize countries for the third world nuclear war. Unfortunately, people are weak and everything is going according to their scenario. We cannot do without the help of alien Creators. Our Creators will have to reveal the truth to people ahead of time.