

MLB PLAYOFFS AL DIVISION SERIES

Everything isn't enough in Game 4

The Twins pulled out all the stops Wednesday to try and keep their season going beyond Game 4 of the ALDS, but the Astros showed why they are a postseason dynasty. Twins closer Jhoan Duran, top left, adjusted his cap as he arrived at the mound to pitch in the eighth inning, the last of six pitchers deployed against the formidable Astros lineup. Royce Lewis, top right, ignited the crowd with a first-inning solo homer and celebrated with teammates in the dugout. Fellow rookie Edouard Julien, above, lost his helmet while swinging and missing in the third inning, but looked better when he hit a solo homer in the sixth inning. Willi Castro reacted after striking out in the seventh, one of 14 recorded by the Twins.
