Don Shula sits in his home office in 2010 and talks about turning 80. Shula spent 26 seasons as Dolphins head coach, going 257-133-2 during regular-season play.

TIMELINE

A life and career of tenacity, triumph

A look at some of the key points in the life and career of Miami Dolphins Hall of Fame coach Don Shula.

Jan. 4, 1930: Born in Grand River, Ohio. He later moved to and grew up in Painesville, Ohio.

Jan. 19, 1951: Drafted by the Cleveland Browns, as a defensive back, in the ninth round. Later signs a contract for $5,000.

March 26, 1953: Traded to Colts — along with Carl Taseff, a college teammate and later a longtime assistant coach with Shula — in a 15-player deal.

February 1958: Hired as an assistant coach at University of Virginia.

July 19, 1958: Marries Dorothy Bartish.

March 21, 1960: Hired as defensive backfield coach of the Lions under George Wilson, the man he would later replace as Dolphins coach.

Jan. 8, 1963: Hired to succeed Weeb Ewbank as coach of the Colts. At 33, he is the youngest coach in NFL history.

Sept. 22, 1963: First victory: Colts 20, 49ers 14.

Dec. 27, 1964: Colts lose to Cleveland 27-0 in the NFL championship game (there was no Super Bowl yet).

Dec. 18, 1965: Starts running back Tom Matte at quarterback in place of the injured Gary Cuozzo, who had been subbing for Johnny Unitas. The Colts beat the Rams 20-17 to make the playoffs.

Dec. 26, 1965: Colts, still with running back Matte at quarterback, lose to the Packers 13-10 in overtime, aided by a disputed field goal at the end of regulation.

Dec. 29, 1968: The Colts beat Cleveland 34-0 to win the NFL championship.

Jan. 12, 1969: Baltimore loses 16-7 to the Jets in Super Bowl III, the victory Joe Namath guaranteed and which legitimized the AFL, soon to merge with the established league.

Feb. 18, 1970: Dolphin owner Joe Robbie hires Shula, who is given a 10% ownership stake in the team.

Sept. 27, 1970: Shula's first Dolphins victory: 20-10 over the Oilers.

Dec. 25, 1971: In the longest game in NFL history (82 minutes, 40 seconds), the Dolphins beat Kansas City 27-24 on Garo Yepremian's field goal in the second overtime in the AFC playoffs.

Jan. 16, 1972: Dolphins lose 24-3 to the Cowboys in Super Bowl VI.
